Retired Firemen Honored

Hazards Cited Of Occupation

More than 75 firemen and friends of three retired men of the Kingston Paid Fire Department attended a testimonial dinner for them Thursday night and heard the guest speaker call their occupation the most hazardous kind.

Honored at the event held in Tommy's Restaurant on High Street were former Deputy Chief Harold A. Sanford, who spent 35 years on the department; Edward Noble, 34 years; Clarence Maines, 30 years.

Honored by Association

The dinner sponsored by the Kingston Paid Fire Fighters Benevolent Association also cited a paid fireman with 25 years service, who is still on the department, Walter F. Madajewski.

Attorney Hubert A. Richter called fire fighting the most hazardous occupation in the nation, pointing to the risks taken by men who devote their lives to it.

The guest speaker, who was introduced by the president of the association, Clayton V. Stalter, toastmaster for the dinner, mentioned the Kingston Hospital fire of years ago and the city hall blaze as two of this community's major conflagrations, and pointed to a billion, 300 million annual fire loss in the nation. He said an average of 12,000 people lost their lives every year in fires.

Give Their Lives

Three times as many firemen lose their lives every year as people working in other occupations, Richter said.

"Your lives are on the line always," he told the firemen, and stressed that the local department is undermanned.

Attorney Richter said that people who build buildings are more interested in architectural beauty and utility than in safety, which he couldn't understand. Neither could he understand why there is opposition to sprinkler systems as a means of protecting schools and the children who attend them.

"You can be proud of your retired men," he told the assemblage.

"The Good Book says that 'no greater love hath a man than that he lay down his life for another'" Richter remarked. "We can say that of these men and you firemen, too."

Are Not Selfish

Richter pointed out that while firemen stand ready to sacrifice their lives, people in other occupations are looking for all they can get out of them.

"America is at the crossroads," he said, pointing to the various cases of paylo that are publicized, and which involve people of so-called stature.

Richter said the "what's in it for me" philosophy is bad for America and could send it to the same doom as ancient Rome, which decayed from within, with the fall of morality.

Gifts were presented to the honored guests by President Stalter from the local association and by Secretary Cohn of the state organization.

The recipients all thanked the organizations and especially the local one for its consideration of them.

Shopping Center Developers Want Six More Acres

The Airport Realty Company, developers of a new shopping center on property located on Route 9-W just north of the Kingston city line, today announced the signing of an option to purchase an additional six acre parcel of land adjoining the former Airport Inn property in the town of Ulster.

The option was given by the Donato Brothers who were represented by Attorney Louis DiDonna. Howard C. St. John was the attorney representing the Airport Realty Company. Sale was brought about by Joseph F. Saccoman, local real estate broker.

The Big V Corporation has already started construction of its Super Market on the Airport property. Julie Miron of the Airport Realty stated that the acquisition of the additional property will enable the shopping center to add a great variety of top flight stores to a list of those who have already indicated an interest in the shopping center.

In addition to the Big V Market, other businesses will be located in the area as well as a restaurant and possibly banking facilities.

Steel used in the construction of the shopping center has already arrived in Kingston and the pouring of concrete foundations will start within the next week.

Sullivan to Succeed Deming

New Jersey Educator Principal of Onteora

The Onteora Board of Education, meeting in special session Thursday night, appointed George R. Sullivan of East Brunswick, N. J. as the district principal of the Onteora Central Schools District.

The appointment was made upon the recommendation of District Superintendent Reginald R. Bennett and is effective on July 1, 1961. The appointment also terminated several weeks of exhaustive screening of candidates for the post.

Rochester Graduate

The new Onteora administrator will fill the vacancy created by the resignation of District Principal William H. Deming, who plans to study this summer at Williamstown and then work for his doctorate in education at Cornell University.

Sullivan, who is 45 years old, is married and has four children. He attended Mynderse Academy at Seneca Falls and earned his BS Degree at Cortlandt State Teachers College, majoring in Health and Physical Education. In 1950 he was graduated from the University of Rochester with a Masters Degree in administration and guidance.

During the past year, he has been in residence at Columbia University, working with Dr. Paul R. Mort in a study involving the evaluation of teaching in rural schools. He will receive his doctoral degree from Columbia this June in public school administration.

Was Upstate Principal

Teaching experience was gained by Sullivan at the Romulus Central School and the Holley Central School in western New York.

From 1953 to 1957, he was high school principal at Holley, near Rochester. In 1957, he became high school principal in East Brunswick, N. J. where he played a major role in the creation of a new seven-building campus high school. He worked closely with the architect and contractors and prepared for all equipment.

He also coordinated the activities of 12 lay committees in construction, equipment and curriculum development, and had the chief responsibility in hiring a faculty of 82 teachers for a body of 1350 pupils, whom he later supervised.

In Army Five Years

From 1941 to 1946, Sullivan was in the U. S. Army. During these years he traveled extensively in Europe and rose from the rank of private to his present reserve grade of Lieutenant Colonel.

The advisory committee to the Onteora Board of Education unanimously endorsed the district superintendent's recommendation to the full Board of Education and the latter then voted unanimously to appoint Sullivan as their chief executive officer. The advisory committee of which Mrs. Janet Greene is chairman was appointed some weeks ago by president Philip Gordon. Mrs. Anne Larys and Arthur P. Knight are other members of the committee. This committee and the district superintendent studied 60 or more applications and confidential folders and interviewed twelve candidates before making their recommendation.

Metzer Retires From Troop C, on Force 40 Years

After 40 years of service as a member of Troop C, New York State Police, Trooper John Metzer has retired to take up residence in Stony Point, N. Y., where for the present he will "just do nothing" and enjoy a much needed rest.

Since 1936 Trooper Metzer has been a member of the Bureau of Criminal Investigation of Troop C, Sidney, and much of his services has been in and about Ulster County. He has made many friends who will regret his leaving this area but will rejoice in his well earned retirement.

Was on Big Cases

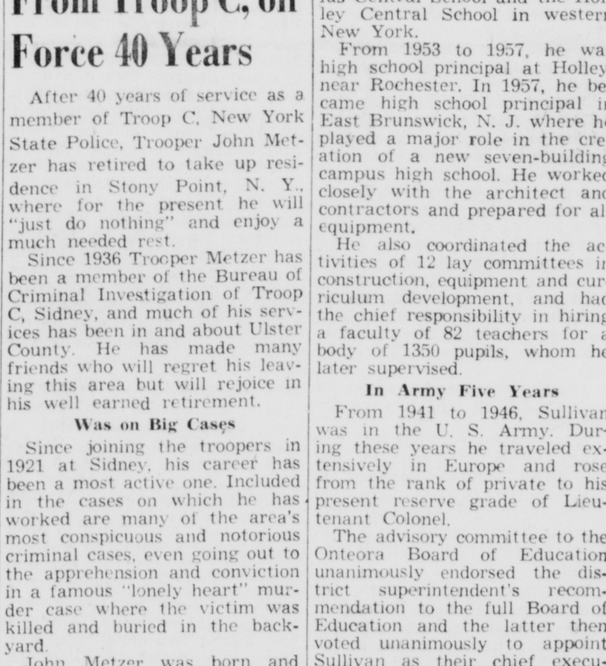

Since joining the troopers in 1921 at Sidney, his career has been a most active one. Included in the cases on which he has worked are many of the area's most conspicuous and notorious criminal cases, even going out to the apprehension and conviction in a famous "lonely heart" murder case where the victim was killed and buried in the backyard.

John Metzer was born and grew up in Binghamton, not far from Sidney where Troop C, New York State Police, headquarters are located.

Served in World War I

During World War I, John Metzer joined the United States Army in 1917, shortly after the United States entered the war. He served with the 104th Field Artillery with the A.E.F. in

Saugerties Group Outlines College Plan to GC Board

The support of Greene County Board of Supervisors for a community college in northern Ulster County (Saugerties) to serve pupils of three counties, including Columbia, was sought by a citizens committee sponsored by Saugerties Area Chamber of Commerce at the board's Thursday afternoon meeting in Catskill.

Miss Grace Anderson of the Saugerties School Interest Committee; Vincent Amrod, president of Saugerties Chamber and Alfred R. MacMullen, Chamber executive secretary attended the meeting and outlined a proposal for the support of a three-county community college.

Requires Further Study

Chairman of the Greene County Board, Arnold Nicholsen of Greenville said today he appointed a community college committee to study all aspects of the proposal.

The committee including George Cobb of Catskill, chairman; Angelo Canna of Cairo and Clarence Lane of Windham were directed to submit an early report.

Nicholsen said the proposal was "worthy of consideration." He said however that the matter of finances and support of such an enterprise would require more comprehensive study.

Amrod said today, the Greene County Board seemed enthusiastic about the proposal, but sup-

Residency Law Voted By Police

Pass Resolution For Job-Holders

Police board action was taken Thursday night toward maintaining residency as a requirement for police department personnel.

The board approved a resolution to that effect and voted to ask action by the corporation counsel and Common Council for preparation and enactment of a suitable local law embracing provisions of a recently adopted state law.

Proposed by Eighmey

A resolution on the proposal by Commissioner Henry P. Eighmey, was approved. It asked that to department rules, as adopted in 1958 be added the local stipulation as to residency.

The rule, in general, provides that all department members be "bona fide residents" of the city. It notes, however, that the state's public officers' law mandates appointment of non-resident persons on a probationary basis, and adds that "all such appointees shall take up official residency within the geographical limits of the city ...before 90 days have elapsed."

Failure to comply with the regulation, it said, "will mean immediate forfiture of the position held, and removal" by the police board. It was noted that the new regulation will be printed and inserted in all copies of the official rules.

Mayor Edwin F. Radel, as the board's president welcomed Joseph Policano, recently appointed commissioner.

Western World Is In Real Trouble, Malik Declares

CORNING, N.Y. (AP) — A former president of the United Nations general assembly has warned that western civilization is in real trouble—both from within and without.

Dr. Charles Habib Malik of Lebanon, in a keynote address Thursday night at the second Corning Conference, said that the Western world has "an incredible infatuation with the sheerly economic."

Former Undersecretary of State Robert Murphy will be moderator tonight of a panel discussion on views from abroad on the individual in the modern world.

Malik said the West is "beleaguered from without and undermined from within. Without, international communism is planning day and night for its burial. And within, some of its finest minds are doubting its age-old values and are beginning to look to strange, new gods for its salvation.

"Western civilization is in real trouble," he said.

Scientific Agriculture Important, Students Told

The importance of agriculture and the need for education in the science of agriculture was stressed Thursday evening at the annual dinner meeting of Kingston Chapter, Future Farmers of America, at S.R.S. Home, Cottekill.

Over 75 Kingston High School "Ag" students, their parents and friends attended the dinner at which Marvin Elliott of Stone Ridge, president of the Kingston Chapter, presided.

Several guests paid tribute to Raphael Klein, agriculture instructor at Kingston High, who has recently been named by the Board of Education to the position of director of adult education to succeed Hubert Hoderath who is retiring.

Dr. Earl F. Soper, superintendent of schools, called attention to the importance of agriculture and pointed out what was happening in China where another crop failure indicated that the country was on the verge of a serious famine.

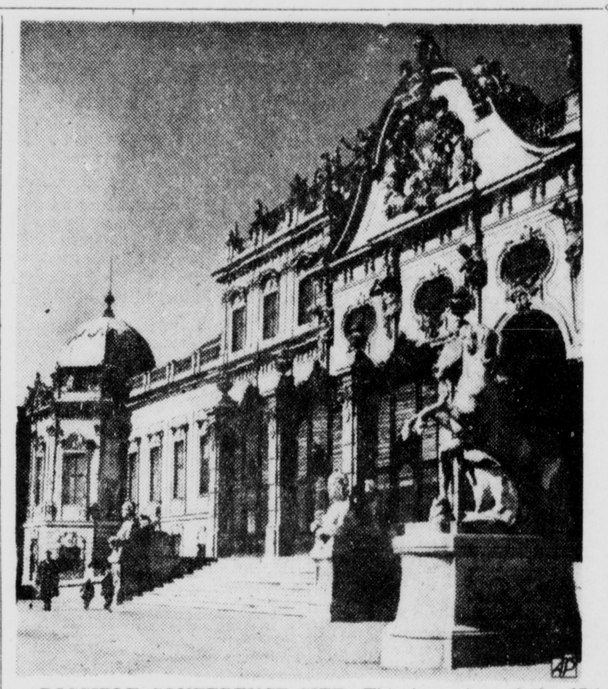

Food may overthrow Red domination of China where all other means have failed, Dr. Soper said.

Dr. Soper spoke of the "comprehensive program" in agriculture at Kingston High School, a program which he said was made to fit the needs of students. He complimented Mr. Klein as director of that program.

William H. Palmer, Ulster County agricultural agent, complimented the members of the F.F.A. Club and said he had "sincere faith in the future of our country" when boys of this calibre were taking an interest in the farming profession. He said the country never had experienced a "food lag" and he advised the young men to continue their efforts along the farming line, attend schools of higher education to qualify them for places in fields "allied to farming."

To Meet in Vienna June 3-4

Agreements Won't Be Goal of JFK, Khrush

WASHINGTON (AP)—President Kennedy and Premier Nikita S. Khrushchev will meet in Vienna June 3 and 4 for a "general exchange of views" on major world issues, the White House announced today.

The announcement ruled out any effort to reach agreement on "the major international problems that involve the interest of many other countries."

Timely Contact

"The meeting will, however, afford a timely and convenient opportunity for the first personal contact between them (Kennedy and Khrushchev) and a general exchange of views on the major issues which affect the relationship between the two countries," the announcement said.

Announcement of the meeting was made simultaneously in Washington, Moscow and London.

It disclosed officially what had been rumored for some time — that after a meeting with French President Charles de Gaulle in Paris May 31-June 2, the President will go directly to Vienna.

Leaving June 3

White House press secretary Pierre Salinger said Kennedy will make the trip on the morning of June 3. It is approximately a two-hour flight.

Diplomatic officials say privately Kennedy's primary interest in meeting Khrushchev is to try through direct personal diplomacy to save the Geneva negotiations on a nuclear weapons test ban. The talks among the United States Britain and the Soviet Union have been deadlocked for many weeks.

In addition, the President is said to feel that it would be useful for him at this time to make clear to Khrushchev that in spite of U. S. reverses in Cuba and

Beginning Made for Big Credit

Hearing Produces Helpful Pointers

Common Council action Thursday night, after a public hearing, which for some proved premature, unanimously gave the green light to a next major stage of urban renewal, in a move to proceed in time to gain the city some $500,000 in facility credit through the building of the Mary's Avenue School.

The hearing, in a sense, appeared unnecessary for residents of the Seventh and Eighth Wards, because a resolution after it, offered by Alderman Frank C. Sass, (D) Seventh Ward, and seconded by Arthur Smith, (D) Eighth Ward, apparently lessened apprehension of residents in the area west of Broadway and minimized or voided their role in last night's hearing.

Slated for Later Projects

The resolution imposed emphasis on a previously stipulated point — that the areas west of Broadway which are tentatively slated for projects 2 and 3, be not directly committed in enactment of last night's legislation. It had been stated before and at the hearing that action asked of the council was to serve as a starter for overall planing, and was sought in time to gain the $500,000 in credit toward the city's share of project costs.

Points brought out at the hearing, however, are likely to be helpful in similar future procedure, since they emphasized factors to be dealt with in projects planed for both the east and west side of the general urban renewal area as it has been mapped, to date.

Data Not Ready Yet

The hearing drew an attendance of some 200. It tended at times to explode into verbal flareups, but was kept in tow by the effective gavel work of Alderman-at-Large Harold L. Kaye.

Residents of the Seventh and Eighth Wards and some in the Project No. 1 area on the west side of lower Broadway, sought information on details which the planners indicated is not available at this time. It dealt largely with specific figures on housing standards to be set, extent of displacement in residential and other areas, property values, and other details.

Points Emphasized

Points emphasized were:

1. That the city and not the state or federal government, or the planners, will set housing standards in project areas.
2. That the entire urban renewal project can be carried out with no cost of consequence on a local basis.
3. That plans can be changed or modified as a project progresses and all procedure is subject to Common Council action.
4. That 90 per cent of rehabilitation will be on the private enterprise basis.
5. That the master plan is due for completion in August.
6. A second project is not expected to start until some four or possibly six years from now.
7. Nothing definite has been determined as to the new location of the Rondout Creek Bridge, which on a map shown last night is aligned over a section of Hasbrouck Avenue.

Held by Regulation

Some of those who spoke at last night's hearing felt that the planners should be prepared with more specific information as

Jersey Trucker Critical After Greene Mishap

A 42-year-old New Jersey truck driver was in critical condition in the Greene County Memorial Hospital this afternoon after the tractor-trailer he was operating went out of control and smashed into a rock cut on the Thruway about seven miles north of Catskill.

Lloyd P. Hayes of Hepatcong apparently fell asleep at the wheel of the vehicle, owned by Apex Trucking Company, Secaucus, N. J., about 5:55 a. m.

Trooper Norman Kilfoyle of the Thruway police said Hayes, proceeding north, went off the right shoulder, continuing 362 feet before striking a rock cut. He was thrown from the cab of the vehicle which was described as demolished.

Hayes suffered a compound fracture of the left leg, multiple lacerations and abrasions and possible internal and chest injuries.

The contents of the trailer, which consisted of foodstuffs, was strawn over the highway. Traffic was confined to one lane.

One Driver Held, Assault Case Is In Local Court

A driver was booked on three charges early today after alleged awry driving on the Washington Avenue viaduct, and a man picked up Thursday afternoon was charged with third degree assault and for alleged endangerment of the health of a minor.

Primo Montafia, of RD 3, Box 205, Kingston, arrested by Officers Frank Stip and Harry Short, was charged with speeding, driving on the wrong side of the viaduct and operating a vehicle while intoxicated. He listed his occupation as labor inspector.

City Judge Aaron E. Klein today put the case over to May 26. He is to be represented by Attorney Sherwood E. Davis. Bail of $100 was posted.

Edward N. Houghtaling, 26, of the West Shore Hotel, was booked by Detective Harold DeGraff, on the assault and endangerment charges. It is alleged that a 14-year-old boy was involved. The case was adjourned to Tuesday night to permit him time to obtain counsel. Bail fixed, at $250 for each charge, was posted.

Merritt Every, of 200 TenBroeck Avenue, charged May 13 with driving while intoxicated, plus stop-sign and traffic light violations, was fined $50. Of that $40 was the first charge, and $5 was imposed for each of the other counts. Attorney Elmor H. Nathan appeared for him.

to the effect projects on property holders before calling a public hearing. That held last night, however, was in compliance with federal regulation, which requires a stipulated outline or designation of plans before money is provided for any one phase of the general urban renewal plan.

The hearing was conducted before the council as a whole after it opened its recessed meeting. Its purpose was explained by Alderman James K. Ryan (D) 10th Ward, council majority leader and chairman of its urban renewal committee, and by George Raymond, of Raymond & May Associates, the city's planning consultants. Attending also were David Ornstein and Daniel Shuster, of Raymond & May, and Mayor Edwin F Radel.

Less Housing Clearance

It was emphasized that final commitment will not be required in the dealing with any project until it gains official approval, that loan periods in project areas will extend 30 to 40 years, and in refinancing loans may be attached to existing mortgages, and that less housing clearance will be involved in the areas west of Broadway than on the east side where the first project is slated to start.

It was noted that the Rondout area has experienced a population loss of 19 per cent in the past 10 years and its loss of business has been considerable.

Schwenk Asks Questions

Former Alderman-at-Large John J. Schwenk spoke first after the purpose of the hearing was explained. He said that from what he had read of urban renewal it entails relocation of property holders, and he wanted to know how this was to be done and where relocation would become effective.

George Raymond explained that what has been done, to date, was on a sample basis, and relocation was to be formulated later." He hoped it would be "mainly within the project area itself. Figures dealing with income of area residents and other data would be compiled, he said, and "when a project plan is formulated, it is carried out over a period of years." It was possible, he said, that new housing would come first.

Mary Donovan, of Spring Street, asked if the state or federal government would have control in a project area, and Raymond said, "None whatever." She then noted that "Lots of people do not care for loans," and asked would they be obliged to take one in connection with a project. Raymond said that if the city decided they would not have to take one, they would not be forced to become indebted.

Would Avoid Good Houses

Mrs. E. Diffley, of Hasbrouck Avenue, was concerned about the taking of property along Hasbrouck Avenue, if the road from the Rondout Creek Bridge is to be built along that street, and Raymond said, he was sure that if the state could avoid taking "good housing" it would do so.

Hazel M. Steed, executive director of the Ulster County Tuberculosis and Health Association, read a statement by George J. Johnson, district social security manager, who was unable to attend. It asked that consideration be given in the urban renewal program to providing housing for aged persons.

More of Aged People

Johnson noted that the nation's population of aged increased nearly two times as fast as the rest of the population in the past 10 years, and in 1960 the population of persons over 65 was 16,559,580. This was 34.7 per cent higher than the 1950 total.

Mrs. Mary Ceysens, director of family service for Catholic Charities of the Archdiocese of New York, said her work also pertained to the aged, and she wanted to know if housing provided could be rented at a "favorable price." Raymond said it would be as reasonable as "could be obtained anywhere."

Would Allow Time

Lawrence Levine, of East Chester Street, who said he owns commercial property in the downtown area slated for a project, wanter to know procedure in acquiring such property, and "how much time would be allowed to get out." Raymond indicated that nothing definite had been decided to date as to such acquisition of sites, but noted that a property holder would be allowed four to six years in which to move.

A. Purcell of Newkirk Avenue wanted to know as to procedure in dealing with mortgages, and was told that those with mortgages in a project area "would not have to worry" about them because "the value of everything would be taken into consideration" in compensating for acquired property.

Purcell also wanted to know what would be done in the event that improvements such as installation of new heating in a home were made prior to acquisition of a property in a project area, and was told that federal officials advise that no improvements other than those needed for normal upkeep of a house should be made, if it is understood that a property is to figure in urban renewal.

Ann Diamond, of 67 West Union Street, wanted to know how project developers could be sure of new industry coming to the downtown area when none appeared to be attracted there now. Raymond said the area would be made more desirable, and experts have figured that a new industrial area is not to be considered unless it is found to be attractive to industry.

No Referendum

In answer to other questions, Raymond noted that no referendum is to be held in conjunction with urban renewal, and that specific answers to a lot of the questions put last night were dependent upon further study and planning, and that many would not be answered until possibly a year from now.

Louis Bucholtz, of West Union Street, felt that the planning consultants were not committing themselves at the hearing any more than they did when planning was up for discussion some time ago at Cornell fire station. He felt that procedure, to date, was a "ring-around-the rosy." They appear to want his property for park purposes, he said, "but they're not going to get it."

Replies to questions put by Alderman Sass revealed that it has been found that generally 20 to 25 per cent of properties in a project area are involved in clearance; that the federal government grants relocation payment and redevelopment of an area can take as long as 10 years.

In the opinion of one, whose name was not caught, deterioration of the downtown area was due in part to business men there and to an element which insists on substandard living.

Others Who Spoke

Among others who spoke were former Sixth Ward Alderman George P. Norton, Jack Marquardt, local radio newscaster, Frank M. Sass, of Hunter Street, father of Alderman Sass, and Edward Norton, of Spring Street.

Low rental housing in the project area, it was indicated during the hearing, will range generally from $41 to $56 in project areas. It was also noted that the federal government has allocated 8½ billion dollars for such housing and redevelopment, and it is expected that another 2½ billion is soon to be available. When it was stated that if cities like Kingston did not move to gain their share, New York would be willing to accept it, a woman was heard to say, "Let them take it there."

The resolution by Sass and Smith stipulated that the plan, as submitted, will in no way commit projects 2 and 3 "to be a reality" without first providing for a definite change relative to clearance areas, relocation data, and a more accurate housing survey as it affects these said projects.

The urban renewal committee report proposing last night's action was adopted, as was the resolution approving the general urban renewal plan. The latter noted that the proposal "is determined to be adequate as an outline of urban renewal activities proposed for the area involved" and serves as "a framework for preparation of urban renewal plans."

It also noted that it is intended that the GNRP "be used to the fullest extent feasible as a guide for the provision of public improvements in such areas." The resolution also pledged the council's cooperation "in helping to carry out the plan."

Points Out 4 Paragraphs

Alderman Francis R. Koenig (D) Ninth Ward, complimented George Raymond for his part in the hearing. Alderman Edward J. Schrowang (R) First Ward, advised that if those interested would read four paragraphs on "How the Plan Works," as given in the recently issued report on the GNRP, they would get a concise presentation of it. The report was recently published in The Freeman.

The Council's urban renewal committee, besides its chairman Alderman Ryan is composed of Alderman Sass, Joseph Tomaszewski (D) Sixth Ward; Lawrence E. Woerner (D) Fourth Ward; Clark W. Myers (R) Second Ward; Joseph F. Carroll Jr., (R) 11th Ward and Samuel J. Perry (R)) Fifth Ward. The latter was unable to attend last night's session, due to illness in his family.

past, attending the dinner were former Chief Joseph L. Murphy, Capt. Wright Maines, Capt. Edward H. (Yank) Albrecht and Harry Richter.

Mayor Edwin F. Radel and Alderman-at-Large Harold Kaye, who had to be at an urban renewal meeting, sent their felicitations, also Chief James M. Brett, who arrived late due to a previous commitment.

President Edward Finch of the Kingston Fire Board was present with Commissioners John Worf and Tiber Tomshaw. Police Chief Robert F. Murphy also attended, and the two fire chaplains, the Rev. Msgr. Stephen P. Connelly and the Rev. Robert T. Shellenberger. Dinner chairman was John J. Berardi.

The dinner closed with prayer for deceased men of the fire department, offered by Chaplain Shellenberger.

WGHQ to Increase Power, $100,000 Expansion Set

An expansion of radio station WGHQ to cost more than $100,000 was announced today by General Manager Harry Thayer.

Bids will be asked next week for construction of three transmitter towers in Port Ewen, each 283 feet high, which will produce the most powerful signal between New York City and Schenectady, accoording to Thayer.

The bids will be also asked for clearing grounds and construction of a transmitter building. The site, consisting of 21 acres, is located behind the Amerling Volkswagen Company. The land was purchased from Zale and Laura Liese and the Costello family.

Thayer said the studios and offices will be located on the second floor of the former News Leader building on Crown Street. The first floor is occupied by Sears Roebuck. A sales office will be maintained in the Amrod building, Saugerties.

Thayer said the target bid for the new signal is Sept. 15.

The bovine quadruped "uddered" a cry of distress and dropped 10 feet into water. Volunteers from the Cottekill Fire Company lassoed the cow and lifted her out.

Barn, Poultry House Burn; Driver Is Held in Collision

Two fires struck Ulster County during the past 24 hours, one leveling a large barn in the Phoenicia area, the other demolishing a poultry house in Sawkill.

The barn, which was used to garage a car destroyed in the blaze, was owned by Ronald "Scotty" Sickler. It was located in Lanesville between Phoenicia and Hunter.

The chicken house, which was not in use at the time, was owned by Ludwig Ritzhaupt of Hallinan Hill, Sawkill.

Mrs. Ritzhaupt suffered second degree burns of the hands when she touched the side of an adjoining building which had been heated by the blaze.

The Sawkill fire also resulted in an incident which produced the arrest of the driver of a Kingston Water Department truck for failure to give the right of way to an emergency vehicle.

Arrested by Chief

Myron DePuy, 72, of 94 Henry Street, operator of the city water truck, was arrested by Chief Wayne Burton of the Sawkill Fire Police. Burton is also a marshal of the Town of Kingston.

The arrest came after the water truck struck a new pumper recently purchased by the Sawkill Fire Company as the fire vehicle was taking on water at Sweet Meadows, intersection of Melissa Lane and the Sawkill Road.

DePuy claimed that he saw the red lights on the fire truck but thought he could get around the vehicle.

He was arraigned before Justice of the Peace Robert Ferrigan, town of Kingston, and the case adjourned to a later date.

Barn Total Loss

The barn, which was a total loss, was described as "all aflame" when volunteers from the Phoenicia and Shandaken fire companies reached the scene. The alarm was sounded about 12:05 a. m.

A car owned by Sickler's son, William, which was garaged in the barn, was lost in the fire. There was little else in the barn of unusual value, according to the report.

Origin of the blaze, which also destroyed an old milkhouse near by, was listed as undetermined. It is believed that the car, which William Sickler had parked in the garage a short time before the fire, may have been a possible sourc of the blaze.

An old horse, which has been owned by the family for many years and was used as a saddle horse by the children, was tethered to a concrete block near the burning structure. The horse dragged the block for about 500 yards, according to Mrs. Karl Bush, wife of the assistant chief of the Phoenicia company. She said it was a "hot fire."

The Sickler family consists of Mr. and Mrs. Sickler and four sons ranging in age from 17 to 23.

Mrs. Sickler's car was parked outside the barn. The front was reported damaged by the heat of the blaze.

A neighboring cottage and an icehouse were also reported to have received minor damage from the fire and heat.

The volunteers were able to protect these and other adjacent buildings, including the home itself, a large structure used as a lodge during summer and hunting seasons. It is able to handle perhaps as many as 50 persons. The home has two dining rooms.

Delay in Reporting

The poultry house fire was reported about 1 p. m. but had a good start before firemen could reach the scene, partly because of delay in reporting the blaze.

Assistant Chief John Reichart of the Sawkill Company said that the person reporting the blaze first dialed the wrong number, then called the telephone operator who notified mutual aid which relayed the message to the fire company. There was a delay of several minutes before the message was received and the fire siren could be soundd.

Reichart told The Freeman that Ritzhaupt was burning brush but let the blaze untended to go into the house for lunch. He was clearing land in preparation for construction of a new chicken house.

Reichert said the wind must have thrown a spark on the tar-paper roof of a poultry house near the burning brush. The structure, which had formerly been used as a poultry house, had been more recently been used for storage. It was one-story high and about 30 feet by 40.

The fire was too far advanced to be halted in time to save the structure.

Mrs. Ritzhaupt burned her hands when she touched the side of a building adjacent to the burning chicken house to ascertain if it was hot. The structure she touched was a two-story poultry house, which was saved.

The fire also got into the woods, Reichert said, but volunteers "knocked it down quickly."

The loss was estimated at between $1,500 and $2,000.

Metzer Retires

France until the end of the war.

On being discharged from service in 1920, he returned to Binghamton but he was not done with the uniform as were many lads who had served during the war. In 1921 he again donned a uniform, this time as a member of the state police. Assigned to Sidney barracks, he served there for a time but most of his 40-year service has been in Ulster County. At the time of his retirement, May 18, 1961, he was assigned to the Highland station as a member of the criminal investigation unit.

Rode Horse Patrol

When Trooper Metzer first came to Ulster County he served as a real "trooper" being assigned to the East Kingston brickyard area where patrol was made on horseback.

In 1936 he was promoted from the uniformed unit to the "plain clothes" BCI and began a career of criminal investigation which he continued until his retirement.

Reviewing some of the most notorious cases in which he participated Trooper Metzer recalled the Isadore Handelman murder at Ellenville in 1937. Isadore Handelman and his aged wife were murdered in their Ellenville home and the house set afire. Charles Brown, Ellenville handyman, was convicted of that crime and sentenced to death in the electric chair at Sing Sing for the first degree murder of the aged couple.

In 1938 Harvey Clancey was killed in front of his Phoenicia barber shop. Charles Ford was accused of the murder and was sent to Matteawan State Hospital for the Criminal Insane, where he died. Metzer participated in the investigation.

In 1944 Peter Takis, who lived in Libertyville, Town of New Paltz, was stabbed to death with a pair of scissors and his body left in the brush across the road from his home. Peter Demetropoulos was accused of that murder and was committed to the Matteawan State Hospital for the Criminal Insane. Takis had been chased and killed as he was returning to his home after feeding chickens. Trooper Metzer recalls that incident and remarked that it was on a Saturday and a Freeman reporter was one of the first to arrive on the scene after discovery of the body.

Other Major Cases

In 1952 Emelina Nusca of Highland was beaten and murdered with a carving knife. After a lengthy investigation which followed a mysterious summons by phone to the Nusca home, Samuel Schiffano was charged with the crime and on a plea of guilty to manslaughter, was sentenced to prison.

During a short tour of duty in Sullivan County, Trooper Metzer in August 1953, participated in investigation of the death of Israel Present, Monticello. The Present bungalow was entered, its owner was tied up and a handkerchief was stuffed in his mouth. He suffocated. That investigation led to a New York trio of thugs who confessed to having robbed and bound the man. Pleading guilty to second degree murder were Thomas O'Hara, Matthew Terrigno and Ray Rico who were sentenced to life imprisonment.

On 'Lonely Heart' Probe

In 1955 Trooper Metzer was called in on the "lonely heart" slaying of Anna Duhanel of Bloomingburg. She had met Alexander Hannus through a "lonely heart" organization. She disappeared and was later found murdered at her summer home near Fishs Eddy, Delaware County. Her body had been buried in the backyard of her property.

Hannus was apprehended and charged with the murder. He entered a plea of guilty to manslaughter and was sentenced to a term at Attica prison.

In his confession of the crime Hannus said he had become lonely, had joined the club and met his victim. After being apprehended he led troopers to the spot where he confessed burying the body.

Was on Curtis Case

Among the latest crimes in Ulster County which Trooper Metzer assisted in "breaking" was the Newton Curtis case in Quarryville. Curtis was accused of killing his brother, Jack Curtis, with a bed slat in a dispute over who should serve as caretaker at a Quarryville hunting club. Curtis, after trial was sentenced to 10 to 20 years in Clinton State Prison.

During his tours of duty in Ulster County Trooper Metzer has been stationed at East Kingston, Phoenicia, Ellenville and Kingston.

Today's Business Mirror

By SAM DAWSON

AP Business News Analyst

NEW YORK (AP)—The rush to buy stocks is sending the prices of many to record highs. But the conquering march of the bulls has brought with it some worrisome camp followers.

1. Stock exchange officials and government watchdogs fear too much of the buying is by unwary novices snapping up untried and often questionable stocks.

Borrowing Growing

2. They fret lest too much of the new speculative money in the markets is from borrowed funds. And if the bears should stage a flanking move on the market these on-the-cuff holdings might give way to threaten a rout of the entire list.

Some of the borrowing is from brokers and banks and this can be measured—and it has been growing.

But if the public wants to speculate it can get the money from other sources harder to measure quickly. It can draw on its savings, and there is evidence it has been doing so. The public can raise money for speculation by borrowing on such assets as homes and insurance policies. How much of this has gone into the rush to buy stocks on the exchanges and the over-the-counter market is hard to guess.

The speculative fever has led stock-exchange officials to warn the unwary against buying out of enthusiasm unbased on facts. Brokerage houses sound the same note. The Securities and Exchange Commission is investigating some of the stock deals and practices in the current bull market.

Watches FRB Reaction

And Wall Street always watches the reaction of the Federal Reserve Board to any upsurge in prices and trading, and especially to the buying on borrowed money.

The Federal Reserve can regulate at least part of these credit purchases by changing the official margin rate. In July 1960 the rate was 90 per cent. But stock prices were weak then and the rate was lowered to 70 per cent.

This meant that you had to put up 70 per cent of a stock's price in cash for any new buying on the regulated stock exchanges. You could borrow up to 30 per cent from your broker. If the price should fall you'd have to put up more cash to stay within the 70 per cent margin.

When markets show signs of running away, the Federal Reserve raises the margin to lessen the flow of credit and put buyers on or close to an all-cash basis. When prices are weak and trading dawdles, the margin usually is cut—sometimes in recent years to 50 per cent, but never back to the fractional lows that preceded the 1929 stock crash.

Seven From Here Attend Public Health Lab Parley

SCHENECTADY — New York State Health Department laboratory workers reported good results today from a test that enables doctors to decide more quickly whether to give penicillin for suspected strep throats.

Dr. Herbert Derman, director of Kingston City Laboratory; Dr. James Kelly, assistant director and five technicians are attending the 45th annual meeting of the State Association of Public Health Laboratories where a paper on the new theory was read to the assembly.

The paper said use of a fluorescent antibody technique can determine in three or four hours whether a throat infection is actually due to streptococcus bacteria, and so calls for penicillin treatment. The commonly used culture test takes 48 hours.

The meeting ended with an analysis of the association's five-year cytology (cell study) program for the detection of early cancer by Dr. Leopold G. Koss, Memorial Hospital for Cancer and Allied Diseases, New York City, and Dr. Derman.

Yesterday a conference on cytology was conducted by Dr. John K. Frost, associate professor of pathoolgy at John Hopkins Hospital, Baltimore and Dr. Koss. At the dinner session last night, Dr. Hans Rozendall, manager of biologic studies at the General Electric Research Laboratory, spoke on "Transatlantic Sailing."

Reunion Slated By 12th Armored During Late July

The 12th Armored (Hellcat) Division will hold its 15th Annual Reunion at the Commodore Perry Hotel, Toledo, Ohio, July 20-22.

One of the top combat units of World War 2, the 12th Armored, was spearhead for both Gen Patton's Third Army and Gen. Patch's Seventh Army in the final months of the European War.

The 12th Armored can be remembered locally as the Division to which many area men were assigned during the fall of 1942.

Former members of the Division in this area may get additional details of the reunion, division association membership or the division's monthly paper "Hellcat News" by contacting Robert Saehlof, 28 Dietz Court.

Coloring Contest Winners Are Named by Savings of Kingston

The board of judges for the Savings and Loan Association of Kingston Coloring Contest conducted in conjunction with the Lions Club Exposition has announced names of 25 children whose entries were selected as the best among thousands submitted by area children.

Each winner received a $5 Savings account at the association's office, 267 Wall Street. Winners who presently have savings accounts had prize money deposited to those accounts by the Association.

A party was held for the 25 winners and their parents as well as the 25 who received honorable mention, at the Wall Street office last Friday evening. Refreshments were served and photographs were taken.

Pictures of the winners and their entries will be on display at the Association's office where the public may view them during office hours. Names of the 25 winners who received the $5 savings accounts follow:

"Because of the unexpectedly large number of entries received and because so many showed originality, neatness and general overall merit," said Van Wyck Darrow, executive vice president of the Association, "the judges decided to also include twenty-five Honorable Mention names of children who received special other prizes. Thus, there were fifty winners all together."

More than 7,000 Sonny Saver coloring books were distributed by the Association at its office on Wall Street and at its booth in the Lions Club Exposition and Home Show at the New York State Armory. Over 5000 children up to the age of 12, from the Kingston and surrounding Ulster County area, individually entered the coloring contest principally though announcements in the Kingston Daily Freeman and elsewhere.

The judges narrowed the entries in three stages; first, to 200 semi-finalists; second to 50 for final decision; finally to the 25 best and the 25 for honorable mention.

"The contest was a huge success," according to William Stall, assistant vice president of Savings and Loan of Kingston. "Using a visually entertaining approach, children and adults of all ages not only learned an important lesson in thrift but also participated in an event that will long be remembered. On behalf of the Association, we wish to thank every one who participated—even the nearly 200 children from out of our area and the nearly 100 from out-of-state."

Cimarron City Stars to Appear At Miracle Mile

Real western cowboys and honest to goodness Indians from Cimarron City, Monticello, will make a special guest appearance at The Miracle Mile Shopping Center on Route 9W, Port Ewen, Saturday, it was announced today by William Richards, manager of Hi-Lo Department Store.

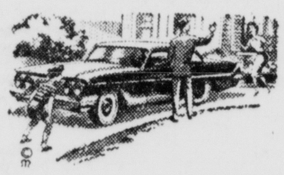

Special performances by Cimarron City's colorful stars at 1:30 and 3:30 p. m. will be open to "kids of all ages."

The Cimarron City entertainers, who set out to prove that all trails lead to Cimarron, located just east of Monticello, on the Route 17 Quickway, are making a pre-season tour of all large shopping centers in the New York, New Jersey and Pennsylvania areas, before settling down in the "most real western town in the whole east."

Cimarron City will open on May 27 for the Decoration Day weekend, will be open weekends in June, and daily from July 1. A paddle wheel river boat, stage coaches, and the Cimarron and Northwest Railroad make excursion trips of the entire area. Wild west shows, rodeos, and historical pageants take place daily. The city also boasts Kit Karson's Rayado Animal Farm, puppet shows, antique autos, posses, and "bestpardos" who are always brought to justice.

Youngsters who visit the Miracle Mile Shopping Center on Saturday, May 20th will see Indian dances and ceremonials led by Comanche Chief Iron Horse, and real western rope tricks demonstrated by Cimarron's cowboys.

Holding promise of even better years to come is an encouraging 50-years-of-health report just issued.

Basis of the findings, which reflect unprecedented reductions in mortality and lengthened life span, is a survey of what happened to a large insurance company's policyholders over the last half century.

Generally, the death rate in 1960 was only about half that prevailing in 1911. Specifically, mortality in the 1-to-74 age bracket fell from 13.5 per thousand persons in 1911 to a mere 4.1 in 1960. It was only in such devastating periods as the 1918 influenza epidemic that steady progress was interrupted.

Significant beneficiaries of mortality reduction are those in childhood and early adult life. In the 1-4 age group, for instance, deaths have been cut more than 90 per cent.

Of note are the means by which progress has been achieved. It reflects advances in medicine, public health and the general standard of living. Medical science and an informed public have combined to drastically reduce tuberculosis (225 per 100,000 in 1911; 5 per 100,000 in 1960), pneumonia and influenza, comunicable childhood diseases, poliomyelitis and maternal mortality.

Casting a pall over this otherwise rosy outlok are the great killers: coronary and other heart diseases and cancer. The former account for more deaths than from all other causes combined. Malignancies rank second.

Increases have been noted in the incidence of both heart diseases and cancer. Encouraging is the intensive research devoted to these diseases, to the probability that part of the increases may be due to the rise in the average age of all persons, and to more accurate diagnosis and reporting of the afflictions.

Far better still than the decrease in mortality rates is lengthening of the life span a whopping 24 years since 1911. Based on expectation of life at birth, persons born in 1911 could look forward to only 46 years of life. The baby born in 1960, by comparison, has a life expectancy of 70.6 years.

That's a gift of 24 years of life, fired in the crucibles of science and wrought on the anvil of the public's greater health knowledge.

Judging by the record thus far, it seems that Congress has discovered a few "not holes" in the Democratic platform.

HEMISPHERIC ALLIANCE?

Secretary of State Dean Rusk, fresh from the Oslo session of the North Atlantic Council, voices confidence that our allies are now convinced of the vital importance to NATO of Cuba, Laos, South Vietnam and The Congo. A resolution "to counter the global as well as the European challenge" of the Red drive was the Council's reaction to "the ever-increasing area of Communist pressure."

All this is commendable, but hardly dramatic. There is about it a sound of hesitancy—as if the 15 ministers were only now catching up with the people, who long ago conceived a true awareness of Communism's worldwide threat. The question arises whether it is not time for something stronger than resolutions.

Do the United States and NATO any longer present a front of sufficient scope against the Moscow-Peiping axis? We talk of defending a hemisphere. Why not, then, a hemispheric alliance? In NATO and the Organization of American States we already have what, if they were combined, would provide the nucleus for an alliance. Such a united front could face the Red juggernaut not with mere roadblocks but with a wall.

The present drift toward a third world war must be stopped. No possible approach to halting it should be neglected. Let us hope that the administration already is giving due consideration to a hemispheric alliance as one more alternative to the prospect of the United States going it alone.

PRESIDENTIAL RESPONSIBILITY

The assumption of many students of Amerman politics is that the President, being the chief executive officer of the United States, who with the Vice-President, is the only nationally elected official, is alone responsible for the conduct of government.

The Founding Fathers had a difficult time getting around the fact that they could not provide for a king in the Constitution. No principal European country, at that time, was without a monarch. Also at the time of the founding of the United States, the office of Prime Minister had not yet developed so that the Head of State was excluded from all executive and administrative functions. George III continued to interfere in the function of the government and Louis XVI had not yet been decapitated.

Upon the President were heaped the responsibilities of the Head of State and those of a Prime Minister. The experiment was a very successful one until the government became so complicated that in some instances the President could not know what was happening in some agencies until he read about it in the newspapers.

For the President then to assume total responsibility for all the activities of government is an absurdity. Even in the conduct of foreign affairs, there are so many agencies, that the President may or may not know, in advance, how each is carrying out his policies.

The State Department is, of course, the central agency of government dealing with foreign relations. But then there is the CIA, an extraordinarily complicated mechanism in charge of espionage, counter-espionage and paramilitary activities (cloak and dagger stuff). Then there is the ICA which distributes the aid we give to foreign countries and in this category there are several other agencies, some strictly American, some international with Americans in charge, using principally American money. The American Ambassador to the United Nations must be considered in the development of foreign policy as he has a day-by-day relationship to it.

It is impossible for the President of the United States to assume personal responsibility for everything men, engaged in the conduct of foreign policy. do, Before he can assume such responsibility, he must have the power to hire and fire every person engaged in handling foreign relations. In the first place, many important officials who hold such offices must be confirmed by the Senate, which can be a limitation upon the President. Then, the Foreign Service employes are part of the Civil Service and can only be dismissed for cause, or removed within the status that they had attained. In some instances, this is a wholesome provision, developing a career service of experts; in other instances it acts as an umbrella for the inefficient, the doctrinaire, the blabber-mouth.

The President's authority thus is limited by law and by practice and while the Boss is always responsible for the entire works, he must not, in a political situation, act as an umbrella for those who should be separated from government because of their errors.

Constitutionally, it is possible to say that the sole responsibility for every executive and administrative act of government rests upon the President, but what of such agencies as TVA or the FCC or the ICC or the World Bank? The Hoover Reports have established beyond doubt the inability of any one man to monitor the whole of the American government or any large part of it.

The people are, of course, not concerned with the details of structure; they look at the facade and blame a President for the whole works. Not since Woodrow Wilson's time has a President had a taut, working Administration, The gargantuan characteristics of administration appeared during World War I and have been growing since. Roosevelt increased the physical size of the Executive branch of government as a phase of his solution of the Depression and finally to supply the needs of World War II. What the Eisenhower Administration found, it retained. The result has been a hardening of a temporary bureaucracy into permanency. Such institutions become entrenched and are not easily moved. Often reorganization problems are best solved by establishing a duplicative agency which only multiplies confusion.

A President can only be responsible for that part of the Administration which he, in his triple position as Head of State, Prime Minister, and Commander-in-Chief of the Armed Forces, can, under the law, control.

Excess of Some Vitamins Can Cause Bodily Upsets

By HAROLD T. HYMAN, M.D.

Written for Newspaper Enterprise Assn.

Q—I have a dear little grandchild whose mother has been giving her concentrated tablets of cod liver oil. My daughter-in-law did this in the hope that the little girl would be saved from having colds during the winter. After a month or so, the child lost her appetite, although she formerly enjoyed her food, and often complained of pains in her stomach. Recently, she has repeatedly lost her supper after going to bed. Do you think this might be due to too many vitamins?

A—I would not presume to make a diagnosis of any medical condition, sight unseen. But I can assure you that the complaints you describe could well be the result of hypervitaminosis.

Although the water soluble vitamins (B1, B6, B12 and C) do not produce distress when given in excess, prolonged overdoses of the fat soluble vitamins (A and D), notably present in cod liver oil concentrates, may cause the symptoms you describe and, in addition, headache, diarrhea, increased thirst and urination and disturbances of calcium (lime) metabolism and of bone.

Since there is no verification of the repeated claims that vitamins have an "anti-infective" action in the well-nourished individual, as I presume your grandchild to be, you might well persuade your daughter-in-law to discontinue the youngster's medication and note the results.

But, I must warn you, better be prepared to skip town if she has the misfortune to catch cold!

Q—In your column on drug-induced Parkinsonism, you failed to say how much tranquilizer might cause this and how long it might take for this complication to develop. I am sure there must be many who, like me, would appreciate this information. Also, how long might the symptoms persist? I have been afflicted for some time although I only took half a tablet, three or four times a week on retiring.

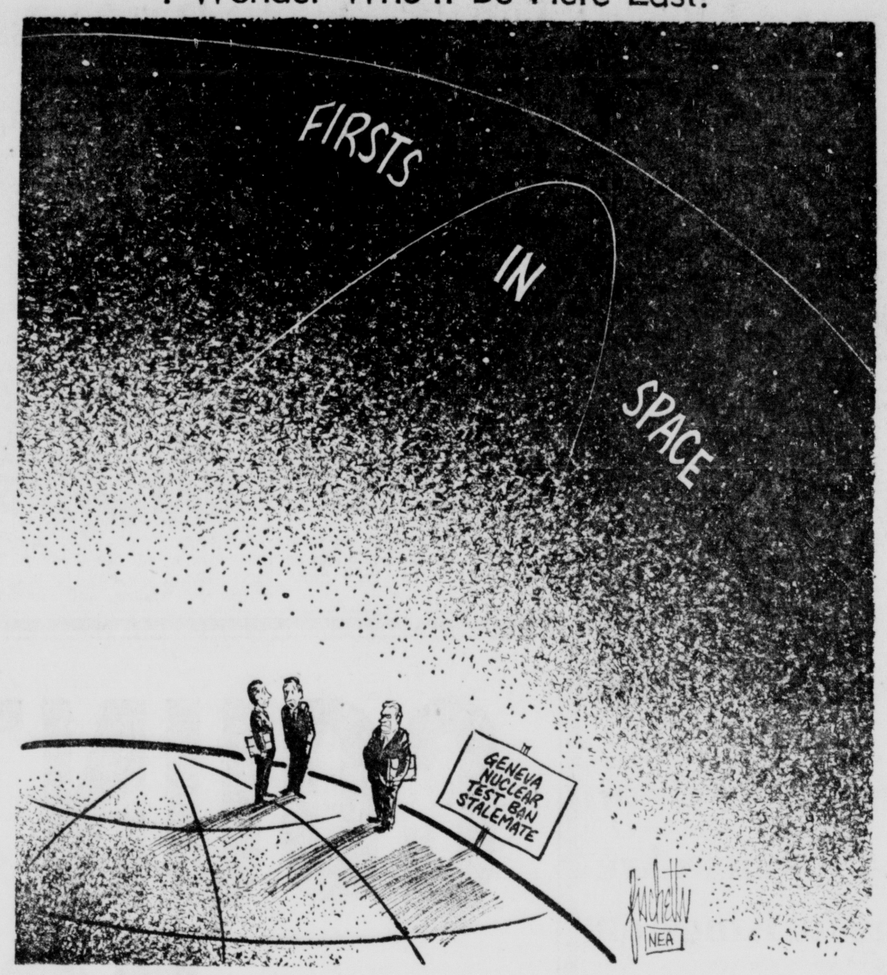

A—Drug-induced Parkinsonism from tranquilizers may occur as an idiosyncrasy. That is to say, it may appear promptly from a relatively small dose, taken over a brief period, if the individual happened to be peculiarly hypersensitive. It may also occur as a cumulative reaction after doses as small as yours, if taken over a prolonged period.

I have already called attention to the regrettable fact that the condition is now becoming so frequent (15.4 per cent in a recent study of 3,775 patients) that one drug manufacturer has launched a vigorous advertising campaign on behalf of a new drug, directed to the specific purpose of preventing or relieving this undesirable side reaction.

Since different tranquilizers appear to differ in their tendency to cause the familiar tremors, head nodding and difficulties in gait that characterize Parkinsonism, I cannot answer all of your questions as precisely as you would wish.

I can tell you that recent work suggests that, in some individuals, the disturbance may persist for at least five weeks. If it persists longer, there is, of course, the possibility that Parkinsonism might have developed even if the drug were never taken.

Integration at Social Events In Private Homes Debated

By DAVID LAWRENCE

WASHINGTON, May 18—An agitation started by spokesmen for the Kennedy administration is stirring up quite a controversy not only over the admission of Negroes to private clubs but their inclusion at cocktail parties and dinners in private homes.

The idea of "token" participation seems to have been rejected as unsatisfactory by many advocates of "integration," the argument being that to select a few is a kind of hypocrisy and that full participation on the basis of the proportion to population is much more equitable.

About 54 per cent of the population of the National Capital is Negro, so it is being argued tthat there must be "equality" and that a failure to provide an equal number of Negroes at cocktail parties and at official as well as private dinners is a form of "discrimination."

Two members of the Kennedy cabinet have spoken out on the subject of admission of Negroes to private clubs, but there has been no indication from them as to the quantitative formula to be used in determining how many should be admitted. Nor is there any clarification as yet as to what the Kennedy administration intends to do to coerce the private clubs to do its bidding. Taking away tax exemptions is one device often mentioned.

Discussion's Start

The public discussion was started by Attorney General Robert Kennedy and Secretary of Labor Arthur Goldberg. Mr. Kennedy in a television interview spoke of private clubs here that do not admit Negroes, and added:

"And, as I say, if we're going to practice what we preach we're going to have to take steps forward in all sections of the United States."

Secretary Goldberg, in a public address recently in New York, said:

"I find it difficult to understand why, in the houses I have frequented socially, the dinner parties, the cocktail parties, I have rarely seen Negroes as guests. This is particularly marked among intellectuals and liberals in our large cities, particularly in New York City and Chicago. Are there no Negro writers, composers, artists, academicians with whom one can break bread, with whom one can engage in intellectual discourse?"

There are, of course, many of us, irrespective of race or creed or color, who are never able to engage in "intellectual discourse" anyway, but, assuming that there are a fortunate few who can do so, the question arises as to what the Administration here has to do with it. The Supreme Court of the United States in recent decisions has upheld "freedom of association" for individuals, but this was in a case involving alleged Communists, rather than non-Communists so perhaps it doesn't apply to everybody.

Maybe the first thing to do is to get the facts. If there be inside the Kennedy administration many officials who are capable of engaging in "intellectual discourse," then indeed it might be asked whether lately they have been inviting any Negro couples to their cocktail parties and dinners.

So far as is known, the times that Negroes are prominent in official functions are rare—usually only when ambassadors from African nations are being entertained. Certainly no one has heard of an equal number of Negroes and whites being present at any official dinners and receptions to which the general public have been invited.

Present Occasionally

Many official functions have been held in Washington recently at which no Negroes were present. In political-campaign years, there are some, of course. Political dinners by the Republicans have for decades included some of the Negro politicians and their wives. Only in more recent times have the Democrats in the north done the same.

But, as far as is known, the Kennedy administration has not invited any quotas of Negroes for cocktail parties or dinners, though it could be that no functions have been held as yet at which "Negro writers, composers, artists, academicians" could find anyone with whom they could engage in "intellectual discourse."

What's needed around Washington, to be sure, are some standards and formulas to take care of the weighty problem of the invitation lists for dinners and cocktail parties — there doesn't seem to be enough worries to go around besides Laos and Cuba.

AS PEGLER SEES IT

By WESTBROOK PEGLER

NEW YORK, May 18—James A. Clendinen, the editor of the Tampa Tribune, has sent me a copy of the Masthead, the quarterly journal of The National Association of Editorial Writers, before whom I had the honor of strewing some pearls at their annual consistory in Richmond last year. Mr. Clendinen is also editor of The Masthead.

This issue contains a forum of "Columns" led (or should I say "sparked" or "triggered"?) by an essay from Philip M. Wagner, the editor of The Baltimore Sun, entitled "It's Only Merchandise." This thrust is inoffensive because the Bible, the Constitution and Mr. Wagner's own lucubrations all are of the stuff of daily commerce. Thus I find myself in fast company where I would be the last to say I have no business.

And if he be judged by this composition Mr. Wagner reveals bigotry against work better than his own when he writes: "Even when a columnist's opinion coincides core or less with his own, an editor who hands over space to him, saying, in effect: 'I agree with this man but he says it much better than I do'—" hands himself a black eye.

In plainer words, kill off the writer who can outwrite you.

But lest I get stuffy, I would relax and say that the "Column" has gone through a strange process since I went cosmic in 1933 on the same page with the Bull of the Woods, Heywood Broun. Walter Lippman was a savant even then, but about 20 years were to pass before he stooped to the level of my raucous intelligence with a piece that I could even spell out. I then realized fleetingly that Lippmann was mortal after all, but next day he went back to outer space never to return until his recent interview with Khrushchev, which reminded me of Roy Howard's knockout interview with Lloyd George in 1917. These feats are handouts, to be sure, and planted for political effect, but good ones are rare and the reporter who would turn his back on such a coup is priggish beyond forgiveness.

Broun was a loose-jointed liar, His wife, Ruth Hale, read books and wrote reviews which he then recast into his own whimsies and he dribbled melodious daily prose off the tips of his fingers. He had a beautiful gift here, but he was a real Communist in his facile treachery against truth and I believe also in the archives of the party.

I had known him in the press camp in France and was confident that I could bull him and wool him and make him whine by ignoring his subtleties which drew no blood, and belting him in his gurglingpaunch. I did, too, and he finally was driven to the New York Post a day or two before he died, hoping to drag a ruinous batch of Howard's World-Telegram circulation with him. He had narrowly lost a strike vote of the Newspaper Guild against the W-T which would have thrown 3,000 of his beloved fellow men out of work with their normal load of pregnancies, cancers, mortgages and all. A dirtier fighter I never knew nor any as selfish, either, all with a chuckling humane love.

Dorothy Thompson was doing a good business then, a strong, courageous girl but without the sweet, sly art of subtlety or fun. She wrote me years later that she had suffered a bad beating and great loss of clientele for her defense of the Arab cause.

Hugh Johnson had been inducted into journalism with sorry results, but he found himself on a return engagement after the Supreme Court killed his Nazi-Fascist experiment in the National Recovery Administration, Hugh's best work was mostly loud sound effects, however. He introduced a lexicon of home-writtled catch-terms—the Janissariat, the Hail of Dead Cats and, for that matter, his capsule description of the fatal blow to NRA. He summed up the issue that nullified this horrible assault on the Constitution as "The Sick Chicken Case."

Ray Clapper sidled over from the U. P.'s Washington Warren to take Broun's place, but he never had the gift of words and his thoughts were timid. It took him until the day before election to come out for Wilkie whereas, I, wise-guy, decided that he was a great Republican of the William H. Taft school before he was nominated over Dewey. Ray died recklessly and needlessly in a combat plane crash as though to demonstrate, like Hemingway, that he was very, very brave. And so he was but to worse than no purpose.

The editors themselves of the daily press nullified the elite quality of the cosmic column of the '30's and '40's. Our dozen or so swollen to a hundred by mediocrities like the Marines when the corps began to take draftees.

Like Inez Robb, I have always enjoyed "feature" material, realizing that few of my colleagues can handle anything lighter than a sledge. As for style and grace the only lightsome anonymous editorial writers known to me are the leader-men of the Chicago Tribune who revel in their serene contempt for the Pulitzer board.

BABSON on BUSINESS

By Roger W. Babson

BABSON PARK, Mass., May 19—I hear that some of the college professors who are advising President Kennedy on means of increasing employment favor expanding consumer installment buying.

Present Extent of the Credit Business

Credit comes in two forms:—(1) When your wife goes to her favorite store and has her purchases "charged." The store looks up her record through the Municipal Credit Bureau. If she has no black marks against her, the goods are given her or sent to her home. When the monthly bill is sent for these goods, the store expects a payment in a short time,—thirty days later as a maximum. The stores really like to encourage such charge accounts, as your wife is likely to buy more if she can charge the goods rather than pay cash.

The other form of credit purchase is where the buyer gives a note, or several notes, payable on specified dates, with power of repossession of the goods on a certain date after reasonable notice in case a note is not paid. I do not object per se to such installment buying, especially on refrigerators, television sets, washing machines, clothes dryers, and other household appliances which can be repossessed in good condition. I however, earnestly urge that you read the light fine print on the agreement and really understand what you are asked to sign.

Houses, Automobiles, and Furniture

As I read the advertisements today on new homes for sale, I am astounded at the way they can be bought by veterans without any down payment, or can be bought by anyone at very small down payments and a long mortgage of thirty or more years. This is very different from when I was a young man getting married. Then we were compelled to pay one-third in cash and the mortgage would be written for only five years. When talking to students of Babson Institute, I call to their attention the economics of birds, which build their "houses" before they are "married" and raise any little birds.

To young people buying furniture on the installment plan, I am not prepared now to give definite advice. The laws of different states vary as to the rights of repossession. If you are behind in the payments on a house, it is a long legal process for the mortgagee to get you out of the house, especially if you are willing to pay a reasonable rent. If you are behind in your payments for a television set or some other luxury item, and default on these payments, you must be prepared to let the store take it back before you damage it. This also applies to certain household utilities mentioned above.

When it comes to buying furniture on installment, a young couple should carefully consider each item purchased. One installment note and agreement should cover the bedroom furniture; another note and agreement should cover the living room furniture; and a third note and agreement could cover the dining room set. All incidentals should be paid for in cash. Furthermore, the three sets of furniture should not be bought at the same time; but in the order above outlined, say at least a month apart, even if you are obliged to "camp out" for a few weeks. As I look back to my early married days, we got considerable pleasure out of gradually furnishing our little house. Surely more pleasure comes in striving than in arriving.

Statistics Which Should be Read

Let me close this column by giving some statistics for bankers, merchants, and parents to read. These figures are based upon a survey by the University of Michigan. The survey showed that 68% of American households are in debt in one form or another. 48% of the families are saddled with periodic installment debt repayments; 31% owe mortgage debts; 24% owe on non-installment debt. According to the study, 14% of the families owing installment debt are "in hock" for over $1,000,—double the proportion only five years ago.

The survey had one encouraging note. Namely, that about one-third of the families owing installment debt report that they have enough savings to offset their debt. For those who rationalize that installment buying keeps their savings in tact, I would like to point out that statistics show this is a very costly practice.

Think It Through

By E. F. HUTTON

UNEMPLOYMENT

The fact that for thousands of years men have made labor-saving machines, without creating permanent unemployment, is considerable assurance that today's new machines will have a similar result.

Machines do reduce the demand for human muscle to do the same work as the machines. The growth of agricultural machinery and the decline in farm population go hand in hand.

E. F. Hutton

But this is only one side of the coin. Machines do create jobs. Millions of today's jobs did exist a generation ago. The typewriter, for example, has provided 2,000,000 jobs.

But the pace quickens. Blue-collar jobs disappear and white-collar jobs multiply. The machine upgrades human toil. The day for common labor,—a strong back and a weak brain,—is about over. High school kids should boil down on books more than basketball. If not, they may spend most of their lives at the bottom of the class.

The worst thing they could do is to expect the Government to take care of them. Who then takes care of the Government? They must develop skills, gumption and the grit necessary to cope with the new frontiers, as their forefathers did.

Then if an industry dwindles, as the whaling ships did, or as railroads are doing, they will move on to new opportunities, and know how to seize them.

Tragic unemployment does not occur in industries that make technological improvements, but in those that do not.

School Boards Dinner Held at Saugerties HS

School taxes are the one place where people can voice objection to taxes in general, said Dr. Theodore C. Wenzl, director of the Division of School Financial Aid of the State Education Department, at the Ulster County School Boards' dinner held at the High School Wednesday at which Saugerties School Board was host.

Dr. Wenzel went on to say a three-way partnership is needed in education between the local community, the state, and the nation. Local support is based on the real estate tax. The general picture over New York is that 40 per cent of the cost is paid by the state and 60 per cent by the local community. (The state contribution to the cost of education in Saugerties is considerably higher than the state average.)

"We need state and federal support for education," said Dr. Wenzl, "for at least two reasons. For one matter, the state and federal governments are able to reach all tax sources, whereas the local communities must depend almost exclusively on real estate. Secondly, we need state and federal support because these two agencies are able to equalize the burden."

The meeting was presided over by Ben Miller, president of the Ulster County School Board Association. Seated at the head table, also were Harry Allen, vice president from Onteora, and Mrs. Vincent G. Connelly, secretary-treasurer of Kingston. John Lowther, local board president, briefly welcomed the visiting board members.

Mr. Miller announced that election of officers would be held at the first fall meeting. The chairman of the nominating committee is Mrs. Henry Schroeder of Saugerties. Mr. Miller appointed Dr. William Hageny of New Paltz as legislative chairman. Phil Gordon of Onteora is to be chairman of the committee that will investigate the potential of central purchasing. Mrs. John Jacobson of Ellenville was appointed chairman of the planning committee and Mrs. Ann Larey chairman of the publicity committee.

About 50 board members were present. The dinner was served in the high school cafeteria under the direction of Mrs. June Myer, cafeteria manager for the Saugerties Central Schools system. Lyle Schoenthal, an official from the New York State School Boards office, was present and upon being invited to speak expressed congratulations to the association on having organized. Good organization calls for local initiative, he said, and you people have that.

Tractor-Trailer Straddles Fence Near Saugerties

The spiked stone wall on Burt Street near Simmons Corners, Saugerties, a long-time nemesis of motor vehicles at this point impaled another tractor-trailer truck this morning. The driver was reported uninjured, according to Saugerties Village police.

Floyd Krom, 43, of Ellenville, was the driver of the 1959 tractor-trailer owned by Rondout Transportation Company of Napanoch.

The driver told Patrolmen Jack Washburn and Edward Sweeney the empty truck began bouncing on the pavement edge while traveling north on Route 9W near the intersection of Burt Street, Barclay Heights, and failed to negotiate the turn. The truck rode over the guard rails and straddled the stone fence, police reported. The mishap occurred at 6:15 a. m. and slowed down traffic at this point for over three hours.

Po'keepsie Firm Names Local Man Traffic Manager

Herman Roosa of 359 Albany Avenue, Kingston, a former Second Ward supervisor, was named traffic manager this week of Weston Instruments Division, Daystrom Inc., Poughkeepsie.

Roosa, a former employe of Electrol Inc., here, will assume the supervision and direction of material handling, stores, shipping and receiving, and local and long distance transportation for Weston's several locations in Poughkeepsie.

Roosa joined Weston in 1944 with Frederick Hart Inc., where he had held the position of expediter, assistant production control manager and chief production planner.

He was elected Second Ward supervisor on the Republican ticket in November 1947 and served for a two-year term. Roosa is a native of Woodstock and attended Kingston High School.

Agreements Won't

Laos the United States is determined to stand by commitments to prevent free nations from being taken over by international communism.

HONORED BY HIS COMMUNITY — Nearly 200 residents of Saugerties honored one of its outstanding citizens, John C. Sauer, realtor, banker and former public office holder at a testimonial dinner Thursday night at The Flamingo Restaurant under the auspices of Saugerties Area Chamber of Commerce. Sauer, (left) accepts plaque presented by the Saugerties Chamber for a distinguished career in the cultural and civic activities of his community. Saugerties Town Citizenry Honors Native Son, Sauer

Bankers, bakers and candlestick makers; merchants, morticians, professionals and politicians gathered Thursday night at The Flamingo Restaurant to pay homage to John C. Sauer, a native Saugertiesan for his civic and cultural contributions to his community.

Nearly 200 of the Saugerties citizenry attended the testimonial dinner arranged by Saugerties Area Chamber of Commerce, the organization he served as president and vice president for over 20 years.

Accolades were presented, many in a humorous vein, by Supervisor Peter M. Williams, the Rev. Ray Kulman, former pastor of Atonement Lutheran Church, Saugerties; former Surrogate Judge John B. Sterley and Glenford I. Teetsel, guest speakers.

All spoke of Sauer's outstanding achievements for the Village and Town of Saugerties.

Joseph Bosco, master of ceremonies related the life story of Sauer with the aid of caricatures and members of Saugerties High School Sextette. The girls in costume, who played parts in the past of Sauer were Patricia Sloboda, a vaudeville acquaintance; Christine Matthews, his teacher, and Gloria McLaughlin, his nurse. Other members of the sextette, who participated in musical presentations were Janet Schlenker, Jean Wood, Barbara Olsen and Karen Eckerlein, pianist. Miss Janice Peterson of the high school music department directed the group.

Dinner Chairman Peter Murphy made the formal plaque and gift presentation for the Saugerties Chamber. John F. Carnright and Charles Gilmour, in Little Leauge costume also played a part in the presentation program.

A gift from the Little League was presented by Vernon Joe Benjamin, who was named outstaning citizen in 1960 by Saugerties Jaycees. Sauer was the first president of Saugerties Little League and served in that capacity for seven years.

In addition to a plaque, Sauer received a parlor easy chair from the Chamber. Vincent Amrod, Chamber president aided in the presentation and introduced some of the principals.

port of the plan would be contingent on the site being in the northern part of Ulster (Saugerties).

At the April 27 meeting, Ulster County Board of Supervisors voted 17-15, authorizing a refeendum on the establishment of a community college at the November election.

Financial and Commercial

NEW YORK (AP) — The stock market staged a mild recovery in moderate trading early this afternoon.

The Associated Press average of 60 stocks at noon was up .80 at 252.20 with industrials up 1.20, rails up .20 and utilities up .30.

Selective strength among blue chips moved the popular stock market averages to the upside after an initial period of uncertainty.

DuPont accounted for much of the strength in these market indicators as it advanced 6 points.

Steels, motors, rails, chemicals and utilities were mostly higher while airlines declined and drugs showed a downside edge on balance. Oils and chemicals were mixed.

Union Carbide and Eastman Kodak made fractional gains while Allied Chemical was steady and Air Reduction lost a fraction.

Eastern Air Lines fell 3 points. Other airline issues were depressed.

The Dow Jones industrial average at noon was up 3.75 at 704.89.

Scientific...

youth of Ulster County than Mr. Klein, he said, and referred to his humanitarian philosophy." He pointed to the honors which "his boys" get at institutions of higher learning.

George Mollenhauer, supervisor of the town of Rosendale, spoke as the father of a former member of the F.F.A. His son, Davis is attending college. Mollenhauer spoke of the opportunities at college, said no boy need to shun college because of lack of funds and he pointed out opportunities to work while in college for financial assistance. He too paid tribute to Mr. Klein.

The last speaker introduced by President Elliott was his Agriculture teacher, Mr. Klein.

Klein spoke on the need for the value of agricultural education. Farming is "not going out" he said and while only 10 per cent of the population is working on the farm that group is, through better training in the complexities of the industry, producing more for the needs of the country. He stressed the need for better training to hold this position. Farming is still the biggest industry in the country with farmers having an income of $11 billions and when his own food is also figured in they really get about $18 billions. Gross business of farming and allied industries is close to $40 billions.

Farming uses half as much steel as the whole automobile industry and farmers have assets of some $208 billions. Beside the full time farmer, the country has 2,000,000 part time farmers. Farming and allied industries account for approximately 40 per cent of the working force of the country, Klein said.

Ulster County is primarily an agricultural area with a $5 million income from fruit, $4 million from dairying, $3 million from poultry and $1 million from vegetables and considerable income from a growing nursery stock business.

There are many allied businesses for which agricultural training is valuable such as selling of farm machinery, knowledge of feed, record keeping, milk testing, soil testing, and many others. Agricultural training opens field for county agent work, related work in field and orchard and in many allied fields.

Tillson Man Hurt In Rifton Crash

John Tracy, 56, of Tillson, suffered minor injuries early Thursday night when his car failed to negotiate a curve and struck a utility pole on Route 213 about a mile north of Rifton.

Sgt. E. E. Winkky of the Highland state police, who investigated, said Tracy was proceeding south about 6:30 p. m. when his car went out of control on a sharp left uphill curve.

The vehicle cracked a utility pole and then rolled over.

Tracy was taken to Benedictine Hospital but was not admitted. He reportedly received minor lacerations and bruises and complained of pains in his back.

All of the repeat courses are for students who have failed a subject and wish to review it so that they may, upon successful completion, gain credit.

Lists Advance Courses

In keeping with the current trend and philosophy of summer school, more opportunity will be afforded for students to accelerate and shorten the time to graduation through completion of advanced courses. The tentative courses that may be taken in advance include.

Citizenship Education 9 (school and regents), World History, American History, Typewriting I (begin) (2 hrs.), Typewriting I (begin and end) (4 hrs.).

Mechanical Drawing I, II, Health, Business Arithmetic (4 hrs.), World Literature (school and regents), English and American Literature (school and regents), Special Writing Course, Driver Education.

An extra car has been added for driver education to meet the demand which is always present. Local students, including any individual who resides within the Kingston City School District (Consolidated) may be eligible to enroll in the course. Interested individuals must be present on the morning of registration, be 16 years of age, and be eligible for a permit. Students will be chosen on the basis of the units completed in high school, starting with the highest units and working down until classes are filled.

Western World Is

tion, artistic and public affairs leaders from around the world are attending the three-day conference designed to define and discuss a course for "The Individual in the Modern World."

The American Council of Learned Societies and the Corning Glass Foundation are co-sponsors of the conference, which is an extension of the discussion on living in an industrial civilization at the first conference 10 years ago.

Malik said the western world has over-emphasized materialism and in so doing has forgotten its traditions of expanding human freedoms.

"There is nothing comparable to the depth and truth of the traditions of Greece, Rome, the Near East and Western Europe," he said. "The decisive thing is that this tradition is unbroken."

Series H Bonds Offer Safe Current Income

ROGER E. SPEAR

Q—"I purchased quite a few Series E bonds during World War II. Do these bonds continue to draw interest after 20 years? Could I exchange them for some other type of Government bonds which would pay me interest annually to supplement my Social Security benefits at retirement age in a few more years?." A. W.

A—Yes, your E bonds will continue to draw interest—and at higher rates—under terms of a second extension recently announced by the Treasury Department. Bonds held during the coming ten-year period will accumulate interest at an average rate of 3:75 per cent. This compares with a return of between 3 and 3.47 per cent during the first extension and 2.90 per cent when the bonds were first sold.

Since you are looking ahead to retirement, I think it might be wise to consider converting your E bonds to Series H bonds. The latter are attractive for people like yourself who require a secure current income. H bonds yield 3¾ per cent interest if held to maturity in ten years. You receive interest by check every six months and, after the second year of ownership, you would receive $40 per year for each $1000 bond. If you do convert to Series H. bonds, you can defer payment of income taxes on the accrued E bond interest.

Q—"I bought shares of Smith-Corona at 15, at your mention, and they are now around 28. Should I hold out? A. G.

A — Smith-Corona (NYSE) shares have been acting well on management's estimates that earnings will rebound strongly from poor showing last year. I believe the company is in a definite recovery phase, helped by its new campact typewriter introduced last December. There is risk here, though, and in your place I would sell half my shares, which would return to you almost all your original investment.

Engineers Favor Prompt Action On College Move

Prompt action toward securing a Community College for Ulster County was one of the matters discussed by the members of the Ulster Chapter of the New York State Society of Professional Engineers at their monthly meeting Wednesday at Kirkland Hotel.

The action toward securing a Community College followed a lively discussion of the matter after installation of officers for the coming year had been concluded.

Officers Installed

During the discussion the need for a Community College was aired and the chapter in its entirety favored prompt action by the Ulster County board of supervisors on this matter.

The newly elected officers of the chapter who were installed are:

Roland H. Green, Ulster County superintendent of highways, president; Irwin Gellen of IBM, vice president; T. A. Baggot of IBM, secretary-treasurer; W. S. Van derBent of Van derBent Associates, director for three years.

The chapter has been making arrangements for the invitation of the state society to hold a convention in Kingston during 1962.

Augustus Brinnier, of Brinnier and Larios, is making arrangements for the June meeting at Twaalfskill Club. This affair, as in past years, is to be for the wives and guests of members.

Plan Member Drive

A membership drive is planned by R. Walton, membership chairman. All licensed professional engineers, land surveyors and engineers will be contacted during this drive. Any questions concerning the activities of the Ulster Chapter of Professional Engineers can be directed to Mr. Walton or any of the members and officers of the local chapter.

Senate to Quiz Lemnitzer Today On Cuban Fiasco

WASHINGTON (AP)—A Senate subcommittee delving into the Cuban invasion disaster turns to Gen. Lyman L. Lemnitzer today for the Pentagon's still-untold version of the extent of its involvement.

Sen. Wayne Morse, D-Ore., the subcommittee chairman, said its members want to know "who originated the order bringing the military into preparations for the invasion" and whether "signals were changed" after it got under way.

Lemnitzer, chairman of the Joint Chiefs of Staff, faced these and other searching questions at a closed door meeting of the Foreign Relations Latin American Affairs subcommittee.

"We are trying to find out what the full extent of our military participation was, and also why," Morse added.

Sen. Frank Church, D-Idaho, a member of the subcommittee, said that on the basis of testimony so far it appeared the Joint Chiefs of Staff "had a very critical role to play in the invasion."

Firm Advocates Seat Belt Use; Equips Its Cars

New York Trap Rock Corp., West Nyack has advocated mandatory installation of seat belts in passenger automobiles for some time and backed its opinion in a directive January 4 by equipping its company cars for the safety of its employes.

In February the corporation in a letter to all state legislators recommended that a bill be introduced making it mandatory that automobile manufacturers include seat belts for all cars sold in the state.

In a recent letter from the office of Executive Vice President J. R. Kringel of Trap Rock Corporation, the firm's represented commented favorably on a Freeman editorial on the subject which pointed out that Secretary of Commerce Hodges struck an effective blow for auto safety when he ordered that seat belts be installed — and made use of — in all official Commerce Department vehicles. Hodges went a couple of steps further. He encouraged employes to use seat belts in their personal cars.

Do You Remember by Sophie Miller

Someone from Stone Ridge sent me a very nice set of photo-picture postal cards of Kingston Poinnt Park. According to the clothes, I would say these pictures were taken around 1900. Although no name given of the sender, I just want to say I appreciate these views and will put them with other cards and pictures of Kingston Point.

It is difficult to believe when seeing Kingston Point as it is now, that it was once one of the most picturesque parks along the Hudson. One card is of the "general view of Kingston Point, from the Pavilion." It shows the oriental band-stand on an island, the bridge which disappeared in some mysterious manner, not too long ago. The walks are white wide paths, so perhaps they had special little white stones on them then. The boat renting pier is there, with a little bridge from the mainland. Everything so neat, and in order. There are so many natural rock formations with which the artistic people of those years built lovely walks, summer houses and pavilions.

There is another card called 4578-General View of Kingston Point." This was taken on the high part between the yacht club and the trolley-shed, showing the Hudson river touching the rock formation and also the high parts of the park and paths. People and children are all around, dressed in their Sunday best, quietly enjoying a gone but not forgotten recreation center that took care of thousands of local people and visitors summer weekends.

View No. 4581 shows "Landing of 'The Albany' Kingston Point, N. Y." Remember the Kingston Point benches, they were all along the wide wooden walk by the pier. I just want to say, at this time, that I do not remember any vandalism in my time at Kingston Point Park. Benches were always in good condition, glass was never broken. Adults and their children enjoyed and respected their park. It is strange to say this now, but no one would dare, in my time, to pick a flower from the magnificent display they had during the summer months. In those days, they had lively young people who went to Kingston Point dances in the evening, as no doubt many remember, but they just did not break things as seems to be the usual situation now-a-days.

Incidentally the "Albany" big steamer is crowded with people. I also remember that trips on the Hudson River boats were always very nice. Some would listen to the music, some danced below, others walked and children were quiet though lively. When I was little it was the most fun to walk up and down the big staircases and watch what was going on. I never remember shouting, screaming, fighting or any vandalism on the boats. Yet, we were all lively and had the most wonderful appetites, everybody ate well on the boats. Lunch was taken in big boxes, people were friendly and sat in neighborly groups. I have another view No. 4585—"Railroad Station and Boat Landing, which shows much more of the Hudson river. It was so nice looking at all these cards, I do hope someday, in some way Kingston Point can be brought back as a park.

Indonesia Educator Will Visit College

Dean Sadarjoen, head of the Teachers College at Bandung, Indonesia, and vice president of Padjadjaron University in Indonesia, will visit the State University College of Education from May 18 to June 4, and will return to the campus for a second visit from June 30 to July 9.

A recognized leader in Indonesian Teacher Education, Dean Sadarjoen has welcomed foreign assistance in the Teacher Education program for his country and has attempted to learn more about teacher education in other lands. His visit to New Paltz is for the purpose of learning more about the college's teacher education program.

Interest in teacher education in the United States came about as a result of a recommendation to the Ford Foundation made by Dr. William J. Haggerty, president of the College of Education, New Paltz, to have the State University of New York sponsor a program in Indonesia.

The Ford Foundation had been working in Indonesia for a number of years, and it decided to also include the field of education in its technical assistance program. President Haggerty was asked by the Ford Foundation to be a consultant and work with the Foundation and the Indonesian Minister of Education, Hutasoit, who came to the United States. Later the four deans of the Indonesian Teachers College, including Dean Sadarjoen, came to this country, and President Haggerty again served as consultant.

Begin After Season Sale of Duck Stamps

The second annual after-the-season sale of migratory waterfowl stamps by the Bureau of Sport Fisheries and Wildlife of the Fish and Wildlife Service is now underway, Warren E. Diffendall of Walden, U. S. Game Management agent said today.

Diffendall urged local school pupils and Scout troops to consider making purchases as conservation projects so they may become full partners in the national effort to purchase wetlands needed by waterfowl and marsh birds.

All net revenues are earmarked by law for such purchases. The stamps were required to be possessed by all waterfowl hunters during the gunning season. Purchase of the stamp now is strictly a contribution for conservation.

Checks and money orders should be sent to the U. S. Fish and Wildlife Service, Washington 25, D. C. The sale closes June 30.

Troy Methodists Would Ban Tests Of Nuclear Arms

SARATOGA SPRINGS, N.Y. (AP)—An international treaty to ban tests of nuclear weapons is urged in a resolution put to a vote today by delegates attending the annual meeting of the Troy Methodist Conference.

The resolution, recommended by the conference's Board of Christian Social Concerns, noted that there were "certain risks involved," but called on the American government "to conclude a test-ban treaty as speedily as possible."

Opposes Frisco Film

The government, the resolution recommends, "should begin positively to shift the emphasis from peace through increasing armaments to peace through continued controlled disarmament."

Another resolution opposed the methods of the House Committee on Un-American Activities and its film "Operation Abolition" concerning demonstrations at committee hearings last year in San Francisco.

Conference delegates viewed the film last night, then distributed booklets of protest.

The resolution calls for support of the stand taken by the National Council of Churches to show the film but to raise questions about it.

In other actions Thursday, the conference:

Was told that its hospital insurance program in operation for one year, had not yet been able to cover persons 65 or older.

Increases Pensions

Voted to increase ministers' pensions from $44 to $48 for each year of active, full-time service. A minister who retired after 20 years thus would receive $960 a year.

Approved a recommendation to hold jointly in 1946 the Northeastern Jurisdictional and General Conferences.

Approved 13 deacons and 9 elders for ordination at the final conference session Sunday.

Those to be ordained deacons include George H. Klohck of Johnstown, N.Y.; Miss Marily R. Dickson of East Greenbush, N.Y.; Robert F. Long of Latham, N.Y.; Richard L. Sears of Lake Placid, N.Y.; William G. Cruikshank of Burnt Hills, N.Y.; David Hubbard of Johnsburg, N.Y., and Richard W. Mellerup of Ellenburg Depot, N.Y.

Elders to be ordained include Lawrence R. Curtis of Esperance, N.Y.; Arthur R. Melius of Albany, N.Y.; George F. Miller Jr. of North Hoosick, N.Y.; Robert W. Smith of Speculator, N.Y.; Robert F. Trost of Troy, N.Y.; and Ralton M. Speers of Gallupville, N.Y.

More than 700 delegates from Methodist churches in Vermont, Northeastern New York and Northwestern Massachusetts are attending the five-day annual meeting.

Exiles Would Take Up Castro's Offer To Swap Prisoners

MIAMI, Fla. (AP)—Cuban exiles today favored taking up Fidel Castro's offer to free invasion captives for 500 American bulldozers, but they differed on who should do it.

An anti-Castro schoolteachers organization pledged $800—$1 for each member—Thursday toward buying the bulldozers. It scheduled a Saturday meeting to form a prisoners exchange committee.

The Revolutionary Schoolteachers Directorate said, "We accept Fidel Castro's challenge, but it will not be President Kennedy but the people of Cuba who will send the bulldozers."

A Cuban editor in exile had a different reaction.

Sergio Carbo, editor of Prensa Libre, said the United States should take up Castro's offer at once.

"All free citizens of the Americas have faith that Mr. Kennedy will take Castro' soffer into consideration without delay," Carbo said.

Cuba holds about 1,000 men, mostly Cuban exiles, captured in the abortive April 17 invasion.

Equipment dealers say 500 bulldozers would cost $6 million to $27 million, depending on the model chosen.

Levitt Selects Liberal Leader For $21,000 Job

ALBANY, N.Y. (AP) — The Democratic state comptroller has selected an officer of the Liberal Party to fill a $21,000-a-year state post in a move to win uncommitted Liberal votes for his party.

Comptroller Arthur Levitt plans to appoint Leon Braun, 53, of New York City, chairman of the Liberal Party's law committee in Manhattan, to head the state retirement system as a deputy state comptroller, a Levitt spokesman confirmed Thursday.

Braun will succeed William Girden, also a Liberal, upon Girden's retirement June 1.

The Liberal Party is centered in New York City, where both Republicans and Democrats are courting the small but influential party in a bid for votes in this fall's mayoral election.

Each of the two major parties also is seeking Liberal support for next year's gubernatorial election, in which Levitt may oppose Republican Gov. Rockefeller.

Rockefeller last year renamed Ira J. Palestin, a prominent Liberal, to the State Tax Commission, at $22,000 a year.

Levitt's office claimed that Braun, as head of a system with $1.5 billion in assets and 250,000 members, would hold a higher policy post than Palestin does.

The 19-year-old soldier attended Saugerties High School.

Hope Revenue Service Gets It Straightened Out

BALTIMORE (AP)—The postman not only rang twice, he rang three times, and Mr. and Mrs. Francis E. Scott hope he doesn't ring again.

In March the Scotts received a refund check from the Internal Revenue Service for $304.71.

On April 10 they received another. Realizing an error had been made, they returned it. Unfortunately, it somehow got torn, and the IRS sent them another check to "replace the one which was mutilated." Again it was returned.

Then came a bill for $306.06. The IRS had discovered the duplication and the added amount was for interest.

A phone call to the Baltimore IRS Bureau brought this encouraging advice: "Send the bill directly to us, or your wages will be attached."

Career Men Get Executive Jobs In MV Department

ALBANY, N.Y. (AP)—Herman Spector of Albany, a veteran of 20 years' state service, was named supervisor today of the Buffalo district of the State Motor Vehicle Department.

Frank McHenka of suburban Loudonville, an 11-year-veteran, was named supervisor of the Binghamton district.

Each will receive $9,030 a year.

Francis Darling, now Binghamton supervisor, was shifted to Utica.

The posts of district supervisors had been filled on a temporary basis since their creation last year. Spector and Darling will replace temporary appointees. William S. Hults, motor vehicle commissioner said.

The supervisors' positions were created in a reorganization of motor vehicle operations in preparation for the establishment of the department, which succeeded the Bureau of Motor Vehicles.

Some phases of the reorganization drew criticism from legislators, who reportedly protested plans to promote career appointees at the expense of political appointees.

Some lawmakers were said to feel this change would make it difficult for them to represent constituents in dealing with the department.

Hults said Spector was being promoted from the department's planning section, which he joined after prior service in the Tax and Audit and Control departments and the Budget Bureau. He is a native of New York City.

McHenka, a native of Endwell has been a senior personnel administrator with the department.

Shokan

SHOKAN—Mr. and Mrs. Frank Vernon, West Hurley, called on local friends Friday. Vernon, a retired railroad signal department official, was brought up in the Boston, Mass., area and his wife resided as a girl at Schachticoke.

Harry Greenfield and son, Paul, of Yonkers were here last week. The Greenfield family have opened their summer home in Watson Hollow.

A representative of the forest division of the state Conservation Department was in the Halcott Center area recently to interview farmers regarding the sale of real estate adjacent to state land.

Mr. and Mrs. Roy Brower, Kingston, Mr. and Mrs. Merritt Kiff and Mr. and Mrs. Floyd Merrihew attended the turkey dinner at Samsonville Sunday and also called on Mrs. Frank Roosa and Elinor Fawkner of the High Point neighborhood.

Ada Tyler, Phoenicia, was numbered among the Town of Shandaken people calling here last week. She was accompanied by Mrs. Edward Franckner a new resident of the village of Shandaken.

The hauling of logs and lumber through the twin villages has picked up considerably during the past two weeks. Bulk of the log shipments go up Route 28 to the mountain sawmills where hemlock, oak, cherry and hard maple are the woods most currently in demand at this time.

Fred Gulnack, 80, whose death Friday was noted in The Freeman, had been a resident of the Hurley line sector of Ashokan for many years. Formerly a member of the maintenance department of the Ashokan Reservoir force, he was born in the old village of Boiceville, son of Mr. and Mrs. Datus Gulnack.

Mrs. Joseph Centemora last Friday evening was given a birthday surprise party on the lawn of her home in the village center by her husband and the couple's five children. Guests were Mr. and Mrs. Sal Giordano and two children and Mrs. Lester Leone of Shokan. Mr. Centemora, who is employed at a Kingston hospital, and his family moved here from Brooklyn last fall.

Opening of bids for reconstruction of a four-mile section of Route 28 between Clovesville and the Ulster County line at Highmount has been postponed until June, pending completion of property appraisals along the right of way.

Mrs. Edward Klothe and daughter, Mrs. Louis G. Bruhn, of Kingston were recent callers here. Mrs. Klothe before marriage was Beulah Winchell, granddaughter of Abram Winchell, one time Wall Street merchant who was brought up in the old stone farmhouse near the present village of Ashokan, which was built by Peter Winchell following the Revolutionary War.

Glancing Over TV Bill of Fare

By CYNTHIA LOWRY
AP TV-Radio Writer

NEW YORK (AP) — Johnny Crawford, 15, the brown-eyed little actor who plays Chuck Connors' son in "The Rifleman," is much too busy even to consider going steady with a girl.

"Going steady is getting to be a stupid thing now in Los Angeles," Johnny confided. "And I have always thought it was. Why, one of my friends started at 13 going with a girl who was 12, and he kept it up for six months. But he told me later that he was sorry, because life was too short and it was better to play the whole field."

Johnny is much more interested in his horse than in any girl. Besides, he has his work at the studios, his school work and his hobbies to keep him thoroughly occupied.

Johnny lives with his parents—his father is a film editor in a motion picture studio—and his actor-brother and sister in the Hollywood hills. He has been performing since he was 3.

His hobby is collecting old motion-picture films and his personal hero is pioneer Western star William S. Hart.

"Of course, I plan to keep on acting," Johnny said, "But I'd also like to be a producer. Particularly I'd like to produce a documentary film of the Old West, the way it really was. I think the Old West is being destroyed by all the silly Westerns."

ABC's "Wyatt Earp" is winding up its long TV career with a five-part semidocumentary series covering the legendary marshal's long career, including the famous shootout at the O. K. Corral. When the series disappears—this fall—from network TV, it is planned to put the shows together for use as a full-length motion picture.

Social hour with refreshments will follow the program.

There will be preaching services in the New Hurley Church Sunday 11 a. m. and Sunday school in the church hall at 9:45 a. m.

Mr. and Mrs. Roy Denniston spent Saturday in New York.

Why Didn't We Know About Korea Revolt?

By RAY CROMLEY
Newspaper Enterprise Assn.

WASHINGTON — (NEA) — Why was the United States caught flat-footed by the revolt in Korea?

When the answer to that is in, there's likely to be a complete overhaul of U. S. intelligence gathering methods.

About 48 hours after the revolt, the U. S. government was still not certain who the real rebel leaders were, what the purposes of the revolt were or what direction it would take politically.

The Central Intelligence Agency, the State Department and the Department of Defense are all being asked—and asking themselves—how could it happen?

It is all the more baffling when it is realized that the United States probably has in Korea more government and military groups than in any foreign country. And the U. S. supposedly had closer relationships with the young Korean generals apparently behind the revolt than with the officers of any other country.

There will be Washington reports forthcoming that purport to show the revolt was anticipated. In one way, these reports will be "true." There have been the usual rumors and rumblings of dissatisfaction and revolt that go on in Korea all the time. There was a prediction that there might be a revolt on the first anniversary of the student revolts that threw Syngman Rhee out of power.

But that anniversay passed by without problems. So the thinking was that there wouldn't be any trouble for a while.

There certainly were no usable reports on which anyone could have acted.

In U. S. Government circles, officials are blaming each other, with the Central Intelligence Agency getting the brunt of the blame. CIA is responsible for political intelligence outside the United States. But the State and Defense Departments—the other government agencies with well-staffed missions—did not know what was going to happen either.

Here is another bumble that Gen. Maxwell Taylor's special task group on the failures of U. S. intelligence is expected to dig into with vigor.

The failure of the CIA in Cuba was bad enough. But in Korea, American agents have relative freedom of movement. They have contacts with all the Korean bigwigs, including all those who reportedly took part in the revolt.

So there's going to be even stronger pressure for a complete overhaul in intelligence—the gathering of information, the speedy transmission of information, the better analysis of information.

The Korean intelligence failure points up another weakness of the current system. U. S. agents not only didn't accurately predict the revolt, but it is taking them an intolerably long time to find out what it's all about. Perhaps more important, once they get the information, it will take a long time to get it relayed to the U. S. offices where it is to be studied. As one official put it:

"It's a slow, inefficient system. You newspapermen get your stuff through a lot faster."

Other typical comments:

"If the press reports confuse you, that's because the situation is confused. We don't know what's happening. Wait another 24 hours. By then, we may have the picture straightened out."

"We're not sure now who's back of this revolt, or what they're aiming at. Yes, we've seen the reports that Lt. Gen. Chang Do Yung is the head man, but we're not certain this is true. We think we'll know shortly."

Heated Problem

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — Assistant Fire Chief Jim Fairbanks of Lockbourne Air Force Base says a man sauntered into one of the base fire stations and asked: "Say, do you guys know where I can get a fire extinguisher?" Thinking he wanted one for home use, the fireman on duty answered: "We have some here, but we can't loan them out. Maybe you could get one from base supply tomorrow on a hand receipt." "Well, I really wanted one before that," was the reply. "I'm in kind of a hurry. My car is on fire."

Jewish Music Will Be Featured June 3 At Community Center

Hanus A. Schimmerling of Woodstock, composer, conductor and teacher, is arranging the Jewish Community Center's Music festival planned for Saturday, June 3.

The program on contemporary Israeli music is set for 9 p. m. at Temple Emanuel. The derivations of present-day Israeli music will be shown through performances by June Pauker, soprano; Peter Bornstein, violinist; and Mr. Schimmerling, pianist, who will also comment on the works and their composers.

A native of Moravia, now Czechoslovakia, Shimmering is a graduate of the Prague Academy of Music and the University of Vienna. His first position was as conductor of the Prague Opera House. He came to this country in 1926 as coach and accompanist for Metropolitan Opera singer Michael Bohnen.

His musical works have been published extensively in the United States and abroad. He has studied national folklore throughout Europe and last year did research in comparative methods of Education there.

Schimmerling is former director of the Hunter College Opera Workshop and head of the department of opera and theory at the Chatham Square Music School. A resident of Woodstock since 1950, he taught in the Onteora and Kingston school districts and was co-founder of the Harmony Hill Concerts.

Tickets for the June 3 festival may be obtained at the Jewish Community Center, 265 Wall Street, or from Mrs. Raphael Klein, Mrs. Stanley Cable or Mrs. Philip Rosdol. Daniel A. Balsam is executive director of the Jewish Community Center. Harry Simon is chairman of the music festival.

RENATE SIEG

LORRAINE ROWE

The Woodstock Junior Chamber of Commerce, which is sponsoring the "Miss Woodstock" contest, has announced two entries. They are Miss Renate Sieg, a freshman at State University College of Education at New Paltz, and Miss Lorraine Rowe, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Howard Rowe of the Stuyvesant-Kingston Hotel.

The contest is scheduled for Saturday, May 27 at the Woodstock Playhouse. The winner will be entered in the New York State preliminaries of the Miss America contest.

Miss Sieg is working her way through college by modeling in New York during the summer months and as a waitress on campus during the school year. Born in Germany, she first came to the United States in 1951. After spending four years in this country, her father's business activities took her to Spain and England where she went to modeling school. Since 1958 she has resided in New York City.

Among Miss Sieg's many interests are riding, sewing and painting. Her ambition is "to learn as much as I can."

Miss Rowe attended Jamaica High School and is now enrolled in the adult education program at Kingston High School. She has also participated in the YWCA program and likes roller skating, modern dancing, painting, modeling and all sports, especially basketball.

Miss Rowe served as secretary of the Teenage Dance Club, won second prize in a poster contest and honorable mention for participation in a school science fair. Her hobbies are keeping a scrapbook, reading, collecting souvenirs from different states. She would like to model professionally, has had considerable success in modeling competitions.

Detailed information about the contest may be obtained from Gordon D. Frye, Woodstock.

United Jewish Fund Drive Is Progressing

Samuel Levine, chairman of the United Jewish Welfare Fund campaign, reported to the Campaign Council on May 16 that one-half of the goal has already been reached in the Advance Gifts solicitation. On that date the campaign will enter the General Solicitation phase, with a kick-off dinner at the Governor Clinton Hotel. Mr. Levine reported that his co-chairmen of General Solicitation, Geral Gruberg, Joseph Murkoff and Benjamin Suskind, have recruited a substantial group of workers to complete this phase of the campaign quickly.

The Mature Parent

Irritation in Children Can Manifest Trust

MRS. MURIEL LAWRENCE
Newspaper Enterprise Assn.

Dear Mrs. Lawrence:

I was comforted by the column in which you said that adolescents' blowups at parents mean trust of us. Will you say some more about this? Our 16-year-old daughter has broken with a boy she's been dating for eight months, and though her father is patient with her, her outbursts of irritation at me get me down.

Answer: Did you ever take your daughter shopping with you when she was a small girl? If so, you'll recall how she began to get tired as you moved from counter to counter. Her baby leg muscles could no longer sustain the burden of her own weight. So what did she do? She lifted her arms up and said, "Carry me, mommy." She entrusted her bodily exhaustion to your supply of greater strength.

In abolescence, the young do much the same thing.

A daughter loses a boy friend —and her young self-confidence begins to tire. It can't sustain the extra burden put on it by what she feels is a social failure. So she transfers to us the irritability she feels toward herself, she says in effect, "Carry me, mommy." She entrusts her emotional weakness to our greater emotional strength.

Of course we're not made of iron. We too may be having experiences that deplete our supply of emotional strength. We may have shown our husband that we distrust the way he is dealing with an arbitrary employer. We may be disturbed by a financial situation that won't let us visit an ailing parent in a distant state. Whatever the reason, we get to feeling that we're a pretty disappointing person. Under these circumstances, adolescent fault-finding can get under our skin.

But even then, we don't have to hit back. Not if we're brave enough to tell the truth, to say, "I'm feeling a little disappointed in myself today. I'd like it if you'd wait to tell how I've disappointed you until I feel more cheerful."

Discovering that we can tolerate self-doubt without anxiety is encouraging to the adolescent who is using criticism of us to express self-criticism.

We cannot carry his emotional weight forever. Though in emergencies we may do so, he has to learn that everyone fails at something, that nobody is irresistible, that we all have to finally accept ourselves as we are. Adolescents need examples of parents who can do just that.

Repeat Performances Set for Coach House Play Tonight, Sat.

"Janus," the current production of the Coach House Players which opened last night at the George Washington School is breezy and entertaining in a thoroughly professional style. Directed by Houston Richards, the play teeters between sophisticated comedy and unabashed farce. The lines are crisp and the laughs are frequent.

The basic idea is an attractive one. A respectable wife and mother—played with dash and wit by Jo Jolivette—slips away from home and family for two months every year to collaborate with a mild and friendly French teacher on best selling novels. When the lady's husband, who is supposed to be off on a cruise to South America, drops into the quiet hideout and an investigator for the department of Internal Revenue arrives on the scene at the same time the fun begins. For the rest of the evening "Janus" squares the circle in the highest good humor.

Dick Becker as the bewildered and indignant husband and Scott Foster as the meticulous Internal Revenue man prove to be deft indeed with a line and a laugh. Dixon McGrath shows a fine sense of characterization in his portrayal of the French teacher; he manages a nice blend of Casper Milquetoast with flashes of Marlon Brando. The dry witted authors' agent as played by Rose Helen Mellert delivers her rapid-fire dialogue with professional ease and a flair for comedy.

Ralph Harper has designed a perfect Greenwich Village hideaway and the mood of upside-down humor provided an evening of rollicking entertainment that delighted the first-night audience.

Performance will be repeated tonight and Saturday. Curtain at 8:30.

Going to Wedding Without Invitation

Q: I have been going out quite steadily with a boy for the past six months. A cousin of his, whom I have never met, is going to be married next month. My boy friend and his family have been invited to the wedding, but I have not. He is trying to persuade me to go with him to the church wedding and reception. He assures me that I will be welcome. He thinks I'm quaint because I won't go without an invitation.

A: You are entirely right. It would be wrong for you to go to the wedding on his say-so alone. If he is sure you will be welcome, it is certainly a very simple matter for him to ask his cousin to send you an invitation.

Party in Honor of Engagement

Q: My daughter's engagement was announced two months ago. Due to illness in the family, we were unable to give an engagement party. I would like to know if it would be proper to give a party for the young couple at this time?

A: An engagement party is given to announce an engagement, and to give such a party two months after your daughter's engagement has been announced would not make any sense. You can, however, give a party in honor of the young couple's engagement.

Choosing the Wedding Party

Q: One of the bridesmaids at my own wedding asked me to be a bridesmaid at her wedding, but has said nothing about including my husband in the wedding party. If her fiance didn't know my husband that would be an excuse for leaving him out, but we have all been friends for several years. Do you think it proper to ask me alone and, if not, should I back out?

A: It is entirely proper to ask you alone. The fact that you are an intimate friend of the bride does not in any way mean that your husband is one of the few best friends of the groom whom he chooses to be his best man and ushers.

Rail Workers Return

PARIS (AP)—French railway workers returned to work today after a crippling nationwide strike and immediately set to work manning extra trains for big Pentecost weekend crowds. With hardly a hitch, trains began rolling normally again at noon.

The 36-hour strike for higher pay had stalled almost all rail transport in the country. Coupled with strikes by subway, gas and electric workers, the walkout left French tempers frayed to the breaking point.

POLLY'S QUIZ

By POLLY CRAMER

A Bit of Ingenuity Enlarges Closet Space

Every homemaker dreams of more closet space. No house ever seems to have quite enough storage room. But often this seeming lack is due to poor arrangement of what we have. A little work will turn the average closet into an attractive and really efficient unit.

More of dad's clothes can hang in the same space if there are two rods; one for the coats above the one for shirts. The upper rod should be longer than the one below; thus pants can hang straight at one end. Mother can divide her space the same way, with blouses above skirts and dresses at one side.

Shoe racks fastened to the floor will be an incentive to neatness. Small drawer units are perfect for gloves, belts and sweaters. Use hat stands or clear storage boxes for hats.

Dear Polly: My furniture is gray. I love lavender and would like to have living and dining room walls painted that color. I want to show up the blond wood of the furniture. What about it? What color for draperies? How about purple living room furniture? — Mrs. M. P.

Dear Mrs. M. P.: Do you really like lavender well enough to live with such large areas of it? Purple living room furniture might also prove a bit tiresome after the newness wears off. Since you want to highlight your blond woods, consider other deep coolrs. There's Wedgewood blue or pine green. If you must have purple tones, select a rich amethyst for the walls and use white draperies. Have some furniture in white and others in a bold contemporary print combining amethyst, deep gray, white with a little yellow and green.

Dear Polly: Please help me with color for living room walls and drapes. One wall is birch paneling. Chesterfield and chair are in turquoise. One chair is raspberry and a lamp is coral. —Confused.

Dear Confused: How did that coral lamp get into your living room? Do change it. Creamy white walls and draperies made of printed fabric in an off-white background printed in raspberry and turquoise should help hold things together.

Dear Polly: I have no pictures hanging in my home. I have seen few that I would like to own. My income is not equal to paintings. A picture is something special to me. Are there reproductions of good subject matter available at reasonable prices? If so, where? How can I broaden my knowledge of art? —Mrs. L. N. E.

Dear Mrs. L. N. E.: There are many good reproduction prints on the market. First, get some books from the library. Browse through them and read until you form some definite taste or preference. Prints of famous art often may be purchased at museums. Some even offer rental service. Write the Metropolitan Museum of Art in New York City for information on prints they have for sale.

We The Women

Mind Needs Refurbishing As Well as Your Home

RUTH MILLETT
Newspaper Enterprise Assn.

"I just don't have time to read," said a housewife, mother of two, with a mixture of apology and complacency.

And the truth is she doesn't have time for reading — and won't — until she decides that her mind is more important than her house.

For she will spend hours at sewing so that the curtains in her bathroom will cause feminine guests to exclaim, and she will wear herself out in an effort to be known as a "perfect housekeeper."

But she has no time left for reading and thinking—so that her mind will be as active as her hands, and her thoughts at least as original as her fancy work.

Her house has personality, but she is content to let her mind remain as drab and colorless as the draperies she threw out years ago.

If she hadn't done anything to rejuvenate her house in five years she would be ashamed. But she hasn't done anything to mentally keep pace with her age and the times in longer than that—and she can excuse it with "But I just haven't the time."

Young Buck Is Freed After Entering Home

UTICA, N.Y. (AP) — A young buck that jumped through the window of the city comptroller's home suffered only a small cut and won his freedom, but the comptroller said the damage to his home was considerable.

Police and humane society employes captured the deer Thursday in the cellar of Thomas Nelson's home after the animal upended furniture on the first floor.

The deer was released in the country.

No Press Conference

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Kennedy will not hold a news conference this week. It had been indicated before his Canadian trip that he might meet with newsmen today.

Hollywood News, Views

HOLLYWOOD (AP)—Bob Hope is in the midst of two big deals—one already has brought him $1 million for some San Fernando Valley acreage that he bought in 1929 for $16,000.

"The other," Rapid Robert told a newsman Thursday, "is with Fred Astaire. I offered him 12 Emmy acceptance jokes, slightly out of style, for one Emmy."

Astaire and his shows have won 11.

Many in Hollywood were disappointed Tuesday night when Hope didn't get the TV Academy's Emmy for humor. It went to Jack Benny, always deserving, but a previous winner.

It was the first time in Hope's famed career that he had ever been nominated for anything on talent alone. He has more honorary awards than he has Bing Crosby jokes.

Hope, in defeat, was his usual bouncing self but he was hurt.

His wife Dolores tried to console him by saying the Emmy didn't mean that much.

"It means a lot to the guy who walks off with one," answered Bob.

He didn't show up at the Emmy party afterwards but it's doubtful if he would had he won. He had gone to the funeral of his old friend Gary Cooper, worked a full day shooting scenes for "Bachelor in Paradise" with Lana Turner and then made the Emmy show. He had an early call the next morning.

Warrants Held For 2, Blocked Auto of Woman

MARCY, N. Y. (AP)—Sheriff's deputies held warrants today for two construction workers who allegedly blocked the automobile of a woman who says she sought to settle a claim with the State Power Authority.

The warrants, charging disturbing the peace and issued last night on the complaint of Mrs. Betty Pawloski, intensified the feud between farmers of this community in the Adirondack foothills and the Power Authority, which has obtained easements on their land. A contractor for the authority is erecting an electric transmission line between Niagara Falls and Massena.

The complainant is the wife of Stephen Pawloski, who claimed construction workers rammed a crane through his farm gate and beat him and two other farm residents Wednesday.

Mrs. Pawloski contends the Power Authority owes her husband $150 for alleged damages to cropland last fall.

The warrants issued were for "John Doe" and "Joe Roe." Mrs. Pawloski said she did not know the workers' names.

The feud has smouldered since last fall. The farmers say the authority has acted in a high-handed manner in acquiring land and has been slow to make payments. The authority has denied the charges.

Looks Brighter For Settlement In Builder Strike

ALBANY, N.Y. (AP)—Negotiators in a 19-day-old construction strike moved into another round of negotiations today after a session Thursday produced, in the words of a management spokesman, "the most substantial progress to date."

The bright note concerned union hiring practices, the spokesman for the Eastern New York Contractors Association said.

But, he added, the contractors and Local 106 of the Operating Engineers Union remained wide apart on wages. He said a new union demand for an across-the-board increase of 30 cents an hour was "totally unrealistic."

The strike and a subsequent shutdown by contractors has idled more than 10,000 workers and halted construction on projects valued at $40 million in Eastern New York, northward from Greene and Columbia counties.

Saugerties Man Hurt In Bloomington Crash

George Turner, 33, of Simmons Park, Barclay Heights is reported in apparently fair condition at Kingston Hospital today following a mishap in which his car left Route 32 near Bloomington Thursday night and struck a tree, Kingston state police said.

Troopers said Turner, a prominent member of Saugerties Jaycees, suffered lacerations of the forehead. He was traveling north on Route 32 at approximately 9:50 p. m. when he apparently lost control and the vehicle ran off the road and struck a tree. Turner was driving a 1960 sedan owned by New Holland Machine Co., troopers reported.

Sister, 11, Saves Two Tots From Blaze at Home

OSWEGO, N. Y. (AP) — Two children owe their lives today to their 11-year-old sister, who rescued them from a fire which destroyed their home in nearby Scriba Corners.

Terry Buske, 10 months, was asleep, and his sister, Virginia, 3, was watching television Thursday when a space heater caught fire in the living room of their 1½-story frame home after a fuel can toppled.

Their sister, Nancy Buske, a fifth grader in Oswego who was babysitting, ran upstairs and carried Terry and Virginia to safety.

The other six children of the family were in school. Their parents, Mr. and Mrs. Albert Buske, were looking for work for him in Binghamton.

Johnson to View Taj Mahal Today

AGRA, India (AP)—U. S. Vice President Lyndon B. Johnson flew to this city of the Taj Mahal today for a look at the famed Moslem tomb and Indian villages nearby.

He covered much of the ground visited by President Eisenhower in December 1959 to see a typical Indian village and one modernized with the help of American funds.

The touring Texan was up at daybreak and breakfasted with Prime Minister Nehru before leaving New Delhi for this tourist mecca 110 miles south of the capital.

The two leaders conferred for nearly five hours Thursday, mostly about India's third five-year development plan, which needs about a billion dollars a year in foreign support.

Nehru told reporters that the talks "went off very well," but there was no announcement that Johnson made any specific commitments.

Gunboat Relic Is Smithsonian's Now

WILLSBORO, N.Y. (AP)—A 56-foot gunboat that was sunk in a Revolutionary War battle and lay at the bottom of Lake Champlain for 159 years has been given to the Smithsonian Institution.

The boat, the Philadelphia, was one of a small fleet hurriedly built at nearby Whitehall in 1776 under the direction of Benedict Arnold. It was sunk by a British cannon ball in the Battle of Valcour Island that same year.

The desperate American effort succeeded, however, in turning back British forces that came down the lake from Canada.

The Philadelphia was located and raised from the lake in 1935 by L.F. Haggelund, and since then has been in a shed beside his home. He died last fall and, at his request, his widow offered the relic to the Smithsonian.

Frank Taylor, director of the Museum of History and Technology of the Smithsonian, said the institution would move the boat to Washington, D.C., as soon as possible.

Livingston GOP Leader Resigns Over Judgeships

GENESEO, N.Y. (AP)—A battle among Livingston County Republican Committee members over endorsements for new State Supreme Court judgeships has resulted in the resignation of Chairman J. Donald Root.

Root stepped down Thursday night at a committee meeting in view, he said, of the committee's intention of changing its rules to force his resignation.

Assemblyman Kenneth Willard, vice chairman of the committee, was named acting chairman.

Had His Own Choice

Root had been in trouble with the committee since he announced his support for State Sen. Austin Erwin's son for one of thee new state supreme court judgeships in the eight-county Seventh Judicial District.

Livingston County Judge George Newton is the committee's official choice for the $26,000-a-year post.

Root refused to resign last month after the committee voted to ask him to give up the job.

State Sen. Austin Erwin touched off the controversy last month when he nominated his son, Austin Jr., 42, for one of the new judgeships. The elder Erwin has great influence in state politics as chairman of the Senate Finance Committee.

Claimed Dictation

Another dispute arose when county leaders claimed Monroe County Chairman Gordon E. Howe was attempting to dictate to them.

Howe said he felt Monroe County, with more delegates than all the other seven counties combined, should at least be given the right to turn down undesirable candidates, leaving the third to Monroe County.

Leaders of five of the eight counties walked out of the meeting. State GOP Chairman L. Judson Morhouse visited Rochester this week in an apparently futile attempt to resolve the issue.

State Court of Claims Judge William G. Easton of Rochester and Steuben County Judge Domenick Gabrielli are favored for the other two judgeships.

Bans Public Meetings

CAPE TOWN, South Africa (AP)—The South African government today banned all public meetings except church services and some other specially permitted gatherings throughout South Africa and South West Africa for six weeks.

The period—May 19 to June 26—covers the last three days of May when South Africa's nonwhites have been called by their leaders to stage work strikes and nationwide demonstrations against the proclamation of a new South African republic on May 31.

Says Gotham Was Overcharged for Lights, Meters

NEW YORK (AP)—An official of the State Investigation Commission says the city has been overcharged about $2 million a year on contracts for maintenance of lighting, air raid sirens and parking meters.

The situation was blamed largely on the city's failure to give proper supervision to its contracts with the Broadway Maintenance Corp., of New York City, and the Welsbach Corp., of Philadelphia.

The overcharge was alleged Thursday by Whitney North Seymour Jr., chairman of a special unit of the commission, as the commission concluded a three-day hearing on the city's contracts with the two companies.

Commission Chairman Goodman A. Sarachan said "the possibility of excessive charges in these city contracts is very real."

"We hope the city will take prompt corrective action," he added.

The two companies have shared all the city's street and traffic light contracts for 17 years. In addition, Broadway Maintenance has serviced the air raid sirens and parking meters. Mayor Robert F. Wagner canceled the parking meter contract last March on the ground of poor performance.

Fellow Driver Is Called Finger Man In Valk Slaying

NEW YORK (AP) —A fellow driver with United Parcel Service is accused of being the finger man in the attempted robbery which resulted in the slaying of Richard Valk.

Valk, 50, was shot Wednesday afternoon by a gunman whom he found trying to loot his truck, parked on an upper East Side street. The driver died a few minutes later in a hospital.

Police, working from the getaway car's license number, noted by witnesses, and parking summonses issued against it, early Thursday picked up Lawrence Catanzaro, 37, and Jerry McChesney, 18, both of Manhattan. The getaway car had been abandoned and set afire, but the blaze was put out before it did much damage.

Questioning of the two men led officers to Warren (Eddie) Hill, 36, of The Bronx. Hill was shot three times in a gun duel with police. Although described as in critical condition in Fordham Hospital, he was expected to recover. He was booked on holding charges.

McChesney and Catanzaro were charged with homicide.

Later Thursday, authorities picked up Joseph J. Lonergan, 20, a United Parcel driver, accused of giving the other men information on Valk's route. Lonergan was booked on charges of homicide and attempted robbery.

Picket Claims Injury

JAMESTOWN, N. Y. (AP)—A picket at the struck Art Metal Co. plant said he received an arm injury Thursday when he was struck by an auto driven by a company executive.

Rudolph Petrosky, 33, of Jamestown, was one of several pickets outside the plant after Lodge 1559 of the International Association of Machinists rejected the office furniture company's contract offer Thursday.

Doubts Rail Walkout Despite Strike Call

CHICAGO (AP) — A strike against the nation's railroads has been called for Monday by the Railroad Yardmasters of America. But a spokesman for the carriers says there will be no walkout for at least two months.

Milton G. Schoch, president of the nonoperating union representing some 5,000 workers who make up the trains, said the work stoppage could tie up the nation's major railroads. Schoch confirmed the strike call Thursday night but declined to disclose issues in the dispute.

60 Days Normal

A spokesman for the railroad, however, said the dispute involved wages and work rules and would go before an emergency board under procedures of the National (railway) Labor Act. Such action normally delays a strike by at least 60 days.

Theodore M. Short, chairman of the Western Carriers Conference, said he expected an emergency board to be named by the President would meet in Washington Tuesday. He said he had received unofficial notice to that effect.

Schoch, asked if he though the President would appoint an emergency board, said: "Oh, yes. I'm not worrying." He did not elaborate.

The rail spokesman said initial negotiations between the railroads and the union broke down last year. Then, as specified by law, negotiations resumed under auspices of the National Mediation Board.

Arbitration Declined

The board proferred arbitration March 16, but the yardmasters, one of 16 nonoperating unions, declined. The brotherhood, in addition to a wage hike, is seeking work rules changes. The carriers also are asking changes in work rules and a decrease in pay.

Short said negotiations in 1959 between the railroads and various union set a wage pattern which the yardmasters declined to accept. Other railroad unions accepted new contracts providing wage increases and separating work rules out as a special issue for study by a federal commission.

The Railway Labor Act provides that the President can appoint a fact-finding board to review the dispute and make recommendations. This board has 30 days to make its report and the law provides another 30-day cooling off period before a strike can be called.

Newburgh Council Defends City Manager, Under Fire By State on Welfare Quiz

NEWBURGH, N.Y. (AP)—The Newburgh City Council is defending City Manager Joseph Mitchell against criticism by a state official for the police interrogation of welfare fund recipients.

The four-member council sent a telegram to State Welfare Commissioner Raymond W. Houston supporting Mitchell and the questioning procedure.

The telegram was sent Thursday a few hours after release of a letter to Mitchell from Clifford P. Talcott, area director of the State Welfare Department.

Talcott threatened to halt all state and federal welfare payments to the city because relief clients had been required to appear for police questioning last May 1 or lose their payments.

Mitchell had ordered the questioning by police to verify the qualifications of the relief clients. In response to Mitchell's order, 274 persons appeared at police headquarters for questioning. The payment check of one person who did not appear was canceled.

Talcott told Mitchell in the letter:

"You had no right to call a muster which consisted of ordering ambulatory welfare recipients, including the aged, the blind, the disabled, the handicapped, and mothers to go to Newburgh police headquarters."

Mitchell said in a public statement: "I feel personally that I did not violate any federal or state regulation."

Rhinecliff Man Is Found Dead in Car

A 50-year-old Rhinecliff man was found dead in his car Thursday morning with a link of rubber hose passed from the exhaust through a window of the vehicle.

Charles Merrihew was found dead in the car parked in front of his home by his son, Kenneth, about 6:10 a. m.

Rhinebeck state police reported that he had apparently been dead since late Wednesday night.

A section of hose from a vacuum cleaner was used to pass exhaust fumes into the interior of the car.

Repatriates Due From Cuba Today

MIAMI, Fla. (AP)—A planeload of Americans is due here late today from Cuba, where many had been real or virtual prisoners of the turbulent Fidel Castro regime.

Instead of the rum and night club souvenirs of happier days, these repatriates will bring home memories of armed militiamen confiscating their property or hazing them into jails.

Their exit from Havana is being expedited by the Swiss Embassy, which represents the United States in Cuba since the U.S. break in diplomatic relations with Castro's revolutionary government.

A host of other Americans, eager to quit Cuba, still had frustrating hurdles to clear in the shape of permits to leave. Lack of credentials acceptable to Castro officials was a common complication.

Today's special repatriation flight of Pan American World Airways is expected to take some of the pressure off accommodations in embassies at Havana, which have sheltered numerous Americans since the abortive April 17 invasion of Cuban exiles with U.S. support triggered a crackdown on U.S. citizens throughout Cuba.

Some of the Americans who didn't reach embassy protection were held in jail or in makeshift concentration points. Their homes and business offices were ransacked.

Police Release Negroes

BIRMINGHAM, Ala. (AP)—City police during the night took seven Negro college students held in protective custody to Ardmore, Ala., on the Tennessee line, and released them.

At Ardmore, Police Commissioner Eugene Connor, who was with the group, told them: "There is the Tennessee line. Cross it and save this state and yourself a lot of trouble."

He said one of the Negroes told him, "We'll see you back in Birmingham about noon."

Reveals Gestapo Speed in Action On Tito's Jews

JERUSALEM, Israel (AP) — Adolf Eichmann's commandos were geared to move at such lightning speed that they cracked down on Yugoslavia's Jews only two days after the German armies rolled in, a witness at Eichmann's trial testified today.

Alexander Arnon, 63, former Jewish leader in Croatia, testified that the German tanks smashed into Zagreb April 9, 1941, "at 3 o'clock in the afternoon."

"At five o'clock Croatian independence was declared under martial law," he continued.

"On April 11, the Gestapo came to the Jewish community, seized all the money and placed everyone under arrest."

Anti-Jewish measures ensued with rapidity until most of Yugoslavia's 75,000 Jews were caught in one net or another.

His testimony together with that of another survivor, Dr. Hinko Salz, 55 ,was presented to depict events in Yugoslavia rather than as direct evidence against the defendant charged with directing the extermination of Europe's Jewry in World War II.

The linkup was provided in documents offered by Dep. Atty. Gen. Ya'akov Bar'or. These Nazi files showed the German Embassy in occupied Yugoslavia prodded Berlin for help in deporting Jews and Eichmann himself was sent there to speed things up.

Claims Dairymen Oppose Omnibus Farm Bill of JFK

WASHINGTON (AP)—The manager of a Northeastern dairy cooperative said today dairymen oppose the Kennedy administration's omnibus farm bill.

He said it fails to provide adequate representation at the grass roots.

Robert C. Forsythe of the Metropolitan Cooperative Milk Producers Bargaining Agency, Syracuse, N. Y., said dairy cooperatives had vast experience in developing milk-marketing programs and therefore should be given a greater voice on the National Farmer Advisory Committee for Milk.

Forsythe made the remarks in prepared testimony before the Senate Agriculture Committee.

He also claimed that proposed dairy grading and inspection requirements constituted a step toward adoption of a national dairy sanitation code, a move Northeastern dairymen oppose on the ground it would lead to flooding their markets with milk from the Midwest.

Forsythe's cooperative claims to represent 22,000 dairymen in New York, New Jersey, Pennsylvania and Vermont.

$8 Million Jobs Due for Oswego

ALBANY, N. Y. (AP) — Gov. Rockefeller announced today that the state would place under contract approximately $8.8 million in construction projects in the Oswego area.

Rockefeller made the announcement after meeting with Assemblyman Edward F. Crawford, R-Oswego, for a discussion of that area's needs.

The public works spending will be part of a state program to accelerate state spending in areas with high unemployment.

Rockefeller said the construction would include $6.7 million for expansion of the State University College of Education at Oswego.

This work will include an education and practice school costing $3 million, a dormitory costing $1.7 million and an addition to the industrial arts building at a cost of $1.5 million.

Five smaller projects will range to $200,000 each.

The new dormitory will house 400 students.

The governor also said the state would make $2 million available to the Oswego Port Authority this year to cover costs of land reclamation, underground utilities, warehouse foundations and other work in connection with the port's operations.

The authority will repay the money from revenues in future years.

Rockefeller said a recent decision of Aluminium Limited to establish a $30-million rolling mill at Oswego "was greatly influenced by the existence of Oswego port facilities and its current expansion program."

Budget Director T. Norman Hurd, Dr. William J. Ronan, Rockefeller's secretary, and other state officials participated in the meeting with Crawford.

Jeff Chandler Is Critical After Major Operation

CULVER CITY, Calif. (AP)—Jeff Chandler, who hitchhiked to Hollywood 16 years ago to fulfill a boyhood dream of movie stardom, is in critical condition today after a 7½-hour emergency operation to stop abdominal bleeding.

The graying 42-year-old actor was given multiple blood transfusions Thursday. He will be under close observation at Culver City Hospital at least until Saturday evening, a spokesman said.

The surgery followed an operation for a slipped spinal disc, suffered while filming "The Marauders" in the Philippine Islands a month ago. The 6-foot 4-inch, 200-pound star was given a series of injections to deaden nerves and lessen pressure while he completed the movie.

He was hospitalized after his return to Hollywood.

The actor's father, Philip Grossel, and Chandler's former wife Marjorie waited at the hospital. Several surgeons attended him.

Chandler, a native of Brooklyn, N. Y., served in the Army during World War II. He hitchhiked to Hollywood after his discharge.

He got several radio acting jobs and his movie career was launched after a studio executive heard him in a radio thriller.

He achieved movie stardom in 1950 as the Indian chief Cochise in "Broken Arrow." A series of hit films followed.

The handsome actor was divorced a year ago after several separations. He has two daughters, Jamie, 14, and Dana, 11.

Woodstock Gals, Where Are You?

Only eight days remain before Miss Woodstock Pageant is held at the Woodstock Playhouse (May 27) under the auspices of the Woodstock Jaycees.

The Woodstock Pageant is county wide, Michael Flanagan, director of the pageant, has announced but there is major disappointment in the Woodstock Jaycee camp.

Despite the plethora of beautiful and talented young ladies in Woodstock area, not one has yet come forward to register for this contest which can lead to the New York State title and eventually the biggest prize of all, Miss America.

Jaycees are convinced that there are several Woodstock girls with sufficient beauty and talent to win this important contest. The only thing missing seems to be desire and incentive. The Jaycees are appealing to the young ladies' civic pride to come forward and start the march toward Miss America.

Power Balance Shown by Bid

By OSWALD JACOBY
Written for
Newspaper Enterprise Assn.

Playing at four spades South will have an anxious moment if West underleads his ace of clubs, but it will be a brief anxious moment; he will see that he can't do any good by playing low from dummy so he will go up with the king.

Then he will be able to pull trumps; discard his second club on dummy's fourth heart and make five odd instead of a mere four.

There is very little to the bidding. North has a nice double of West's opening heart bid and South should reply to the double by a jump to two spades.

This jump on a mere eight high card points and a good five-card suit may look a trifle drastic but it is the correct bid. Experience has shown that when your partner doubles an adverse opening bid you should use the jump to show the balance of power, not a rock crusher.

Since the opening bid and the double will usually account for at least 26 high card points, 8 to 10 points will account for this balance of power and you jump to show it.

This jump is not a forcing bid, but North can afford to go right to game anyway. West is marked with most of whatever high cards are going to be missing so that finesses are going to work and North does have mighty good support for spades.

P-TA Has Gym Program at Last Meeting of Year

The Saugerties Parent-Teacher Association held its final meeting of the school year Wednesday evening in the Saugerties High School auditorium.

In keeping with its theme of "Know Your Schools," the physical education department was featured in the program. Vienna Discussion Seen Feeling Out Process

2 Leaders May Do Lots of Talking But Settling Problems Is Doubtful

By JAMES MARLOW
Associated Press News Analyst

WASHINGTON (AP)—The irony in a Kennedy-Khrushchev meeting is that they can't possibly settle their most unsettling difference.

It's that determination of theirs to root around in each other's front yard.

Soviet Premier Khrushchev can't agree not to since communism is dedicated to gobbling up any place it can. Laos is the most recent example.

And, since President Kennedy is dedicated to stopping any such thing, he can't agree not to stop it.

Room for Discussion

They still have room for discussing a couple of other major problems, such as a ban on nuclear testing and disarmament.

But, unfortunately for the conversations and world peace, that is ironic too.

1. How, for instance, is the Soviet Union going to agree to ban tests so long as France, the American ally, keeps on developing atomic power and is free to test?

The French haven't shown any willingness not to.

2. And how, for instance, can this country agree not to test if Red China, the Soviet Union's ally develops atomic power, as it will, and starts testing?

Red China is not only a menace to the United States now but, when it gets atomic weapons, may be even a worse menace to the Soviet Union.

But as of this moment the United States, which doesn't officially recognize Red China, must pretend in international dealings it doesn't exist.

Settlement Hope Slim

So, while Kennedy and Khrushchev can talk about a lot of things, none will be more important than those mentioned here—and they're not likely to settle any of them.

Already, before the two men get near each other, their meeting is being represented more as a feeling-out process than a meaty discussion.

And, if that's the way it is, Khrushchev will hardly try to demolish Kennedy as he did former President Eisenhower a year ago in Paris after the American U2 flight over the Soviet Union.

But it's going to be Khrushchev and not Kennedy who can afford to be cocky. All the recent setbacks have been on the American side, not on the Soviet Union's.

The Communist overrunning of Laos, for instance. The ridiculous American-backed invasion of Cuba, one of the biggest pieces of nonsense in the 20th Century.

And only this week the South Korean army, much to America's distaste, threw out the American-backed government for being corrupt.

May High-Hat JFK

But Korea can't stand too much of this instability—only a year ago the population tossed out American-backed President Syngman Rhee for tyranny—without encouraging Communist subversion from within if not attack from without.

And the Kennedy administration, even in the Western Hemisphere, is braced for more Castros and more Cubas.

If Kennedy knows that, then Khrushchev probably knows it better. This puts him in a position to high-hat the President a bit.

And if he does, it won't do American prestige, already badly dented and punctured this past year, any good.

Courses in Russian Offered to Teachers

The State Education Department will pay fees and tuition. Teachers in non-public, as well as public schools, are eligible.

The purpose of the program, the department said today, is to give teachers sufficient background to enable them to teach Russian in their schools.

The summer courses for teachers will be given at Columbia, Fordham, Syracuse and Rochester universities and Canisius, Hofstra and Vassar colleges.

It Costs 8 to 12 Cents A Mile to Run Your Car

Have you ever figured what it costs to run your car each year?

The answer is particularly important if you are operating on a tight budget or are thinking of buying that second car.

A study by the American Petroleum Institute can help you to figure car operating costs and discover ways of trimming expenses.

Divide your car expenses into fixed and variable costs. Your fixed costs change little regardless how much or how little driving you do. They include insurance, taxes, license and registration fees and depreciation.

Under taxes include only property and use taxes. Federal and state, excise taxes and state taxes are paid only when you buy your car and thus should be considered part of the total purchase price.

Generally the largest single cost of owning a new or recent model car is depreciation. Depreciation is the difference between what you paid for the car and what you can get when you sell it. A rule-of-thumb offered for depreciation of a lower-priced card is up to $800 for the first year, $600 for the second and about $100 less for each successive year thereafter.

Variable costs include gasoline, oil, tires, maintenance and repairs. These depend upon the number of miles you drive and how you use your car.

According to the API the cost of oil and gas for some model cars may vary as much as 50 per cent depending upon how a car is driven, whether it travels in city traffic, flat or mountainous country, the loads carried, its condition.

This is how the expert says you can determine car costs:

Fill your gas tank and record mileage. Drive normally until the tank is nearly empty. Have it refilled. Divide the number of miles driven by the gallons required to fill the tank. This gives you an approximate miles per gallon you are getting. To achieve the closest possible figure you should repeat this three or four time and average your findings.

Add to your gas expense the complete cost for an oil change each time one is made. A formula that covers most driving conditions recommends changing oil every 30 days in winter, every 60 days in summer, never exceeding 2,000 miles between changes.

Say you drive 10,000 miles a year getting 14.5 miles to the gallon, you'll be using 689.7 gallons of gas. At an average cost of 35 cents per gallon, tax included, you'd spend $241.40 for gas. Add $21 for the recommended annual seven changes of oil and your gas and oil total $262.40 each year.

Maintenance costs vary widely. A rule of thumb offered for a popular-priced four-door sedan with an 8-cyinder engine is .79 of a cent per mile.

If you are going to exceed 18,000 miles annually, add an extra $14.75 per 1,000 miles to depreciation.

If you are an average motorist doing an average 10,000 miles per year, your cost per mile should vary between 8 and 12 cents.

Says Christians Must Achieve a New Order

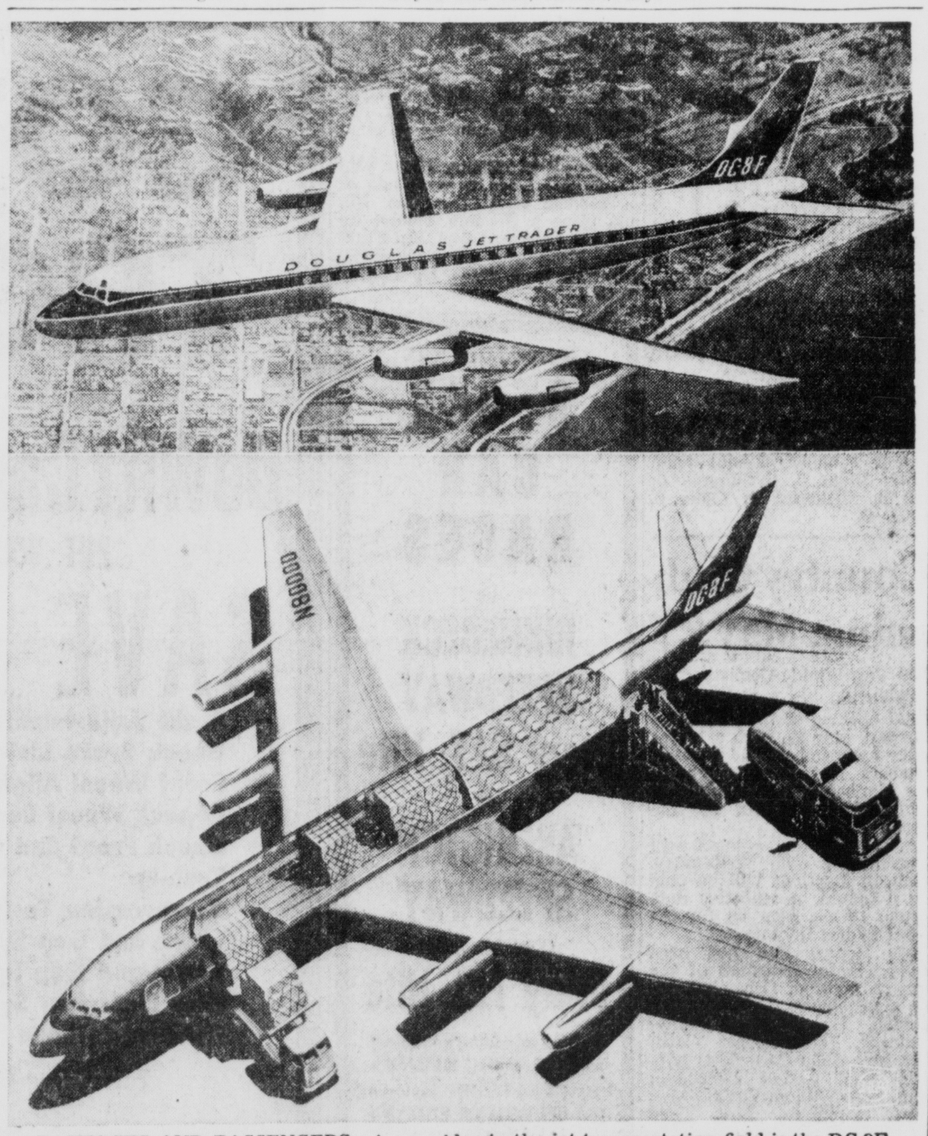

MASSENA, N.Y. (AP) — Christians must lead the world out of its "darkness and despair" and achieve a new order, Bishop Walter C. Gum of Louisville, Ky., says.

The Methodist bishop Thursday told the 750 delegates at the annual meeting of the Northern New York Conference of the Methodist Church:

"This is the church's greatest hour. There is greater challenge today than ever before for young people to be Christians."

The DC-8F will carry—at over 575 m.p.h.—up to 52,000 pounds of cargo and 54 passengers in separate sections. Accommodations will be identical with regular passenger planes. First flight of Jet Trader is scheduled for August, 1962.

Bill Holt's second home run of the season triggered a six-run explosion in the fifth inning, as the Wrens trounced the Eagles, 7 to 2, Thursday in the Jaycee Little League.

Steve Guzewich pitched a strong 2-hitter for the Eagles, striking out eight and walking four to win over Billy Ball, who gave up six blows and struck out four.

The two Wrens hits, both singles, came in the first inning when Rue Vel and Jerry Corrado singled and scored on infield outs.

Mike Hawkins singled home Mike Andrews in the third inning for the first Eagles tally. In the sixth Holt slammed his second homer of the season over the left field fence. Dale Van Gassbeck contributed a double to the big rally.

Bob Dunn Holds Bridge City Nine To Three Hits

Big Bob Dunn stopped hard hitting Poughkeepsie High School with three singles yesterday at Dietz Stadium as Kingston High won a well played DUSO League contest, 2-1. A two run rally in the sixth inning decided the tilt in favor of the winners.

Dunn and Dave Boucher of the visitors were hooked up in a scoreless duel going into the last of the sixth. Eric Broberg started the inning with his third straight hit and then Mike Ferraro bombed a triple to the deepest part of right center field.

Richie Sickler hit to the infield and Ferraro was caught off third base, Sickler moving to second on the rundown. Ronie Secreto delivered a single to score Sickler.

A Great Throw

The Pioneers came back in the top of the seventh with a run and had two runners on base before Dun ended the game. Bob St. Germain started the frame with a walk and John Manning singled. However, Sickler made a great throw to third base nabbing St. Germain. This proved to be the key play of the contest.

After Don Verdi struck out, Boucher singled to drive in a run. Brian Parker reached first on an error before Dunn forced Billy Piazza to pop up for the game's final out.

Broberg had three of the six safeties garnered by the KHS batters. The first sacker rapped out a double and two singles. Ferraro's triple, and singles by Paul Natale and Secreto, were the other safeties off the slants of Boucher.

Dunn walked four and struck out six in his route going performance. Boucher had perfect control and faned three batters.

Forester League

Jake Garrison rolled a 213 solo and Jo Cordato had 200 in the Forester summer classic; team results: Pines 3, Sycamores 0; Elms 3, Hickories 0; Oaks 3, Maples 0.

Buzzy Costello fired a 2-under-par 66 on the par-68 College Hill links at Poughkeepsie yesterday.

Kingston High outstroked the Poughkeepsie High Pioneers, 291 to 290.

Sounds like pretty impressive credentials for Coach Harold Hathaway's Maroon swingers. But, alas and alack, Kingston lost the match, 7½ to 4½ and with the setback went all hopes for the 1961 DUSO League golf championship.

Costello toured the short, but hilly layout in 32-34-66 to defeat Douglas Herring (35-37) in the No. 1 match.

Richie Barthel halved with Howard Rebin, with both shooting identical scores of 39-36-75.

Loses With 73

The backbreaker, insofar as the Kingston hopes were concerned, came in the No. 3 match where Lauren Beaver's excellent 35-38-73 was engulfed by William Conklin's 34-37-71.

Robert Bechtold dropped the No. 4 match with a respectable 39-38-77 to Robert Stauderman's 37-37-74.

And what really hurt is the fact that Poughkeepsie is having one of its poor years on the links. But yesterday was their day.

The Maroons will try to recoup some of their lost prestige in the Section 9 tournament next Wednesday at Grossinger's Country Club links.

The scores:

Seeks to Shake Jinx

Don Avery Seeks 1st Victory: Russell Returns to Onteora

Don Avery, the 1960 points winner at Onteora Speedway Park, will be trying desperately to shake that bride groom tag Sunday when the third program of auto racing is presented at the Olive Bridge track.

Avery, a protege of the famous Larry Shurter, has chased two feature winners across the finish line and he figures it's about time he got the checkered flag first.

On opening day, Avery lost by an eyelash to Johnny Flach, a South Westerlo veteran of ten years on the tracks, in one of the most thrilling two-car duels waged at at Onteora.

Last Sunday, Avery picked up steam slowly and had to settle for another second, this time behind Rebel Harris of Poughkeepsie, who led all the way. Avery was coming on fast in the last five laps. He managed to breeze past Flach for the runnerup slot, but couldn't quite overhaul Harris, who is running in a temperature these days.

Expect Crack Field

Racing directors Larry Shurter and Ed Ryan expect to have the Big Three back in action. In addition, the Onteora operators are expecting Stretch Van Steenburgh of Saugerties to bid for his victory of the season.

Van Steenburgh is a seasoned driver who had to bow out of the opening day feature because of motor trouble. His big "No. 1" has since functioned beautifully on nearby tracks

Larry Shurter envisions a tremendous duel on Sunday among Avery, Flach, Russell and Van Steenburg.

"We also expect several new cars and topnotch drivers and this looks like our biggest day to date," said the veteran driver. "The fans can look forward to a slambang card."

Other favorites slated for action at the beautiful Olive Bridge oval include Pete Keator of Kerhonkson, Bucky Marl; Walt Schubert, the Cold Spring veteran; Art DePuy, Al Ostrander, Bob De Lease and a flock of others.

Antonelli, 125-Game Winner, May Retire From Baseball

CLEVELAND (AP) — Johnny Antonelli, the once-brilliant southpaw who won 125 games in the National League and has only four defeats to show for his first American League campaign, is thinking seriously of retiring from baseball.

But Gabe Paul, the Cleveland Indians' general manager, thinks the 31-year-old pitcher will come around and help the Tribe. Antonelli talked with Paul Thursday night in Cincinnati during the early part of the exhibition game against the Reds. It was the second such discussion held in the past 10 days.

"Johnny is discouraged," said Paul. "He wanted to know if he thought it would be best for all concerned if he hung 'em up. I told him to let me worry about that.

"Nobody but a conscientious man would ask such a question. Another type of guy would just take his money and let it go at that."

Antonelli is earning about $40,000 on the basis of a decade of outstanding pitching in the NL, and twice a 20-game winner. He came to Cleveland from San Francisco along with outfielder Willie Kirkland in a trade for Harvey Kuenn.

"I told John he wasn't the first who got belted for three runs in an inning," Paul related. "I also pointed out that other pitchers have had bad starts and come back.

"All he needs now is a couple of good jobs to make his confidence return. I still think he can help us."

RyneDuren Ties Mark On 4 K,s

By ED WILKS
Associated Press Sports Writer

Ryne Duren tied a major league record with four strikeouts in one innings, but wound up with his third defeat as the Chicago White Sox beat the Los Angeles Angels 6-4 Thursday night. Detroit suffered its first shutout, on the four-hit pitching of Gene Conley, in a 1-0 loss at Boston that shaved the Tigers' American League lead to 4½ games.

Kansas City defeated Minnesota 4-3 with Marv Throneberry driving in all the A's runs, three on a homer off loser Jim Kaat.

The only other game scheduled in the AL, Washington-Baltimore, was postponed because of cold. No games were scheduled in the National League.

Duren, the ex-Yankee fire-baller, took the loss in the seventh inning at Los Angeles when the Sox broke a 4-4 tie and scored a pair of unearned runs. The big right-hander struck out Minnie Minoso leading off the seventh, then fanned Roy Sivers—who reached first when the third strike got past catcher Del Rice for a passed ball. Jim Landis followed with a triple that broke the tie, and after J. C. Martin struck out, Landis came in on a single by Sherm Lollar before Duren whiffed Sammy Esposito.

Four In National

Four National League pitchers had struck out four men in one inning previously, but Duren was only the third to do it in the AL. Walter Johnson, the old Washington Senators' immortal, did it in 1911 and Guy Morton of Cleveland did it in 1916.

Frank Baumann (2-2) won for the Sox in relief.

The Tigers, after walloping 42 hits for 29 runs in three games at Baltimore, managed nothing but singles off Gene Conley (2-3), the ex-Philadelphia Phillie right-hander, who had lost three in a row, walked just two and struck out six in his first complete game in the AL. He retired Rocky Colavito on a pop fly for the final out with the tying run on first.

Boston scored in the fifth off Jim Bunning (2-4) on a single by Pete Runnels and a double by Don Buddin.

Marv Throneberry blasted his fifth home run of the season in the second inning off Kaat (1-3). Then he brought in the clincher in the eighth with a single off right-handed reliever Ed Palmquist, following a walk and single by Andy Carey. Ray Herbert (3-2) won it.

Thunderbirds IBM Winners

Thunderbirds got a 613 pinfall from anchor man, Ray Christiana, to win first place in the three-way rolloff for the 1960-61 championship of the IBM Field Engineering League.

Christiana put together games of 211, 215 and 187 for the big string. Stan Morse rolled 512 for Dodos, who finished third. Hawks took second place.

The Nimrod's Corner

By Old Doc

From the time they are seven until they are 70, human beings are clobbered with the advice to "strike while the iron is hot."

And while it is not intelligent to disagree with such a universal statement of fact, it is nevertheless true that this sage counsel does not apply in the case of fishermen who use minnows for bait.

In their case it might well be changed to say "strike when the iron is stone cold!" Studies have shown that most game fish strike a minnow hard to stun him, then wait until his struggles have ceased, release the tasty tidbit and swallow him head-first. And many fish are lost when a fisherman tries to "set" the hook too early and yanks the minnow out of the fish's mouth. This is where patience comes in, as handy to a fisherman as good looks to a bubble dancer.

It may be 10 seconds, it may be several minutes, but sooner or later the fish will take off again, figuratively patting his stomach after that fine meal of minnow. And that is the time to set the hook.

DRIFTWOOD:

Assemblyman Kenneth Wilson who is the best worm fisherman I know of, Joe Forno, Albert Cashdollar, Bob Holsapple and Harry Ostander are back from their annual trek to Canada. Word has it that the first day they tried to fly in, there was no place to land on the lake because of ice. Ken took a 12 pound trout and there are many in the six to ten pound class — Fly hatches are reported heavy as any since the war, probably due to the absence of floods and no DDT spraying from the air for the past several years — The small and big game season will probably be the same as last year with the exception of the party permit system being extended to all counties bordering Pennsylvania.

Life preservers, boat hooks, fenders, food containers and fishing equipment are often lost by boaters. A definite place for everything normally carried aboard will cut down such losses, because a quick look around in the boat before shoving off will reveal any empty spaces and warn that something has been left behind or misplaced. Locate each piece near the point of anticipated use, both to make it readily accessible when needed and easy to spot when checking. Hooks and racks for fenders, fishing rods, and life jackets keep them in accustomed, convenient places and will help to minimize wear and tear. A row of hooks under the foredeck, for example, will keep life jackets out of the way, safe from damage, while still dry and easily grabbed in emergencies.

Compartmented boxes for thermos bottles and utensils and holders for anchors and fire extinguishers are equally helpful.

It is a good idea to buy children's life jackets in different colors, assigning one to each child. This should help them to keep track of their own gear. Name labels sewn onto the jackets will increase their chances of being returned if lost from the boat.

When buying small items such as jack knives, flashlights, and key rings, give preference to those which will float if dropped overboard.

Control Keglers Electrol Champs

Production Control won 70 games and lost 35 to win the Electrol League pennant by a 13-game margin over the runnerup Production Lathe.

The league champions also took team high single, 993, and high team series 2653. Individual marks were Ed Ashdown's 256 and F. Nagele's 615. Ben Toffel paced the individual averages with 174.26 and Robert Myers had most 200 games, 12.

Most improved bowler was Al McCord with a pickup of 13 points.

Nolan's Hit Gives Home Side First Loss in 10 Games

John Nolan singled home two runs in the eighth inning as Saugerties High School ended a nine game winning streak of Arlington, 9-7, in a DCSL match yesterday at the losers' diamond.

The winning hit climaxed a great comeback by the Sawyers who trailed by a 7-2 margin after the fourth inning. It also kept the Sawyers' hope alive of winning the baseball title.

The standings:

	W	L
Wappingers	2	0
Arlington	3	1
Saugerties	3	2
Beacon	1	2
Roosevelt	0	4

Catcher Doug Freese began the eighth inning by drawing a walk and Jim Curley sacrificed him to second base. A hit by Dick Marelli moved Freese to third but he was out at home when attempting to score on an overthrow.

John Comes Through

A walk to Billy Eckhoff then put two runners on the bases and Nolan delivered them with his second safety of the afternoon.

Prior to the winning rally, the visitors were forced to tally three times in the seventh to knot the score. A double by Marelli, Eckhoff's single and a walk to Nolan proceeded a strikeout by Wayne Abbott. Then Lou Spada doubled home the tying tallies and sent the contest into overtime.

Nolan had control trouble early in the game. The home side had seven runs in the first four innings, getting most of them on wild pitches and walks. Arlington had only five hits during the day but Nolan walked nine and uncorked five wild pitches. He struck out 15 batters to pitch himself out of several jams.

Tom Abbott started for Fritz Jordan's club and he lasted until the seventh. Art Crum relieved and was tagged with the loss.

Leading the SHS 13 hit attack was Eckhoff with a pair of doubles and two singles in four times to the dish. He also scored three runs. Marelli doubled and singled twice and crossed the dish four times. Nolan and Spada collected two hits each.

The Sawyers are now 9-3 for the season and will be at Beacon today in a league tussle and against Onteora tomorrow.

Gordie Bell Hurls Ganders to 2-1 Win Over Highland

Freshman righthander Gordie Bell put a huge crimp into the pennant hopes of Highland yesterday at the Marbletown school field in Stone Ridge as Rondout Valley nipped the visitors, 2-1, in a UCAL contest.

Bell hurled a two hitter in beating Highland ace Fred Ellis. He gave up a run without benefit of a base hit in the fifth frame but was invincible in the other innings.

The standings now read like this:

Team	Won	Lost
New Paltz	5	1
Highland	4	2
Marlboro	3	3
Rondout	3	3
Wallkill	2	4
Onteora	1	5

Two errors by the Gander infield gave the Highlanders a marker in the fifth and with Ellis hurling good ball, it looked big at that stage of the game.

With two outs in the sixth, the home side started a rally. Jim Brush singled and then catcher Keith Johnson drew a walk. A safety by Lynn Johnson netted the tying run and when the throw back on the infield was just lobbed in, Keith Johnson scored all the way from first base, beating the play with a neat slide.

Bell showed perfect control and one of the two base hits he allowed was a blooper. Ellis walked a pair and struck out nine in losing the tough decision.

The Johnson boys had doubles for the winners.

The sixth grade class in reading had followed Ulysses through several years of wandering. Then the teacher asked:

What was Penelope doing all this time?

Louis answered, solemnly: Well, every day she and her maids spun and wove all day; and every night Penelope raveled out all the cloth they had woven during the day. Finally she said to those suitors: I won't marry any of you fellows till I get this sweater done.

Church Giving Rates 2nd Place for Many, Presbyterians Told

By GEORGE W. CORNELL
Associated Press Religion Writer

BUFFALO, N. Y. (AP)—It was an average church, made up of average people, situated on an average street in an average American city.

When time came for the annual every-member canvass to secure financial pledges from members, the church—as many churches do—ran into trouble.

Typical Problems

Today, delegates to the 173rd general assembly of the United Presbyterian Church took a look at some of those typical problems, as portrayed in a biting satire on the way people give to God's work.

"We've got car payments coming up," one family demurred.

"Business is awfully slow right now," another member parried.

"What the hell does the church need with all this money, for Pete's sake!" complained one man.

"The church sends our money into these foreign countries. . . the same. . .as our fool government," another objected. "God helps those who help themselves."

Others took their objections out on the church itself.

"A dance, in the church basement, of all things! But what can you expect of this new, young minister. It wouldn't have happened in old Dr. Wibberley's time, I can tell you that."

The Rev. Dr. Theodore Gill, president of San Francisco Theological Seminary, arranged the presentation for more than 1,000 church delegates from across the country.

Entitled "Many are called. . . but few get up!", it was staged by the festival theater, of San Anselmo, Calif., under direction of Miss Elizabeth Berryhill, of the San Francisco Seminary. It also showed some highly clumsy canvassing operations.

One pious, scripture - quoting church canvasser frightened a new member out of the church. Another sent his 12 - year - old daughter to do his calling—so he could play golf.

Despite the hurdles and excuses, however, the 3¼-million member denomination reported that total giving was up last year by 10 million dollars, to $270,269,859.

The policy-making assembly also took under consideration a plan to shave costs, by cutting down the length and other features of annual meetings.

Accord Sunday School Program Is Scheduled

The Sunday school of the Rochester Reformed Church of Accord will sponsor a fellowship and devotional meeting at the church Sunday evening starting with a covered dish supper at 6:30.

Worship services wil be held with a program to follow. Slides of Norway and Sweden taken last summer by local tourists, Mr. and Mrs. Sanford Cross and Mr. and Mrs. Walter Nilson will be shown.

New Paltz Church Addition Will Be Dedicated Sunday

Consecration of the new education wing of the New Paltz Methodist Church will take place Sunday following the 11 a. m. Worship service.

The Rev. Dr. John M. Pearson, superintendent of the Newburgh District of the Methodist Church will be guest preacher at the worship service. Recognition will be given certain members of the congregation and greeting will be given by Mayor Henry DuBois of New Paltz.

The congregation will adjorn to the church lawn where the service of consecration will take place. Refreshments will be served after the ritual.

Regular early morning worship services will be held at 8:30 a. m. and Sunday school will convene at 9:45 a. m.

Adventists Set Sabbath Services

Sabbath school of the Kingston Seventh-day Adventist Church will start with a song service at 10 a. m. Saturday.

Following the song service which will be led by Mrs. George Landstrom, opening exercises will be conducted by superintendent Mrs. Carl Johnson. Classes will then separate to study and discuss the lesson for the week entitled, "Righteousness Imparted Through Communion With Christ". The children will meet with Mrs. Andrew Seaman and her assistants in their Sabbath School rooms.

Saturday is Spirit of Prophecy Day in all Adventist Churches around the world. Guest speaker in the local church will be Harley Breezee, principal of the Livingston Church school, Livingston.

The Durcas Society will meet Wednesday from 2 to 4 p. m. Friday., May 26, the Dorcas Society will hold a food sale in the Newberry Store, with Mrs. Magda Myburgh in charge.

The annual camp meeting will be held at Eagle Lake Park June 30 to July 8.

Retired Firemen Honored

Hazards Cited Of Occupation

More than 75 firemen and friends of three retired men of the Kingston Paid Fire Department attended a testimonial dinner for them Thursday night and heard the guest speaker call their occupation the most hazardous kind.

Honored at the event held in Tommy's Restaurant on High Street were former Deputy Chief Harold A. Sanford, who spent 35 years on the department; Edward Noble, 34 years; Clarence Maines, 30 years.

Honored by Association

The dinner sponsored by the Kingston Paid Fire Fighters Benevolent Association also cited a paid fireman with 25 years service, who is still on the department, Walter F. Madajewski.

Attorney Hubert A. Richter called fire fighting the most hazardous occupation in the nation, pointing to the risks taken by men who devote their lives to it.

The guest speaker, who was introduced by the president of the association, Clayton V. Stalter, toastmaster for the dinner, mentioned the Kingston Hospital fire of years ago and the city hall blaze as two of this community's major conflagrations, and pointed to a billion, 300 million annual fire loss in the nation. He said an average of 12,000 people lost their lives every year in fires.

Give Their Lives

Three times as many firemen lose their lives every year as people working in other occupations, Richter said.

"Your lives are on the line always," he told the firemen, and stressed that the local department is undermanned.

Attorney Richter said that people who build buildings are more interested in architectural beauty and utility than in safety, which he couldn't understand. Neither could he understand why there is opposition to sprinkler systems as a means of protecting schools and the children who attend them.

"You can be proud of your retired men," he told the assemblage.

"The Good Book says that 'no greater love hath a man than that he lay down his life for another'" Richter remarked. "We can say that of these men and you firemen, too."

Are Not Selfish

Richter pointed out that while firemen stand ready to sacrifice their lives, people in other occupations are looking for all they can get out of them.

"America is at the crossroads," he said, pointing to the various cases of paylo that are publicized, and which involve people of so-called stature.

Richter said the "what's in it for me" philosophy is bad for America and could send it to the same doom as ancient Rome, which decayed from within, with the fall of morality.

Gifts were presented to the honored guests by President Stalter from the local association and by Secretary Cohn of the state organization.

The recipients all thanked the organizations and especially the local one for its consideration of them.

The Airport Realty Company, developers of a new shopping center on property located on Route 9-W just north of the Kingston city line, today announced the signing of an option to purchase an additional six acre parcel of land adjoining the former Airport Inn property in the town of Ulster.

The option was given by the Donato Brothers who were represented by Attorney Louis DiDonna. Howard C. St. John was the attorney representing the Airport Realty Company. Sale was brought about by Joseph F. Saccoman, local real estate broker.

The Big V Corporation has already started construction of its Super Market on the Airport property. Julie Miron of the Airport Realty stated that the acquisition of the additional property will enable the shopping center to add a great variety of top flight stores to a list of those who have already indicated an interest in the shopping center.

In addition to the Big V Market, other businesses will be located in the area as well as a restaurant and possibly banking facilities.

Steel used in the construction of the shopping center has already arrived in Kingston and the pouring of concrete foundations will start within the next week.

Sullivan to Succeed Deming

New Jersey Educator Principal of Onteora

The Onteora Board of Education, meeting in special session Thursday night, appointed George R. Sullivan of East Brunswick, N. J. as the district principal of the Onteora Central Schools District.

The appointment was made upon the recommendation of District Superintendent Reginald R. Bennett and is effective on July 1, 1961. The appointment also terminated several weeks of exhaustive screening of candidates for the post.

Rochester Graduate

The new Onteora administrator will fill the vacancy created by the resignation of District Principal William H. Deming, who plans to study this summer at Williamstown and then work for his doctorate in education at Cornell University.

Sullivan, who is 45 years old, is married and has four children. He attended Mynderse Academy at Seneca Falls and earned his BS Degree at Cortlandt State Teachers College, majoring in Health and Physical Education. In 1950 he was graduated from the University of Rochester with a Masters Degree in administration and guidance.

During the past year, he has been in residence at Columbia University, working with Dr. Paul R. Mort in a study involving the evaluation of teaching in rural schools. He will receive his doctoral degree from Columbia this June in public school administration.

Was Upstate Prinicipal

Teaching experience was gained by Sullivan at the Romulus Central School and the Holley Central School in western New York.

From 1953 to 1957, he was high school principal at Holley, near Rochester. In 1957, he became high school principal in East Brunswick, N. J. where he played a major role in the creation of a new seven-building campus high school. He worked closely with the architect and contractors and prepared for all equipment.

He also coordinated the activities of 12 lay committees in construction, equipment and curriculum development, and had the chief responsibility in hiring a faculty of 82 teachers for a body of 1350 pupils, whom he later supervised.

In Army Five Years

From 1941 to 1946, Sullivan was in the U. S. Army. During these years he traveled extensively in Europe and rose from the rank of private to his present reserve grade of Lieutenant Colonel.

The advisory committee to the Onteora Board of Education unanimously endorsed the district superintendent's recommendation to the full Board of Education and the latter then voted unanimously to appoint Sullivan as their chief executive officer. The advisory committee of which Mrs. Janet Greene is chairman was appointed some weeks ago by president Philip Gordon. Mrs. Anne Larys and Arthur P. Knight are other members of the committee. This committee and the district superintendent studied 60 or more applications and confidential folders and interviewed twelve candidates before making their recommendation.

Metzer Retires From Troop C, on Force 40 Years

After 40 years of service as a member of Troop C, New York State Police, Trooper John Metzer has retired to take up residence in Stony Point, N. Y., where for the present he will "just do nothing" and enjoy a much needed rest.

Since 1936 Trooper Metzer has been a member of the Bureau of Criminal Investigation of Troop C, Sidney, and much of his services has been in and about Ulster County. He has made many friends who will regret his leaving this area but will rejoice in his well earned retirement.

Was on Big Cases

Since joining the troopers in 1921 at Sidney, his career has been a most active one. Included in the cases on which he has worked are many of the area's most conspicuous and notorious criminal cases, even going out to the apprehension and conviction in a famous "lonely heart" murder case where the victim was killed and buried in the backyard.

John Metzer was born and grew up in Bingnamton, not far from Sidney where Troop C, New York State Police, headquarters are located.

Served in World War I

During World War I, John Metzer joined the United States Army in 1917, shortly after the United States entered the war. He served with the 104th Field Artillery with the A.E.F. in

Saugerties Group Outlines College Plan to GC Board

The support of Greene County Board of Supervisors for a community college in northern Ulster County (Saugerties) to serve pupils of three counties, including Columbia, was sought by a citizens committee sponsored by Saugerties Area Chamber of Commerce at the board's Thursday afternoon meeting in Catskill.

Miss Grace Anderson of the Saugerties School Interest Committee; Vincent Amrod, president of Saugerties Chamber and Alfred R. MacMullen, Chamber executive secretary attended the meeting and outlined a proposal for the support of a three-county community college.

Requires Further Study

Chairman of the Greene County Board, Arnold Nicholsen of Greenville said today he appointed a community college committee to study all aspects of the proposal.

The committee including George Cobb of Catskill, chairman; Angelo Canna of Cairo and Clarence Lane of Windham were directed to submit an early report.

Nicholsen said the proposal was "worthy of consideration." He said however that the matter of finances and support of such an enterprise would require more comprehensive study.

Amrod said today, the Greene County Board seemed enthusiastic about the proposal, but sup-

Residency Law Voted By Police

Pass Resolution For Job-Holders

Police board action was taken Thursday night toward maintaining residency as a requirement for police department personnel.

The board approved a resolution to that effect and voted to ask action by the corporation counsel and Common Council for preparation and enactment of a suitable local law embracing provisions of a recently adopted state law.

Proposed by Eighmey

A resolution on the proposal by Commissioner Henry P. Eighmey, was approved. It asked that to department rules, as adopted in 1958 be added the local stipulation as to residency.

The rule, in general, provides that all department members be "bona fide residents" of the city. It notes, however, that the state's public officers' law mandates appointment of non-resident persons on a probationary basis, and adds that "all such appointees shall take up official residency within the geographical limits of the city ...before 90 days have elapsed."

Failure to comply with the regulation, it said, "will mean immediate forfiture of the position held, and removal" by the police board. It was noted that the new regulation will be printed and inserted in all copies of the official rules.

Policano At Meeting

Mayor Edwin F. Radel, as the board's president welcomed Joseph Policano, recently appointed commissioner.

Western World Is In Real Trouble, Malik Declares

CORNING, N.Y. (AP) — A former president of the United Nations general assembly has warned that western civilization is in real trouble—both from within and without.

Dr. Charles Habib Malik of Lebanon, in a keynote address Thursday night at the second Corning Conference, said that the Western world has "an incredible infatuation with the sheerly economic."

Former Undersecretary of State Robert Murphy will be moderator tonight of a panel discussion on views from abroad on the individual in the modern world.

Malik said the West is "beleaguered from without and undermined from within. Without, international communism is planning day and night for its burial. And within, some of its finest minds are doubting its age-old values and are beginning to look to strange, new gods for its salvation.

"Western civilization is in real trouble," he said.

To Meet in Vienna June 3-4

Agreements Won't Be Goal of JFK, Khrush

WASHINGTON (AP)—President Kennedy and Premier Nikita S. Khrushchev will meet in Vienna June 3 and 4 for a "general exchange of views" on major world issues, the White House announced today.

The announcement ruled out any effort to reach agreement on "the major international problems that involve the interest of many other countries."

Timely Contact

"The meeting will, however, afford a timely and convenient opportunity for the first personal contact between them (Kennedy and Khrushchev) and a general exchange of views on the major issues which affect the relationship between the two countries," the announcement said.

Announcement of the meeting was made simultaneously in Washington, Moscow and London.

It disclosed officially what had been rumored for some time — that after a meeting with French President Charles de Gaulle in Paris May 31-June 2, the President will go directly to Vienna.

Leaving June 3

White House press secretary Pierre Salinger said Kennedy will make the trip on the morning of June 3. It is approximately a two-hour flight.

Diplomatic officials say privately Kennedy's primary interest in meeting Khrushchev is to try through direct personal diplomacy to save the Geneva negotiations on a nuclear weapons test ban. The talks among the United States Britain and the Soviet Union have been deadlocked for many weeks.

In addition, the President is said to feel that it would be useful for him at this time to make clear to Khrushchev that in spite of U. S. reverses in Cuba and

Beginning Made for Big Credit

Hearing Produces Helpful Pointers

Common Council action Thursday night, after a public hearing, which for some proved premature, unanimously gave the green light to a next major stage of urban renewal, in a move to proceed in time to gain the city some $500,000 in facility credit through the building of the Mary's Avenue School.

The hearing, in a sense, appeared unnecessary for residents of the Seventh and Eighth Wards, because a resolution after it, offered by Alderman Frank C. Sass, (D) Seventh Ward, and seconded by Arthur Smith, (D) Eighth Ward, apparently lessened apprehension of residents in the area west of Broadway and minimized or voided their role in last night's hearing.

Slated for Later Projects

The resolution imposed emphasis on a previously stipulated point — that the areas west of Broadway which are tentatively slated for projects 2 and 3, be not directly committed in enactment of last night's legislation. It had been stated before and at the hearing that action asked of the council was to serve as a starter for overall planing, and was sought in time to gain the $500,000 in credit toward the city's share of project costs.

Points brought out at the hearing, however, are likely to be helpful in similar future procedure, since they emphasized factors to be dealt with in projects planed for both the east and west side of the general urban renewal area as it has been mapped, to date.

Data Not Ready Yet

The hearing drew an attendance of some 200. It tended at times to explode into verbal flareups, but was kept in tow by the effective gavel work of Alderman-at-Large Harold L. Kaye.

Residents of the Seventh and Eighth Wards and some in the Project No. 1 area on the west side of lower Broadway, sought information on details which the planners indicated is not available at this time. It dealt largely with specific figures on housing standards to be set, extent of displacement in residential and other areas, property values, and other details.

Points Emphasized

Points emphasized were:

1. That the city and not the state or federal government, or the planners, will set housing standards in project areas.

2. That the entire urban renewal project can be carried out with no cost of consequence on a local basis.

3. That plans can be changed or modified as a project progresses and all procedure is subject to Common Council action.

4. That 90 per cent of rehabilitation will be on the private enterprise basis.

5. That the master plan is set for completion in August.

6. A second project is not expected to start until sometime or possibly six years from now.

7. Nothing definite has been determined as to the new location of the Rondout Creek Bridge, which on a map shown last night is aligned over a section of Hasbrouck Avenue.

Held by Regulation

Some of those who spoke at last night's hearing felt that the planners should be prepared with more specific information as

Scientific Agriculture Important, Students Told

The importance of agriculture and the need for education in the science of agriculture was stressed Thursday evening at the annual dinner meeting of Kingston Chapter, Future Farmers of America, at S.R.S. Home, Cottekill.

Over 75 Kingston High School "Ag" students, their parents and friends attended the dinner at which Marvin Elliott of Stone Ridge, president of the Kingston Chapter, presided.

Several guests paid tribute to Raphael Klein, agriculture instructor at Kingston High, who has recently been named by the Board of Education to the position of director of adult education to succeed Hubert Hoderath who is retiring.

Dr. Earl F. Soper, superintendent of schools, called attention to the importance of agriculture and pointed out what was happening in China where another crop failure indicated that the country was on the verge of a serious famine.

Food may overthrow Red domination of China where all other means have failed, Dr. Soper said.

Dr. Soper spoke of the "comprehensive program" in agriculture at Kingston High School, a program which he said was made to fit the needs of students. He complimented Mr. Klein as director of that program.

William H. Palmer, Ulster County agricultural agent, complimented the members of the F.F.A. Club and said he had "sincere faith in the future of our country" when boys of this calibre were taking an interest in the farming profession. He said the country never had experienced a "food lag" and he advised the young men to continue their efforts along the farming line, attend schools of higher education to qualify them for places in fields "allied to farming."

The plant will be built by the Cerro Corp. and the Newmont Mining Corp.

Jersey Trucker Critical After Greene Mishap

A 42-year-old New Jersey truck driver was in critical condition in the Greene County Memorial Hospital this afternoon after the tractor-trailer he was operating went out of control and smashed into a rock cut on the Thruway about seven miles north of Catskill.

Lloyd P. Hayes of Hepatcong apparently fell asleep at the wheel of the vehicle, owned by Apex Trucking Company, Secaucus, N. J., about 5:55 a. m.

Trooper Norman Kilfoyle of the Thruway police said Hayes, proceeding north, went off the right shoulder, continuing 362 feet before striking a rock cut. He was thrown from the cab of the vehicle which was described as demolished.

Hayes suffered a compound fracture of the left leg, multiple lacerations and abrasions and possible internal and chest injuries.

The contents of the trailer, which consisted of foodstuffs, was strawn over the highway. Traffic was confined to one lane.

One Driver Held, Assault Case Is In Local Court

A driver was booked on three charges early today after alleged awry driving on the Washington Avenue viaduct, and a man picked up Thursday afternoon was charged with third degree assault and for alleged endangerment of the health of a minor.

Primo Montafia, of RD 3, Box 205, Kingston, arrested by Officers Frank Stip and Harry Short, was charged with speeding, driving on the wrong side of the viaduct and operating a vehicle while intoxicated. He listed his occupation as labor inspector.

City Judge Aaron E. Klein today put the case over to May 26. He is to be represented by Attorney Sherwood E. Davis. Bail of $100 was posted.

Edward N. Houghtaling, 26, of the West Shore Hotel, was booked by Detective Harold DeGraff, on the assault and endangerment charges. It is alleged that a 14-year-old boy was involved. The case was adjourned to Tuesday night to permit him time to obtain counsel. Bail fixed, at $250 for each charge, was posted.

Merritt Every, of 200 TenBroeck Avenue, charged May 13 with driving while intoxicated, plus stop-sign and traffic light violations, was fined $50. Of that $40 was the first charge, and $5 was imposed for each of the other counts. Attorney Elmor H. Nathan appeared for him.

7th and 8th Wards

to the effect projects on property holders before calling a public hearing. That held last night, however, was in compliance with federal regulation, which requires a stipulated outline or designation of plans before money is provided for any one phase of the general urban renewal plan.

The hearing was conducted before the council as a whole after it opened its recessed meeting. Its purpose was explained by Alderman James K. Ryan (D) 10th Ward, council majority leader and chairman of its urban renewal committee, and by George Raymond, of Raymond & May Associates, the city's planning consultants. Attending also were David Ornstein and Daniel Shuster, of Raymond & May, and Mayor Edwin F. Radel.

Less Housing Clearance

It was emphasized that final commitment will not be required in the dealing with any project until it gains official approval, that loan periods in project areas will extend 30 to 40 years, and in refinancing loans may be attached to existing mortgages, and that less housing clearance will be involved in the areas west of Broadway than on the east side where the first project is slated to start.

It was noted that the Rondout area has experienced a population loss of 19 per cent in the past 10 years and its loss of business has been considerable.

Schwenk Asks Questions

Former Alderman-at-Large John J. Schwenk spoke first after the purpose of the hearing was explained. He said that from what he had read of urban renewal it entails relocation of property holders, and he wanted to know how this was to be done and where relocation would become effective.

George Raymond explained that what has been done, to date, was on a sample basis, and relocation was to be formulated later." He hoped it would be "mainly within the project area itself. Figures dealing with income of area residents and other data would be compiled, he said, and "when a project plan is formulated, it is carried out over a period of years." It was possible, he said, that new housing would come first.

Mary Donovan, of Spring Street, asked if the state or federal government would have control in a project area, and Raymond said, "None whatever." She then noted that "Lots of people do not care for loans," and asked would they be obliged to take one in connection with a project. Raymond said that if the city decided they would not have to take one, they would not be forced to become indebted.

Would Avoid Good Houses

Mrs. E. Duffley, of Hasbrouck Avenue, was concerned about the taking of property along Hasbrouck Avenue, if the road from the Rondout Creek Bridge is to be built along that street, and Raymond said, he was sure that if the state could avoid taking "good housing" it would do so.

Hazel M. Steed, executive director of the Ulster County Tuberculosis and Health Association, read a statement by George J. Johnson, district social security manager, who was unable to attend. It asked that consideration be given in the urban renewal program to providing housing for aged persons.

More of Aged People

Johnson noted that the nation's population of aged increased nearly two times as fast as the rest of the population in the past 10 years, and in 1960 the population of persons over 65 was 16,559,580. This was 34.7 per cent higher than the 1950 total.

Mrs. Mary Ceysens, director of family service for Catholic Charities of the Archdiocese of New York, said her work also pertained to the aged, and she wanted to know if housing provided could be rented at a "favorable price." Raymond said it would be as reasonable as "could be obtained anywhere."

Would Allow Time

Lawrence Levine, of East Chester Street, who said he owns commercial property in the downtown area slated for a project, wanter to know procedure in acquiring such property, and "how much time would be allowed to get out." Raymond indicated that nothing definite had been decided to date as to such acquisition of sites, but noted that a property holder would be allowed four to six years in which to move.

A. Purcell of Newkirk Avenue wanted to know as to procedure in dealing with mortgages, and was told that those with mortgages in a project area "would not have to worry" about them because "the value of everything would be taken into consideration" in compensating for acquired property.

Purcell also wanted to know what would be done in the event that improvements such as installation of new heating in a home were made prior to acquisition of a property in a project area, and was told that federal officials advise that no improvements other than those needed for normal upkeep of a house should be made, if it is understood that a property is to figure in urban renewal.

Ann Diamond, of 67 West Union Street, wanted to know how project developers could be sure of new industry coming to the downtown area when none appeated to be attracted there now. Raymond said the area would be made more desirable, and experts have figured that a new industrial area is not to be considered unless it is found to be attractive to industry.

No Referendum

In answer to other questions, Raymond noted that no referendum is to be held in conjunction with urban renewal, and that specific answers to a lot of the questions put last night were dependent upon further study and planning, and that many would not be answered until possibly a year from now.

Louis Bucholtz, of West Union Street, felt that the planning consultants were not committing themselves at the hearing any more than they did when planning was up for discussion some time ago at Cornell fire station. He felt that procedure, to date, was a "ring-around-the rosy." They appear to want his property for park purposes, he said, "but they're not going to get it."

Replies to questions put by Alderman Sass revealed that it has been found that generally 20 to 25 per cent of properties in a project area are involved in clearance, that the federal government grants relocation payment and redevelopment of an area can take as long as 10 years.

In the opinion of one, whose name was not caught, deterioration of the downtown area was due in part to business men there and to an element which insists on substandard living.

Others Who Spoke

Among others who spoke were former Sixth Ward Alderman George P. Norton, Jack Marquardt, local radio newscaster, Frank M. Sass, of Hunter Street, father of Alderman Sass, and Edward Norton, of Spring Street.

Low rental housing in the project area, it was indicated during the hearing, will range generally from $41 to $56 in project areas. It was also noted that the federal government has allocated 8½ billion dollars for such housing and redevelopment, and it is expected that another 2½ billion is soon to be available. When it was stated that if cities like Kingston did not move to gain their share, New York would be willing to accept it, a woman was heard to say, "Let them take it there."

The resolution by Sass and Smith stipulated that the plan, as submitted, will in no way commit projects 2 and 3 "to be a reality" without first providing for a definite change relative to clearance areas, relocation data, and a more accurate housing survey as it affects these said projects.

The urban renewal committee report proposing last night's action was adopted, as was the resolution approving the general urban renewal plan. The latter noted that the proposal "is determined to be adequate as an outline of urban renewal activities proposed for the area involved" and serves as "a framework for preparation of urban renewal plans."

It also noted that it is intended that the GNRP "be used to the fullest extent feasible as a guide for the provision of public improvements in such areas." The resolution also pledged the council's cooperation "in helping to carry out the plan."

Points Out 4 Paragraphs

Alderman Francis R. Koenig (D) Ninth Ward, complimented George Raymond for his part in the hearing. Alderman Edward J. Schrowang (R) First Ward, advised that if those interested would read four paragraphs on "How the Plan Works," as given in the recently issued report on the GNRP, they would get a concise presentation of it. The report was recently published in The Freeman.

The Council's urban renewal committee, besides its chairman Alderman Ryan is composed of Alderman Sass, Joseph Tomaszewski (D) Sixth Ward; Lawrence E. Woerner (D) Fourth Ward; Clark W. Myers (R) Second Ward; Joseph F. Carroll Jr., (R) 11th Ward and Samuel J. Perry (R)) Fifth Ward. The latter was unable to attend last night's session, due to illness in his family.

Retired Firemen

past, attending the dinner were former Chief Joseph L. Murphy, Capt. Wright Maines, Capt. Edward H. (Yank) Albrecht and Harry Richter.

Mayor Edwin F. Radel and Alderman-at-Large Harold Kays, who had to be at an urban renewal meeting, sent their felicitations, also Chief James M. Brett, who arrived late due to a previous commitment.

President Edward Finch of the Kingston Fire Board was present with Commissioners John Worf and Tiber Tomshaw. Police Chief Robert F. Murphy also attended, and the two fire chaplains, the Rev. Msgr. Stephen P. Connelly and the Rev. Robert T. Shellenberger. Dinner chairman was John J. Berardi.

The dinner closed with prayer for deceased men of the fire department, offered by Chaplain Shellenberger.

WGHQ to Increase Power, $100,000 Expansion Set

An expansion of radio station WGHQ to cost more than $100,000 was announced today by General Manager Harry Thayer.

Bids will be asked next week for construction of three transmitter towers in Port Ewen, each 283 feet high, which will produce the most powerful signal between New York City and Schenectady, according to Thayer.

The bids will be also asked for clearing grounds and construction of a transmitter building. The site, consisting of 21 acres, is located behind the Amerling Volkswagen Company. The land was purchased from Zale and Laura Liese and the Costello family.

Thayer said the studios and offices will be located on the second floor of the former News Leader building on Crown Street. The first floor is occupied by Sears Roebuck. A sales office will be maintained in the Amrod building, Saugerties.

Thayer said the target bid for the new signal is Sept. 15.

Cow Drops Into Well

A surprised cow dropped about 10 feet into an abandoned handdug well on the John Waite farm, Cottekill, Thursday. The well was covered with planking which gave way under the cow's weight. The bovine quadruped "uddered" a cry of distress and dropped 10 feet into water. Volunteers from the Cottekill Fire Company lassoed the cow and lifted her out.

Barn, Poultry House Burn; Driver Is Held in Collision

Two fires struck Ulster County during the past 24 hours, one leveling a large barn in the Phoenicia area, the other demolishing a poultry house in Sawkill.

The barn, which was used to garage a car destroyed in the blaze, was owned by Ronald "Scotty" Sickler. It was located in Lanesville between Phoenicia and Hunter.

The chicken house, which was not in use at the time, was owned by Ludwig Ritzhaupt of Hallinan Hill, Sawkill.

Mrs. Ritzhaupt suffered second degree burns of the hands when she touched the side of an adjoining building which had been heated by the blaze.

The Sawkill fire also resulted in an incident which produced the arrest of the driver of a Kingston Water Department truck for failure to give the right of way to an emergency vehicle.

Arrested by Chief

Myron DePuy, 72, of 94 Henry Street, operator of the city water truck, was arrested by Chief Wayne Burton of the Sawkill Fire Police. Burton is also a marshal of the Town of Kingston.

The arrest came after the water truck struck a new pumper recently purchased by the Sawkill Fire Company as the fire vehicle was taking on water at Sweet Meadows, intersection of Melissa Lane and the Sawkill Road.

DePuy claimed that he saw the red lights on the fire truck but thought he could get around the vehicle.

He was arraigned before Justice of the Peace Robert Ferrigan, town of Kingston, and the case adjourned to a later date.

Barn Total Loss

The barn, which was a total loss, was described as "all aflame" when volunteers from the Phoenicia and Shandaken fire companies reached the scene. The alarm was sounded about 12:05 a. m.

A car owned by Sickler's son, William, which was garaged in the barn, was lost in the fire. There was little else in the barn of unusual value, according to the report.

Origin of the blaze, which also destroyed an old milkhouse near by, was listed as undetermined. It is believed that the car, which William Sickler had parked in the garage a short time before the fire, may have been a possible source of the blaze.

An old horse, which has been owned by the family for many years and was used as a saddle horse by the children, was tethered to a concrete block near the burning structure. The horse dragged the block for about 500 yards, according to Mrs. Karl Bush, wife of the assistant chief of the Phoenicia company. She said it was a "hot fire."

The Sickler family consists of Mr. and Mrs. Sickler and four sons ranging in age from 17 to 23.

Mrs. Sickler's car was parked outside the barn. The front was reported damaged by the heat of the blaze.

A neighboring cottage and an icehouse were also reported to have received minor damage from the fire and heat.

The volunteers were able to protect these and other adjacent buildings, including the home itself, a large structure used as a lodge during summer and hunting seasons. It is able to handle perhaps as many as 50 persons. The home has two dining rooms.

Delay in Reporting

The poultry house fire was reported about 1 p. m. but had a good start before firemen could reach the scene, partly because of delay in reporting the blaze.

Assistant Chief John Reichart of the Sawkill Company said that the person reporting the blaze first dialed the wrong number, then called the telephone operator who notified mutual aid which relayed the message to the fire company. There was a delay of several minutes before the message was received and the fire siren could be soundd.

Reichart told The Freeman that Ritzhaupt was burning brush but let the blaze untended to go into the house for lunch. He was clearing land in preparation for construction of a new chicken house.

Reichert said the wind must have thrown a spark on the tar-paper roof of a poultry house near the burning brush. The structure, which had formerly been used as a poultry house, had been more recently been used for storage. It was one-story high and about 30 feet by 40.

The fire was too far advanced to be halted in time to save the structure.

Mrs. Ritzhaupt burned her hands when she touched the side of a building adjacent to the burning chicken house to ascertain if it was hot. The structure she touched was a two-story poultry house, which was saved.

The fire also got into the woods, Reichert said, but volunteers "knocked it down quickly."

The loss was estimated at between $1,500 and $2,000.

Metzer Retires

France until the end of the war.

On being discharged from service in 1920, he returned to Binghamton but he was not done with the uniform as were many lads who had served during the war. In 1921 he again donned a uniform, this time as a member of the state police. Assigned to Sidney barracks, he served there for a time but most of his 40-year service has been in Ulster County. At the time of his retirement, May 18, 1961, he was assigned to the Highland station as a member of the criminal investigation unit.

Rode Horse Patrol

When Trooper Metzer first came to Ulster County he served as a real "trooper" being assigned to the East Kingston brickyard area where patrol was made on horseback.

In 1936 he was promoted from the uniformed unit to the "plain clothes" BCI and began a career of criminal investigation which he continued until his retirement.

Reviewing some of the most notorious cases in which he participated Trooper Metzer recalled the Isadore Handelman murder at Ellenville in 1937. Isadore Handelman and his aged wife were murdered in their Ellenville home and the house set afire. Charles Brown, Ellenville handyman, was convicted of that crime and sentenced to death in the electric chair at Sing Sing for the first degree murder of the aged couple.

In 1938 Harvey Clancey was killed in front of his Phoenicia barber shop. Charles Ford was accused of the murder and was sent to Matteawan State Hospital for the Criminal Insane, where he died. Metzer participated in the investigation.

In 1944 Peter Takis, who lived in Libertyville, Town of New Paltz, was stabbed to death with a pair of scissors and his body left in the brush across the road from his home. Peter Demetropoulos was accused of that murder and was committed to the Matteawan State Hospital for the Criminal Insane. Takis had been chased and killed as he was returning to his home after feeding chickens. Trooper Metzer recalls that incident and remarked that it was on a Saturday and a Freeman reporter was one of the first to arrive on the scene after discovery of the body.

Other Major Cases

In 1952 Emelina Nusca of Highland was beaten and murdered with a carving knife. After a lengthy investigation which followed a mysterious summons by phone to the Nusca home, Samuel Schiffano was charged with the crime and on a plea of guilty to manslaughter, was sentenced to prison.

During a short tour of duty in Sullivan County, Trooper Metzer in August 1953, participated in investigation of the death of Israel Present, Monticello. The Present bungalow was entered, its owner was tied up and a handkerchief was stuffed in his mouth. He suffocated. That investigation led to a New York trio of thugs who confessed to having robbed and bound the man. Pleading guilty to second degree murder were Thomas O'Hara, Matthew Terrigno and Ray Rico who were sentenced to life imprisonment.

On 'Lonely Heart' Probe

In 1955 Trooper Metzer was called in on the "lonely heart" slaying of Anna Duhanel of Bloomingburg. She had met Alexander Hannus through a "lonely heart" organization. She disappeared and was later found murdered at her summer home near Fishs Eddy, Delaware County. Her body had been buried in the backyard of her property.

Hannus was apprehended and charged with the murder. He entered a plea of guilty to manslaughter and was sentenced to a term at Attica prison.

In his confession of the crime Hannus said he had become lonely, had joined the club and met his victim. After being apprehended he led troopers to the spot where he confessed burying the body.

Was on Curtis Case

Among the latest crimes in Ulster County which Trooper Metzer assisted in "breaking" was the Newton Curtis case in Quarryville. Curtis was accused of killing his brother, Jack Curtis, with a bed slat in a dispute over who should serve as caretaker at a Quarryville hunting club. Curtis, after trial was sentenced to 10 to 20 years in Clinton State Prison.

During his tours of duty in Ulster County Trooper Metzer has been stationed at East Kingston, Phoenicia, Ellenville and Kingston.

Today's Business Mirror

By SAM DAWSON

AP Business News Analyst

NEW YORK (AP)—The rush to buy stocks is sending the prices of many to record highs. But the conquering march of the bulls has brought with it some worrisome camp followers.

1. Stock exchange officials and government watchdogs fear too much of the buying is by unwary novices snapping up untried and often questionable stocks.

Borrowing Growing

2. They fret lest too much of the new speculative money in the markets is from borrowed funds. And if the bears should stage a flanking move on the market these on-the-cuff holdings might give way to threaten a rout of the entire list.

Some of the borrowing is from brokers and banks and this can be measured—and it has been growing.

But if the public wants to speculate it can get the money from other sources harder to measure quickly. It can draw on its savings, and there is evidence it has been doing so. The public can raise money for speculation by borrowing on such assets as homes and insurance policies. How much of this has gone into the rush to buy stocks on the exchanges and the over-the-counter market is hard to guess.

The speculative fever has led stock-exchange officials to warn the unwary against buying out of enthusiasm unbased on facts. Brokerage houses sound the same note. The Securities and Exchange Commission is investigating some of the stock deals and practices in the current bull market.

Watches FRB Reatetion

And Wall Street always watches the reaction of the Federal Reserve Board to any upsurge in prices and trading, and especially to the buying on borrowed money.

The Federal Reserve can regulate at least part of these credit purchases by changing the official margin rate. In July 1960 the rate was 90 per cent. But stock prices were weak then and the rate was lowered to 70 per cent.

This meant that you had to put up 70 per cent of a stock's price in cash for any new buying on the regulated stock exchanges. You could borrow up to 30 per cent from your broker. If the price should fall you'd have to put up more cash to stay within the 70 per cent margin.

When markets show signs of running away, the Federal Reserve raises the margin to lessen the flow of credit and put buyers on or close to an all-cash basis. When prices are weak and trading dawdles, the margin usually is cut—sometimes in recent years to 50 per cent, but never back to the fractional lows that preceded the 1929 stock crash.

Seven From Here Attend Public Health Lab Parley

SCHENECTADY — New York State Health Department laboratory workers reported good results today from a test that enables doctors to decide more quickly whether to give penicillin for suspected strep throats.

Dr. Herbert Derman, director of Kingston City Laboratory; Dr. James Kelly, assistant director and five technicians are attending the 45th annual meeting of the State Association of Public Health Laboratories where a paper on the new theory was read to the assembly.

The paper said use of a fluorescent antibody technique can determine in three or four hours whether a throat infection is actually due to streptococcus bacteria, and so calls for penicillin treatment. The commonly used culture test takes 48 hours.

The meeting ended with an analysis of the association's five-year cytology (cell study) program for the detection of early cancer by Dr. Leopold G. Koss, Memorial Hospital for Cancer and Allied Diseases, New York City, and Dr. Derman.

Yesterday a conference on cytology was conducted by Dr. John K. Frost, associate professor of pathoolgy at John Hopkins Hospital, Baltimore and Dr. Koss. At the dinner session last night, Dr. Hans Rozendall, manager of biologic studies at the General Electric Research Laboratory, spoke on "Transatlantic Sailing."

Reunion Slated By 12th Armored During Late July

The 12th Armored (Hellcat) Division will hold its 15th Annual Reunion at the Commodore Perry Hotel, Toledo, Ohio, July 20-22.

One of the top combat units of World War 2, the 12th Armored, was spearhead for both Gen Patton's Third Army and Gen. Patch's Seventh Army in the final months of the European War.

The 12th Armored can be remembered locally as the Division to which many area men were assigned during the fall of 1942.

Former members of the Division in this area may get additional details of the reunion, division association membership or the division's monthly paper "Hellcat News" by contacting Robert Saehlof, 28 Dietz Court.

Coloring Contest Winners Are Named by Savings of Kingston

The board of judges for the Savings and Loan Association of Kingston Coloring Contest conducted in conjunction with the Lions Club Exposition has announced names of 25 children whose entries were selected as the best among thousands submitted by area children.

Each winner received a $5 Savings account at the association's office, 267 Wall Street. Winners who presently have savings accounts had prize money deposited to those accounts by the Association.

A party was held for the 25 winners and their parents as well as the 25 who received honorable mention, at the Wall Street office last Friday evening. Refreshments were served and photographs were taken.

Pictures of the winners and their entries will be on display at the Association's office where the public may view them during office hours. Names of the 25 winners who received the $5 savings accounts follow:

"Because of the unexpectedly large number of entries received and because so many showed originality, neatness and general overall merit," said Van Wyck Darrow, executive vice president of the Association, "the judges decided to also include twenty-five Honorable Mention names of children who received special other prizes. Thus, there were fifty winners all together."

More than 7,000 Sonny Saver coloring books were distributed by the Association at its office on Wall Street and at its booth in the Lions Club Exposition and Home Show at the New York State Armory. Over 5000 children up to the age of 12, from the Kingston and surrounding Ulster County area, individually entered the coloring contest principally though announcements in the Kingston Daily Freeman and elsewhere.

The judges narrowed the entries in three stages; first, to 200 semi-finalists; second to 50 for final decision; finally to the 25 best and the 25 for honorable mention.

"The contest was a huge success," according to William Stall, assistant vice president of Savings and Loan of Kingston. "Using a visually entertaining approach, children and adults of all ages not only learned an important lesson in thrift but also participated in an event that will long be remembered. On behalf of the Association, we wish to thank every one who participated—even the nearly 200 children from out of our area and the nearly 100 from out-of-state."

KINGSTON, NEW YORK, MAY 19, 1961

Holding promise of even better years to come is an encouraging 50-years-of-health report just issued.

Basis of the findings, which reflect unprecedented reductions in mortality and lengthened life span, is a survey of what happened to a large insurance company's policyholders over the last half century.

Generally, the death rate in 1960 was only about half that prevailing in 1911. Specifically, mortality in the 1-to-74 age bracket fell from 13.5 per thousand persons in 1911 to a mere 4.1 in 1960. It was only in such devastating periods as the 1918 influenza epidemic that steady progress was interrupted.

Significant beneficiaries of mortality reduction are those in childhood and early adult life. In the 1-4 age group, for instance, deaths have been cut more than 90 per cent.

Of note are the means by which progress has been achieved. It reflects advances in medicine, public health and the general standard of living. Medical science and an informed public have combined to drastically reduce tuberculosis (225 per 100,000 in 1911; 5 per 100,000 in 1960), pneumonia and influenza, comunicable childhood diseases, poliomyelitis and maternal mortality.

Casting a pall over this otherwise rosy outlok are the great killers: coronary and other heart diseases and cancer. The former account for more deaths than from all other causes combined. Malignancies rank second.

Increases have been noted in the incidence of both heart diseases and cancer. Encouraging is the intensive research devoted to these diseases, to the probability that part of the increases may be due to the rise in the average age of all persons, and to more accurate diagnosis and reporting of the afflictions.

Far better still than the decrease in mortality rates is lengthening of the life span a whopping 24 years since 1911. Based on expectation of life at birth, persons born in 1911 could look forward to only 46 years of life. The baby born in 1960, by comparison, has a life expectancy of 70.6 years.

That's a gift of 24 years of life, fired in the crucibles of science and wrought on the anvil of the public's greater health knowledge.

Judging by the record thus far, it seems that Congress has discovered a few "not holes" in the Democratic platform.

HEMISPHERIC ALLIANCE?

Secretary of State Dean Rusk, fresh from the Oslo session of the North Atlantic Council, voices confidence that our allies are now convinced of the vital importance to NATO of Cuba, Laos, South Vietnam and The Congo. A resolution "to counter the global as well as the European challenge" of the Red drive was the Council's reaction to "the ever-increasing area of Communist pressure."

All this is commendable, but hardly dramatic. There is about it a sound of hesitancy—as if the 15 ministers were only now catching up with the people, who long ago conceived a true awareness of Communism's worldwide threat. The question arises whether it is not time for something stronger than resolutions.

Do the United States and NATO any longer present a front of sufficient scope against the Moscow-Peiping axis? We talk of defending a hemisphere. Why not, then, a hemispheric alliance? In NATO and the Organization of American States we already have what, if they were combined, would provide the nucleus for an alliance. Such a united front could face the Red juggernaut not with mere roadblocks but with a wall.

The present drift toward a third world war must be stopped. No possible approach to halting it should be neglected. Let us hope that the administration already is giving due consideration to a hemispheric alliance as one more alternative to the prospect of the United States going it alone.

PRESIDENTIAL RESPONSIBILITY

The assumption of many students of Amerian politics is that the President, being the chief executive officer of the United States, who with the Vice-President, is the only nationally elected official, is alone responsible for the conduct of government.

The Founding Fathers had a difficult time getting around the fact that they could not provide for a king in the Constitution. No principal European country, at that time, was without a monarch. Also at the time of the founding of the United States, the office of Prime Minister had not yet developed so that the Head of State was excluded from all executive and administrative functions. George III continued to interfere in the function of the government and Louis XVI had not yet been decapitated.

Upon the President were heaped the responsibilities of the Head of State and those of a Prime Minister. The experiment was a very successful one until the government became so complicated that in some instances the President could not know what was happening in some agencies until he read about it in the newspapers.

For the President then to assume total responsibility for all the activities of government is an absurdity. Even in the conduct of foreign affairs, there are so many agencies, that the President may or may not know, in advance, how each is carrying out his policies.

The State Department is, of course, the central agency of government dealing with foreign relations. But then there is the CIA, an extraordinarily complicated mechanism in charge of espionage, counter-espionage and paramilitary activities (cloak and dagger stuff). Then there is the ICA which distributes the aid we give to foreign countries and in this category there are several other agencies, some strictly American, some international with Americans in charge, using principally American money. The American Ambassador to the United Nations must be considered in the development of foreign policy as he has a day-by-day relationship to it.

It is impossible for the President of the United States to assume personal responsibility for everything men, engaged in the conduct of foreign policy. do, Before he can assume such responsibility, he must have the power to hire and fire every person engaged in handling foreign relations. In the first place, many important officials who hold such offices must be confirmed by the Senate, which can be a limitation upon the President. Then, the Foreign Service employes are part of the Civil Service and can only be dismissed for cause, or removed within the status that they had attained. In some instances, this is a wholesome provision, developing a career service of experts; in other instances it acts as an umbrella for the inefficient, the doctrinaire, the blabber-mouth.

The President's authority thus is limited by law and by practice and while the Boss is always responsible for the entire works, he must not, in a political situation, act as an umbrella for those who should be separated from government because of their errors.

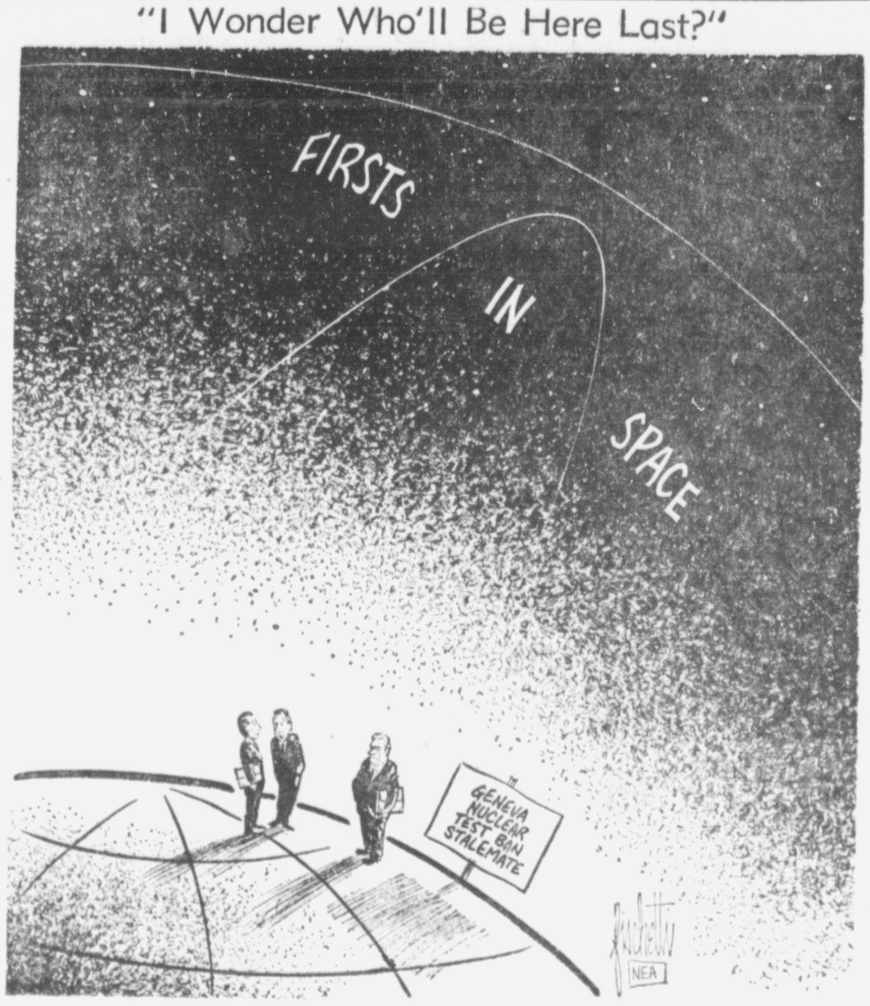

Constitutionally, it is possible to say that the sole responsibility for every executive and administrative act of government rests upon the President, but what of such agencies as TVA or the FCC or the ICC or the World Bank? The Hoover Reports have established beyond doubt the inability of any one man to monitor the whole of the American government or any large part of it.

The people are, of course, not concerned with the details of structure; they look at the facade and blame a President for the whole works. Not since Woodrow Wilson's time has a President had a taut, working Administration. The gargantuan characteristics of administration appeared during World War I and have been growing since. Roosevelt increased the physical size of the Executive branch of government as a phase of his solution of the Depression and finally to supply the needs of World War II. What the Eisenhower Administration found, it retained. The result has been a hardening of a temporary bureaucracy into permanency. Such institutions become entrenched and are not easily moved. Often reorganization problems are best solved by establishing a duplicative agency which only multiplies confusion.

A President can only be responsible for that part of the Administration which he, in his triple position as Head of State, Prime Minister, and Commander-in-Chief of the Armed Forces, can, under the law, control.

WASHINGTON — (NEA) — Rep. Bill Widnall (R-N.J.) received this note from a constituent:

"I would suggest that you and all members of Congress vote sincerely and honestly according to your conscience. You might not be re-elected, but, man, you could have fun!"

WHEN THE FIRST manned space capsule landed in the middle of the Congo jungle, a mother cautioned her little boy:

"Remember now, it's just like lobster. Eat only what's inside."

SECRETARY of Agriculture Orville L. Freeman says that the difference between his present job and his previous job as governor of Minnesota is largely a matter of public relations.

When he was governor, the job of his public relations man was to see that his name was on the front pages of the Minnesota papers every day. In Washington, the job of his public relations staff is to keep his name off the front pages.

DEMOCRATIC National Committee Chairman John M. Bailey, who was Fall Guy before the Saints and Sinners luncheon here the other day, told the story of the pig and the chicken that walked down the street together.

Every restaurant they passed had signs in the window advertising, "Ham and Eggs."

"See," said the chicken, "We're famous."

The pig grunted. "For you," he said, "a plate of ham and eggs is just a cackle. For me it's the supreme sacrifice."

LATEST STORY about the Peace Corps, also known as the Kiddie Corps and Toy Department:

AT THE CONCLUSION of a Washington rally of College Youth for Conservatism which was addressed by Sen. Strom Thurmond (D-S.C.) the chairman produced a fake telegram which read:

"Sorry I can't be with you. Know you'll have an interesting meeting. (Signed) Caroline Kennedy."

The Doctor's Mailbag

Excess of Some Vitamins Can Cause Bodily Upsets

By HAROLD T. HYMAN, M.D.
Newspaper Enterprise Assn.

Q—I have a dear little grandchild whose mother has been giving her concentrated tablets of cod liver oil. My daughter-in-law did this in the hope that the little girl would be saved from having colds during the winter. After a month or so, the child lost her appetite, although she formerly enjoyed her food, and often complained of pains in her stomach. Recently, she has repeatedly lost her supper after going to bed. Do you think this might be due to too many vitamins?

A—I would not presume to make a diagnosis of any medical condition, sight unseen. But I can assure you that the complaints you describe could well be the result of hypervitaminosis.

Although the water soluble vitamins (B1, B6, B12 and C) do not produce distress when given in excess, prolonged overdoses of the fat soluble vitamins (A and D), notably present in cod liver oil concentrates, may cause the symptoms you describe and, in addition, headache, diarrhea, increased thirst and urination and disturbances of calcium (lime) metabolism and of bone.

Since there is no verification of the repeated claims that vitamins have an "anti-infective" action in the well-nourished individual, as I presume your grandchild to be, you might well persuade your daughter-in-law to discontinue the youngster's medication and note the results.

But, I must warn you, better be prepared to skip town if she has the misfortune to catch cold!

Q—In your column on drug-induced Parkinsonism, you failed to say how much tranquilizer might cause this and how long it might take for this complication to develop. I am sure there must be many who, like me, would appreciate this information. Also how long might the symptoms persist? I have been afflicted for some time although I only took half a tablet, three or four times a week on retiring.

A—Drug-induced Parkinsonism from tranquilizers may occur as an idiosyncrasy. That is to say, it may appear promptly from a relatively small dose, taken over a brief period, if the individual happened to be peculiarly hypersensitive. It may also occur as a cumulative reaction after doses as small as yours, if taken over a prolonged period.

I have already called attention to the regrettable fact that the condition is now becoming so frequent (15.4 per cent in a recent study of 3,775 patients) that one drug manufacturer has launched a vigorous advertising campaign on behalf of a new drug, directed to the specific purpose of preventing or relieving this undesirable side reaction.

Since different tranquilizers appear to differ in their tendency to cause the familiar tremors, head nodding and difficulties in gait that characterize Parkinsonism, I cannot answer all of your questions as precisely as you would wish.

I can tell you that recent work suggests that, in some individuals, the disturbance may persist for at least five weeks. If it persists longer, there is, of course, the possibility that Parkinsonism might have developed even if the drug were never taken.

Integration at Social Events In Private Homes Debated

By DAVID LAWRENCE

WASHINGTON, May 18—An agitation started by spokesmen for the Kennedy administration is stirring up quite a controversy not only over the admission of Negroes to private clubs but their inclusion at cocktail parties and dinners in private homes.

The idea of "token" participation seems to have been rejected as unsatisfactory by many advocates of "integration," the argument being that to select a few is a kind of hypocrisy and that full participation on the basis of the proportion to population is much more equitable.

About 54 per cent of the population of the National Capital is Negro, so it is being argued tthat there must be "equality" and that a failure to provide an equal number of Negroes at cocktail parties and at official as well as private dinners is a form of "discrimination."

Two members of the Kennedy cabinet have spoken out on the subject of admission of Negroes to private clubs, but there has been no indication from them as to the quantitative formula to be used in determining how many should be admitted. Nor is there any clarification as yet as to what the Kennedy administration intends to do to coerce the private clubs to do its bidding. Taking away tax exemptions is one device often mentioned.

Discussion's Start

The public discussion was started by Attorney General Robert Kennedy and Secretary of Labor Arthur Goldberg. Mr. Kennedy in a television interview spoke of private clubs here that do not admit Negroes, and added:

"And, as I say, if we're going to practice what we preach we're going to have to take steps forward in all sections of the United States."

Secretary Goldberg, in a public address recently in New York, said:

"I find it difficult to understand why, in the houses I have frequented socially, the dinner parties, the cocktail parties, I have rarely seen Negroes as guests. This is particularly marked among intellectuals and liberals in our large cities, particularly in New York City and Chicago. Are there no Negro writers, composers, artists, academicians with whom one can break bread, with whom one can engage in intellectual discourse?"

There are, of course, many of us, irrespective of race or creed or color, who are never able to engage in "intellectual discourse" anyway, but, assuming that there are a fortunate few who can do so, the question arises as to what the Administration here has to do with it. The Supreme Court of the United States in recent decisions has upheld "freedom of association" for individuals, but this was in a case involving alleged Communists, rather than non-Communists so perhaps it doesn't apply to everybody.

Maybe the first thing to do is to get the facts. If there be inside the Kennedy administration many officials who are capable of engaging in "intellectual discourse," then indeed it might be asked whether lately they have been inviting any Negro couples to their cocktail parties and dinners.

So far as is known, the times that Negroes are prominent in official functions are rare—usually only when ambassadors from African nations are being entertained. Certainly no one has heard of an equal number of Negroes and whites being present at any official dinners and receptions to which the general public have been invited.

Present Occasionally

Many official functions have been held in Washington recently at which no Negroes were present. In political-campaign years, there are some, of course. Political dinners by the Republicans have for decades included some of the Negro politicians and their wives. Only in more recent times have the Democrats in the north done the same.

But, as far as is known, the Kennedy administration has not invited any quotas of Negroes for cocktail parties or dinners, though it could be that no functions have been held as yet at which "Negro writers, composers, artists, academicians" could find anyone with whom they could engage in "intellectual discourse."

What's needed around Washington, to be sure, are some standards and formulas to take care of the weighty problem of the invitation lists for dinners and cocktail parties — there doesn't seem to be enough worries to go around besides Laos and Cuba.

AS PEGLER SEES IT

By WESTBROOK PEGLER

NEW YORK, May 18—James A. Clendinen, the editor of the Tampa Tribune, has sent me a copy of the Masthead, the quarterly journal of The National Association of Editorial Writers, before whom I had the honor of strewing some pearls at their annual consistory in Richmond last year. Mr. Clendinen is also editor of The Masthead.

This issue contains a forum of "Columns" led (or should I say "sparked" or "triggered"?) by an essay from Philip M. Wagner, the editor of The Baltimore Sun, entitled "It's Only Merchandise." This thrust is inoffensive because the Bible, the Constitution and Mr. Wagner's own lucubrations all are of the stuff of daily commerce. Thus I find myself in fast company where I would be the last to say I have no business.

And if he be judged by this composition Mr. Wagner reveals bigotry against work better than his own when he writes: "Even when a columnist's opinion coincides core or less with his own, an editor who hands over space to him, saying, in effect: 'I agree with this man but he says it much better than I do'—" hands himself a black eye.

In plainer words, kill off the writer who can outwrite you.

But lest I get stuffy, I would relax and say that the "Column" has gone through a strange process since I went cosmic in 1933 on the same page with the Bull of the Woods, Heywood Broun. Walter Lippman was a savant even then, but about 20 years were to pass before he stooped to the level of my raucous intelligence with a piece that I could even spell out. I then realized fleetingly that Lippmann was mortal after all, but next day he went back to outer space never to return until his recent interview with Khrushchev, which reminded me of Roy Howard's knockout interview with Lloyd George in 1917. These feats are handouts, to be sure, and planted for political effect, but good ones are rare and the reporter who would turn his back on such a coup is priggish beyond forgiveness.

Broun was a loose-jointed liar. His wife, Ruth Hale, read books and wrote reviews which he then recast into his own whimsies and he dribbled melodious daily prose off the tips of his fingers. He had a beautiful gift here, but he was a real Communist in his facile treachery against truth and I believe also in the archives of the party.

I had known him in the press camp in France and was confident that I could bull him and wool him and make him whine by ignoring his subtleties which drew no blood, and belting him in his gurglingpaunch. I did, too, and he finally was driven to the New York Post a day or two before he died, hoping to drag a ruinous batch of Howard's World-Telegram circulation with him. He had narrowly lost a strike vote of the Newspaper Guild against the W-T which would have thrown 3,000 of his beloved fellow men out of work with their normal load of pregnancies, cancers, mortgages and all. A dirtier fighter I never knew nor any as selfish, either, all with a chuckling humane love.

Dorothy Thompson was doing a good business then, a strong, courageous girl but without the sweet, sly art of subtlety or fun. She wrote me years later that she had suffered a bad beating and great loss of clientele for her defense of the Arab cause.

Hugh Johnson had been inducted into journalism with sorry results, but he found himself on a return engagement after the Supreme Court killed his Nazi-Fascist experiment in the National Recovery Administration, Hugh's best work was mostly loud sound effects, however. He introduced a lexicon of home-writtled catch-terms—the Janissariat, the Hail of Dead Cats and, for that matter, his capsule description of the fatal blow to NRA. He summed up the issue that nullified this horrible assault on the Constitution as "The Sick Chicken Case."

Ray Clapper sidled over from the U. P.'s Washington Warren to take Broun's place, but he never had the gift of words and his thoughts were timid. It took him until the day before election to come out for Wilkie whereas, I, wise-guy, decided that he was a great Republican on the William H. Taft school before he was nominated over Dewey. Ray died recklessly and needlessly in a combat plane crash as though to demonstrate, like Hemingway, that he was very, very brave. And so he was but to worse than no purpose.

The editors themselves of the daily press nullified the elite quality of the cosmic column of the '30's and '40's. Our dozen or so swollen to a hundred by mediocrities like the Marines when the corps began to take draftees.

Like Inez Robb, I have always enjoyed "feature" material, realizing that few of my colleagues can handle anything lighter than a sledge. As for style and grace the only lightsome anonymous editorial writers known to me are the leader-men of the Chicago Tribune who revel in their serene contempt for the Pulitzer board.

BABSON on BUSINESS

By Roger W. Babson

BABSON PARK, Mass., May 19—I hear that some of the college professors who are advising President Kennedy on means of increasing employment favor expanding consumer installment buying.

Present Extent of the Credit Business

Credit comes in two forms:—(1) When your wife goes to her favorite store and has her purchases "charged." The store looks up her record through the Municipal Credit Bureau. If she has no black marks against her, the goods are given her or sent to her home. When the monthly bill is sent for these goods, the store expects a payment in a short time,—thirty days later as a maximum. The stores really like to encourage such charge accounts, as your wife is likely to buy more if she can charge the goods rather than pay cash.

The other form of credit purchase is where the buyer gives a note, or several notes, payable on specified dates, with power of repossession of the goods on a certain date after reasonable notice in case a note is not paid. I do not object per se to such installment buying, especially on refrigerators, television sets, washing machines, clothes dryers, and other household appliances which can be repossessed in good condition. I however, earnestly urge that you read the light fine print on the agreement and really understand what you are asked to sign.

Houses, Automobiles, and Furniture

As I read the advertisements today on new homes for sale, I am astounded at the way they can be bought by veterans without any down payment, or can be bought by anyone at very small down payments and a long mortgage of thirty or more years. This is very different from when I was a young man getting married. Then we were compelled to pay one-third in cash and the mortgage would be written for only five years. When talking to students of Babson Institute, I call to their attention the economics of birds, which build their "houses" before they are "married" and raise any little birds.

To young people buying furniture on the installment plan, I am not prepared now to give definite advice. The laws of different states vary as to the rights of repossession. If you are behind in the payments on a house, it is a long legal process for the mortgagee to get you out of the house, especially if you are willing to pay a reasonable rent. If you are behind in your payments for a television set or some other luxury item, and default on these payments, you must be prepared to let the store take it back before you damage it. This also applies to certain household utilities mentioned above.

When it comes to buying furniture on installment, a young couple should carefully consider each item purchased. One installment note and agreement should cover the bedroom furniture; another note and agreement should cover the living room furniture; and a third note and agreement could cover the dining room set. All incidentals should be paid for in cash. Furthermore, the three sets of furniture should not be bought at the same time; but in the order above outlined, say at least a month apart, even if you are obliged to "camp out" for a few weeks. As I look back to my early married days, we got considerable pleasure out of gradually furnishing our little house. Surely more pleasure comes in striving than in arriving.

Statistics Which Should be Read

Let me close this column by giving some statistics for bankers, merchants, and parents to read. These figures are based upon a survey by the University of Michigan. The survey showed that 68% of American households are in debt in one form or another, 48% of the families are saddled with periodic installment debt repayments; 31% owe mortgage debts; 24% owe on non-installment debt. According to the study, 14% of the families owing installment debt are "in hock" for over $1,000,—double the proportion only five years ago.

The survey had one encouraging note. Namely, that about one-third of the families owing installment debt report that they have enough savings to offset their debt. For those who rationalize that installment buying keeps their savings in tact, I would like to point out that statistics show this is a very costly practice.

Think It Through

By E. F. HUTTON

UNEMPLOYMENT

The fact that for thousands of years men have made labor-saving machines, without creating permanent unemployment, is considerable assurance that today's new machines will have a similar result.

Machines do reduce the demand for human muscle to do the same work as the machines. The growth of agricultural machinery and the decline in farm population go hand in hand.

E. F. Hutton

But this is only one side of the coin. Machines do create jobs. Millions of today's jobs did exist a generation ago. The typewriter, for example, has provided 2,000,000 jobs.

But the pace quickens. Blue-collar jobs disappear and white-collar jobs multiply. The machine upgrades human toil. The day for common labor,—a strong back and a weak brain,—is about over. High school kids should boil down on books more than basketball. If not, they may spend most of their lives at the bottom of the class.

The worst thing they could do is to expect the Government to take care of them. Who then takes care of the Government? They must develop skills, gumption and the grit necessary to cope with the new frontiers, as their forefathers did.

Then if an industry dwindles, as the whaling ships did, or as railroads are doing, they will move on to new opportunities, and know how to seize them.

Tragic unemployment does not occur in industries that make technological improvements, but in those that do not.

School Boards Dinner Held at Saugerties HS

School taxes are the one place where people can voice objection to taxes in general, said Dr. Theodore C. Wenzl, director of the Division of School Financial Aid of the State Education Department, at the Ulster County School Boards' dinner held at the High School Wednesday at which Saugerties School Board was host.

Dr. Wenzel went on to say a three-way partnership is needed in education between the local community, the state, and the nation. Local support is based on the real estate tax. The general picture over New York is that 40 per cent of the cost is paid by the state and 60 per cent by the local community. (The state contribution to the cost of education in Saugerties is considerably higher than the state average.)

"We need state and federal support for education," said Dr. Wenzl, "for at least two reasons. For one matter, the state and federal governments are able to reach all tax sources, whereas the local communities must depend almost exclusively on real estate. Secondly, we need state and federal support because these two agencies are able to equalize the burden."

The meeting was presided over by Ben Miller, president of the Ulster County School Board Association. Seated at the head table, also were Harry Allen, vice president from Onteora, and Mrs. Vincent G. Connelly, secretary-treasurer of Kingston. John Lowther, local board president, briefly welcomed the visiting board members.

Mr. Miller announced that election of officers would be held at the first fall meeting. The chairman of the nominating committee is Mrs. Henry Schroeder of Saugerties. Mr. Miller appointed Dr. William Hageny of New Paltz as legislative chairman. Phil Gordon of Onteora is to be chairman of the committee that will investigate the potential of central purchasing. Mrs. John Jacobson of Ellenville was appointed chairman of the planning committee and Mrs. Ann Larey chairman of the publicity committee.

About 50 board members were present. The dinner was served in the high school cafeteria under the direction of Mrs. June Myer, cafeteria manager for the Saugerties Central Schools system. Lyle Schoenthal, an official from the New York State School Boards office, was present and upon being invited to speak expressed congratulations to the association on having organized. Good organization calls for local initiative, he said, and you people have that.

Tractor-Trailer Straddles Fence Near Saugerties

The spiked stone wall on Burt Street near Simmons Corners, Saugerties, a long-time nemesis of motor vehicles at this point impaled another tractor-trailer truck this morning. The driver was reported uninjured, according to Saugerties Village police.

Floyd Krom, 43, of Ellenville, was the driver of the 1959 tractor-trailer owned by Rondout Transportation Company of Napanoch.

The driver told Patrolmen Jack Washburn and Edward Sweeney the empty truck began bouncing on the pavement edge while traveling north on Route 9W near the intersection of Burt Street, Barclay Heights, and failed to negotiate the turn. The truck rode over the guard rails and straddled the stone fence, police reported. The mishap occurred at 6:15 a. m. and slowed down traffic at this point for over three hours.

Po'keepsie Firm Names Local Man Traffic Manager

Herman Roosa of 359 Albany Avenue, Kingston, a former Second Ward supervisor, was named traffic manager this week of Weston Instruments Division, Daystrom Inc., Poughkeepsie.

Roosa, a former employe of Electrol Inc., here, will assume the supervision and direction of material handling, stores, shipping and receiving, and local and long distance transportation for Weston's several locations in Poughkeepsie.

Roosa joined Weston in 1944 with Frederick Hart Inc., where he had held the position of expediter, assistant production control manager and chief production planner.

He was elected Second Ward supervisor on the Republican ticket in November 1947 and served for a two-year term. Roosa is a native of Woodstock and attended Kingston High School.

Agreements Won't

Laos the United States is determined to stand by commitments to prevent free nations from being taken over by international communism.

Kennedy met Thursday with former Secretary of State Dean Acheson, who is advising him on NATO policies; Assistant Secretary of State Foy Kohler; Charles E. Bohlen, the State Department's top expert on Soviet affairs; and McGeorge Bundy, the President's special assistant for international security affairs.

The President has scheduled a National Security Council meeting for this afternoon.

HONORED BY HIS COMMUNITY — Nearly 200 residents of Saugerties honored one of its outstanding citizens, John C. Sauer, realtor, banker and former public office holder at a testimonial dinner Thursday night at The Flamingo Restaurant under the auspices of Saugerties Area Chamber of Commerce. Sauer, (left) accepts plaque presented by the Saugerties Chamber for a distinguished career in the cultural and civic activities of his community. Saugerties Town Citizenry Honors Native Son, Sauer

Bankers, bakers and candlestick makers; merchants, morticians, professionals and politicians gathered Thursday night at The Flamingo Restaurant to pay homage to John C. Sauer, a native Saugertiesan for his civic and cultural contributions to his community.

Nearly 200 of the Saugerties citizenry attended the testimonial dinner arranged by Saugerties Area Chamber of Commerce, the organization he served as president and vice president for over 20 years.

Accolades were presented, many in a humorous vein, by Supervisor Peter M. Williams, the Rev. Ray Kulman, former pastor of Atonement Lutheran Church, Saugerties; former Surrogate Judge John B. Sterley and Glenford I. Teetsel, guest speakers.

All spoke of Sauer's outstanding achievements for the Village and Town of Saugerties.

Joseph Bosco, master of ceremonies related the life story of Sauer with the aid of caricatures and members of Saugerties High School Sextette. The girls in costume, who played parts in the past of Sauer were Patricia Sloboda, a vaudeville acquaintance; Christine Matthews, his teacher, and Gloria McLaughlin, his nurse. Other members of the sextette, who participated in musical presentations were Janet Schlenker, Jean Wood, Barbara Olsen and Karen Eckerlein, pianist. Miss Janice Peterson of the high school music department directed the group.

Dinner Chairman Peter Murphy made the formal plaque and gift presentation for the Saugerties Chamber. John F. Carnright and Charles Gilmour, in Little Leauge costume also played a part in the presentation program.

A gift from the Little League was presented by Vernon Joe Benjamin, who was named outstaning citizen in 1960 by Saugerties Jaycees. Sauer was the first president of Saugerties Little League and served in that capacity for seven years.

In addition to a plaque, Sauer received a parlor easy chair from the Chamber. Vincent Amrod, Chamber president aided in the presentation and introduced some of the principals.

port of the plan would be contingent on the site being in the northern part of Ulster (Saugerties).

Construction of a community college on a 50-acre tract near the Thruway at the intersection of Routes 32 and 212 at Saugerties by the three neighboring counties was proposed to Columbia County Board of Supervisors by the citizens committee on May 10.

At the April 27 meeting, Ulster County Board of Supervisors voted 17-15, authorizing a referendum on the establishment of a community college at the November election.

At that meeting Ferdinand Schaller, a New Jersey sausage manufacturer offered 50 acres, part of the former Winston Farm property at Saugerties as a gift to the county for a college site.

Scientific...

youth of Ulster County than Mr. Klein, he said, and referred to his humanitarian philosophy." He pointed to the honors which "his boys" get at institutions of higher learning.

George Mollenhauer, supervisor of the town of Rosendale, spoke as the father of a former member of the F.F.A. His son, Davis is attending college. Mollenhauer spoke of the opportunities at college, said no boy need to shun college because of lack of funds and he pointed out opportunities to work while in college for financial assistance. He too paid tribute to Mr. Klein.

The last speaker introduced by President Elliott was his Agriculture teacher, Mr. Klein.

Klein spoke on the need for the value of agricultural education. Farming is "not going out" he said and while only 10 per cent of the population is working on the farm that group is, through better training in the complexities of the industry, producing more for the needs of the country. He stressed the need for better training to hold this position. Farming is still the biggest industry in the country with farmers having an income of $11 billions and when his own food is also figured in they really get about $18 billions. Gross business of farming and allied industries is close to $40 billions.

Farming uses half as much steel as the whole automobile industry and farmers have assets of some $208 billions. Beside the full time farmer, the country has 2,000,000 part time farmers. Farming and allied industries account for approximately 40 per cent of the working force of the country, Klein said.

Ulster County is primarily an agricultural area with a $5 million income from fruit, $4 million from poultry and $1 million from vegetables and considerable income from a growing nursery stock business.

There are many allied businesses for which agricultural training is valuable such as selling of farm machinery, knowledge of feed, record keeping, milk testing, soil testing, and many others. Agricultural training opens field for county agent work, related work in field and orchard and in many allied fields.

Western World Is

tion, artistic and public affairs leaders from around the world are attending the three-day conference designed to define and discuss a course for "The Individual in the Modern World."

The American Council of Learned Societies and the Corning Glass Foundation are co-sponsors of the conference, which is an extension of the discussion on living in an industrial civilization at the first conference 10 years ago.

Malik said the western world has over-emphasized materialism and in so doing has forgotten its traditions of expanding human freedoms.

"There is nothing comparable to the depth and truth of the traditions of Greece, Rome, the Near East and Western Europe," he said. "The decisive thing is that this tradition is unbroken."

Series H Bonds Offer Safe Current Income

ROGER E. SPEAR

Q—"I purchased quite a few Series E bonds during World War II. Do these bonds continue to draw interest after 20 years? Could I exchange them for some other type of Government bonds which would pay me interest annually to supplement my Social Security benefits at retirement age in a few more years?." A. W.

A—Yes, your E bonds will continue to draw interest—and at higher rates—under terms of a second extension recently announced by the Treasury Department. Bonds held during the coming ten-year period will accumulate interest at an average rate of 3.75 per cent. This compares with a return of between 3 and 3.47 per cent during the first extension and 2.90 per cent when the bonds were first sold.

Since you are looking ahead to retirement, I think it might be wise to consider converting your E bonds to Series H bonds. The latter are attractive for people like yourself who require a secure current income. H bonds yield 3¾ per cent interest if held to maturity in ten years. You receive interest by check every six months and, after the second year of ownership, you would receive $40 per year for each $1000 bond. If you do convert to Series H bonds, you can defer payment of income taxes on the accrued E bond interest.

Q—"I bought shares of Smith-Corona at 15, at your mention, and they are now around 28. Should I hold out? A. G.

A — Smith-Corona (NYSE) shares have been acting well on management's estimates that earnings will rebound strongly from poor showing last year. I believe the company is in a definite recovery phase, helped by its new campact typewriter introduced last December. There is risk here, though, and in your place I would sell half my shares, which would return to you almost all your original investment.

Engineers Favor Prompt Action On College Move

Prompt action toward securing a Community College for Ulster County was one of the matters discussed by the members of the Ulster Chapter of the New York State Society of Professional Engineers at their monthly meeting Wednesday at Kirkland Hotel.

The action toward securing a Community College followed a lively discussion of the matter after installation of officers for the coming year had been concluded.

Officers Installed

During the discussion the need for a Community College was aired and the chapter in its entirety favored prompt action by the Ulster County board of supervisors on this matter.

The newly elected officers of the chapter who were installed are:

Roland H. Green, Ulster County superintendent of highways, president; Irwin Gellen of IBM, vice president; T. A. Baggot of IBM, secretary-treasurer; W. S. Van derBent of Van derBent Associates, director for three years.

The chapter has been making arrangements for the invitation of the state society to hold a convention in Kingston during 1962.

Augustus Brinnier, of Brinnier and Larios, is making arrangements for the June meeting at Twaalfskill Club. This affair, as in past years, is to be for the wives and guests of members.

Plan Member Drive

A membership drive is planned by R. Walton, membership chairman. All licensed professional engineers, land surveyors and engineers will be contacted during this drive. Any questions concerning the activities of the Ulster Chapter of Professional Engineers can be directed to Mr. Walton or any of the members and officers of the local chapter.

LWV Sets Aims

The program was adopted Thursday as the 14,232-member league closed its biennial convention.

Senate to Quiz Lemnitzer Today On Cuban Fiasco

WASHINGTON (AP)—A Senate subcommittee delving into the Cuban invasion disaster turns to Gen. Lyman L. Lemnitzer today for the Pentagon's still-untold version of the extent of its involvement.

Sen. Wayne Morse, D-Ore., the subcommittee chairman, said its members want to know "who originated the order bringing the military into preparations for the invasion" and whether "signals were changed" after it got under way.

Lemnitzer, chairman of the Joint Chiefs of Staff, faced these and other searching questions at a closed door meeting of the Foreign Relations Latin American Affairs subcommittee.

"We are trying to find out what the full extent of our military participation was, and also why," Morse added.

Sen. Frank Church, D-Idaho, a member of the subcommittee, said that on the basis of testimony so far it appeared the Joint Chiefs of Staff "had a very critical role to play in the invasion."

NEW YORK (AP) — The American steel industry is on a global hunt for new sources of iron ore to offset the depletion of the richer deposits in Minnesota's Mesabi range, traditional source of food for the nation's blast furnaces. Steelways, publication of the American Iron and Steel Institute, says the industry has invested more than two billion dollars into this project in the last 10 years in Canada, Venezuela, Chile, Peru, Brazil and Liberia.

Firm Advocates Seat Belt Use; Equips Its Cars

New York Trap Rock Corp., West Nyack has advocated mandatory installation of seat belts in passenger automobiles for some time and backed its opinion in a directive January 4 by equipping its company cars for the safety of its employes.

In February the corporation in a letter to all state legislators recommended that a bill be introduced making it mandatory that automobile manufacturers include seat belts for all cars sold in the state.

In a recent letter from the office of Executive Vice President J. R. Kringel of Trap Rock Corporation, the firm's represented commented favorably on a Freeman editorial on the subject which pointed out that Secretary of Commerce Hodges struck an effective blow for auto safety when he ordered that seat belts be installed — and made use of — in all official Commerce Department vehicles. Hodges went a couple of steps further. He encouraged employes to use seat belts in their personal cars.

Do You Remember by Sophie Miller

Someone from Stone Ridge sent me a very nice set of photo-picture postal cards of Kingston Poinnt Park. According to the clothes, I would say these pictures were taken around 1900. Although no name given of the sender, I just want to say I appreciate these views and will put them with other cards and pictures of Kingston Point.

It is difficult to believe when seeing Kingston Point as it is now, that it was once one of the most picturesque parks along the Hudson. One card is of the "general view of Kingston Point, from the Pavilion." It shows the oriental band-stand on an island, the bridge which disappeared in some mysterious manner, not too long ago. The walks are white wide paths, so perhaps they had special little white stones on them then. The boat renting pier is there, with a little bridge from the mainland. Everything so neat, and in order. There are so many natural rock formations with which the artistic people of those years built lovely walks, summer houses and pavilions.

There is another card called 4578-General View of Kingston Point." This was taken on the high part between the yacht club and the trolley-shed, showing the Hudson river touching the rock formation and also the high parts of the park and paths. People and children are all around, dressed in their Sunday best, quietly enjoying a gone but not forgotten recreation center that took care of thousands of local people and visitors summer weekends.

View No. 4581 shows "Landing of 'The Albany' Kingston Point, N. Y." Remember the Kingston Point benches, they were all along the wide wooden walk by the pier. I just want to say, at this time, that I do not remember any vandalism in my time at Kingston Point Park. Benches were always in good condition, glass was never broken. Adults and their children enjoyed and respected their park. It is strange to say this now, but no one would dare, in my time, to pick a flower from the magnificent display they had during the summer months. In those days, they had lively young people who went to Kingston Point dances in the evening, as no doubt many remember, but they just did not break things as seems to be the usual situation now-a-days.

Incidentally the "Albany" big steamer is crowded with people, I also remember that trips on the Hudson River boats were always very nice. Some would listen to the music, some danced below, others walked and children were quiet though lively. When I was little it was the most fun to walk up and down the big staircases and watch what was going on. I never remember shouting, screaming, fighting or any vandalism on the boats. Yet, we were all lively and had the most wonderful appetites, everybody ate well on the boats. Lunch was taken in big boxes, people were friendly and sat in neighborly groups. I have another view No. 4585—"Railroad Station and Boat Landing, which shows much more of the Hudson river. It was so nice looking at all these cards, I do hope someday, in some way Kingston Point can be brought back as a park.

Indonesia Educator Will Visit College

Dean Sadarjoen, head of the Teachers College at Bandung, Indonesia, and vice president of Padjadjaron University in Indonesia, will visit the State University College of Education from May 18 to June 4, and will return to the campus for a second visit from June 30 to July 9.

A recognized leader in Indonesian Teacher Education, Dean Sadarjoen has welcomed foreign assistance in the Teacher Education program for his country and has attempted to learn more about teacher education in other lands. His visit to New Paltz is for the purpose of learning more about the college's teacher education program.

Interest in teacher education in the United States came about as a result of a recommendation to the Ford Foundation made by Dr. William J. Haggerty, president of the College of Education, New Paltz, to have the State University of New York sponsor a program in Indonesia.

The Ford Foundation had been working in Indonesia for a number of years, and it decided to also include the field of education in its technical assistance program. President Haggerty was asked by the Ford Foundation to be a consultant and work with the Foundation and the Indonesian Minister of Education, Hutasoit, who came to the United States. Later the four deans of the Indonesian Teachers College, including Dean Sadarjoen, came to this country, and President Haggerty again served as consultant.

Begin After Season Sale of Duck Stamps

The second annual after-the-season sale of migratory waterfowl stamps by the Bureau of Sport Fisheries and Wildlife of the Fish and Wildlife Service is now underway, Warren E. Diffendall of Walden, U. S. Game Management agent said today.

Diffendall urged local school pupils and Scout troops to consider making purchases as conservation projects so they may become full partners in the national effort to purchase wetlands needed by waterfowl and marsh birds.

All net revenues are earmarked by law for such purchases. The stamps were required to be possessed by all waterfowl hunters during the gunning season. Purchase of the stamp now is strictly a contribution for conservation.

Checks and money orders should be sent to the U. S. Fish and Wildlife Service, Washington 25, D. C. The sale closes June 30.

Troy Methodists Would Ban Tests Of Nuclear Arms

SARATOGA SPRINGS, N.Y. (AP)—An international treaty to ban tests of nuclear weapons is urged in a resolution put to a vote today by delegates attending the annual meeting of the Troy Methodist Conference.

The resolution, recommended by the conference's Board of Christian Social Concerns, noted that there were "certain risks involved," but called on the American government "to conclude a test-ban treaty as speedily as possible."

Opposes Frisco Film

The government, the resolution recommends, "should begin positively to shift the emphasis from peace through increasing armaments to peace through continued controlled disarmament."

Another resolution opposed the methods of the House Committee on Un-American Activities and its film "Operation Abolition" concerning demonstrations at committee hearings last year in San Francisco.

Conference delegates viewed the film last night, then distributed booklets of protest.

The resolution calls for support of the stand taken by the National Council of Churches to show the film but to raise questions about it.

In other actions Thursday, the conference:

Was told that its hospital insurance program in operation for one year, had not yet been able to cover persons 65 or older.

Increases Pensions

Voted to increase ministers' pensions from $44 to $48 for each year of active, full-time service. A minister who retired after 20 years thus would receive $960 a year.

Exiles Would Take Up Castro's Offer To Swap Prisoners

MIAMI, Fla. (AP)—Cuban exiles today favored taking up Fidel Castro's offer to free invasion captives for 500 American bulldozers, but they differed on who should do it.

An anti-Castro schoolteachers organization pledged $800—$1 for each member—Thursday toward buying the bulldozers. It scheduled a Saturday meeting to form a prisoners exchange committee.

The Revolutionary Schoolteachers Directorate said, "We accept Fidel Castro's challenge, but it will not be President Kennedy but the people of Cuba who will send the bulldozers."

A Cuban editor in exile had a different reaction.

Sergio Carbo, editor of Prensa Libre, said the United States should take up Castro's offer at once.

"All free citizens of the Americas have faith that Mr. Kennedy will take Castro' soffer into consideration without delay," Carbo said.

Cuba holds about 1,000 men, mostly Cuban exiles, captured in the abortive April 17 invasion.

Equipment dealers say 500 bulldozers would cost $6 million to $27 million, depending on the model chosen.

Levitt Selects Liberal Leader For $21,000 Job

ALBANY, N.Y. (AP) — The Democratic state comptroller has selected an officer of the Liberal Party to fill a $21,000-a-year state post in a move to win uncommitted Liberal votes for his party.

Comptroller Arthur Levitt plans to appoint Leon Braun, 53, of New York City, chairman of the Liberal Party's law committee in Manhattan, to head the state retirement system as a deputy state comptroller, a Levitt spokesman confirmed Thursday.

Braun will succeed William Girden, also a Liberal, upon Girden's retirement June 1.

The Liberal Party is centered in New York City, where both Republicans and Democrats are courting the small but influential party in a bid for votes in this fall's mayoral election.

Each of the two major parties also is seeking Liberal support for next year's gubernatorial election, in which Levitt may oppose Republican Gov. Rockefeller.

Rockefeller last year renamed Ira J. Palestin, a prominent Liberal, to the State Tax Commission, at $22,000 a year.

Levitt's office claimed that Braun, as head of a system with $1.5 billion in assets and 250,000 members, would hold a higher policy post than Palestin does.

The 19-year-old soldier attended Saugerties High School.

Hope Revenue Service Gets It Straightened Out

BALTIMORE (AP)—The postman not only rang twice, he rang three times, and Mr. and Mrs. Francis E. Scott hope he doesn't ring again.

In March the Scotts received a refund check from the Internal Revenue Service for $304.71.

On April 10 they received another. Realizing an error had been made, they returned it. Unfortunately, it somehow got torn, and the IRS sent them another check to "replace the one which was mutilated." Again it was returned.

Then came a bill for $306.06. The IRS had discovered the duplication and the added amount was for interest.

A phone call to the Baltimore IRS Bureau brought this encouraging advice: "Send the bill directly to us, or your wages will be attached."

Career Men Get Executive Jobs In MV Department

ALBANY, N.Y. (AP)—Herman Spector of Albany, a veteran of 20 years' state service, was named supervisor today of the Buffalo district of the State Motor Vehicle Department.

Frank McHenka of suburban Loudonville, an 11-year-veteran, was named supervisor of the Binghamton district.

Each will receive $9,030 a year.

Francis Darling, now Binghamton supervisor, was shifted to Utica.

The posts of district supervisors had been filled on a temporary basis since their creation last year. Spector and Darling will replace temporary appointees. William S. Hults, motor vehicle commissioner said.

The supervisors' positions were created in a reorganization of motor vehicle operations in preparation for the establishment of the department, which succeeded the Bureau of Motor Vehicles.

Some phases of the reorganization drew criticism from legislators, who reportedly protested plans to promote career appointees at the expense of political appointees.

Some lawmakers were said to feel this change would make it difficult for them to represent constituents in dealing with the department.

Hults said Spector was being promoted from the department's planning section, which he joined after prior service in the Tax and Audit and Control departments and the Budget Bureau. He is a native of New York City.

McHenka, a native of Endwell has been a senior personnel administrator with the department.

Opening of bids for reconstruction of a four-mile section of Route 28 between Clovesville and the Ulster County line at Highmount has been postponed until June, pending completion of property appraisals along the right of way.

Mrs. Edward Klothe and daughter, Mrs. Louis G. Bruhn, of Kingston were recent callers here. Mrs. Klothe before marriage was Beulah Winchell, granddaughter of Abram Winchell, one time Wall Street merchant who was brought up in the old stone farmhouse near the present village of Ashokan, which was built by Peter Winchell following the Revolutionary War.

Glancing Over TV Bill of Fare

By CYNTHIA LOWRY
AP TV-Radio Writer

NEW YORK (AP) — Johnny Crawford, 15, the brown-eyed little actor who plays Chuck Connors' son in "The Rifleman," is much too busy even to consider going steady with a girl.

"Going steady is getting to be a stupid thing now in Los Angeles," Johnny confided. "And I have always thought it was. Why, one of my friends started at 13 going with a girl who was 12 and he kept it up for six months. But he told me later that he was sorry, because life was too short and it was better to play the whole field."

Johnny is much more interested in his horse than in any girl. Besides, he has his work at the studios, his school work and his hobbies to keep him thoroughly occupied.

Johnny lives with his parents—his father is a film editor in a motion picture studio—and his actor-brother and sister in the Hollywood hills. He has been performing since he was 3.

His hobby is collecting old motion-picture films and his personal hero is pioneer Western star William S. Hart.

"Of course, I plan to keep on acting," Johnny said, "But I'd also like to be a producer. Particularly I'd like to produce a documentary film of the Old West, the way it really was. I think the Old West is being destroyed by all the silly Westerns."

ABC's "Wyatt Earp" is winding up its long TV career with a five-part semidocumentary series covering the legendary marshal's long career, including the famous shootout at the O. K. Corral. When the series disappears—this fall—from network TV, it is planned to put the shows together for use as a full-length motion picture.

Why Didn't We Know About Korea Revolt?

By RAY CROMLEY
Newspaper Enterprise Assn.

WASHINGTON — (NEA) — Why was the United States caught flat-footed by the revolt in Korea?

When the answer to that is in, there's likely to be a complete overhaul of U. S. intelligence gathering methods.

About 48 hours after the revolt, the U. S. government was still not certain who the real rebel leaders were, what the purposes of the revolt were or what direction it would take politically.

The Central Intelligence Agency, the State Department and the Department of Defense are all being asked—and asking themselves—how could it happen?

It is all the more baffling when it is realized that the United States probably has in Korea more government and military groups than in any foreign country. And the U. S. supposedly had closer relationships with the young Korean generals apparently behind the revolt than with the officers of any other country.

There will be Washington reports forthcoming that purport to show the revolt was anticipated. In one way, these reports will be "true." There have been the usual rumors and rumblings of dissatisfaction and revolt that go on in Korea all the time. There was a prediction that there might be a revolt on the first anniversary of the student revolts that threw Syngman Rhee out of power.

But that anniversay passed by without problems. So the thinking was that there wouldn't be any trouble for a while.

There certainly were no usable reports on which anyone could have acted.

In U. S. Government circles, officials are blaming each other, with the Central Intelligence Agency getting the brunt of the blame. CIA is responsible for political intelligence outside the United States. But the State and Defense Departments—the other government agencies with well-staffed missions—did not know what was going to happen either.

Here is another bumble that Gen. Maxwell Taylor's special task group on the failures of U. S. intelligence is expected to dig into with vigor.

The failure of the CIA in Cuba was bad enough. But in Korea, American agents have relative freedom of movement. They have contacts with all the Korean bigwigs, including all those who reportedly took part in the revolt.

So there's going to be even stronger pressure for a complete overhaul in intelligence—the gathering of information, the speedy transmission of information, the better analysis of information.

The Korean intelligence failure points up another weakness of the current system. U. S. agents not only didn't accurately predict the revolt, but it is taking them an intolerably long time to find out what it's all about. Perhaps more important, once they get the information, it will take a long time to get it relayed to the U. S. offices where it is to be studied. As one official put it:

"It's a slow, inefficient system. You newspapermen get your stuff through a lot faster."

Other typical comments:

"If the press reports confuse you, that's because the situation is confused. We don't know what's happening. Wait another 24 hours. By then, we may have the picture straightened out."

"We're not sure now who's back of this revolt, or what they're aiming at. Yes, we've seen the reports that Lt. Gen. Chang Do Yung is the head man, but we're not certain this is true. We think we'll know shortly."

Heated Problem

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — Assistant Fire Chief Jim Fairbanks of Lockbourne Air Force Base says a man sauntered into one of the base fire stations and asked: "Say, do you guys know where I can get a fire extinguisher?" Thinking he wanted one for home use, the fireman on duty answered: "We have some here, but we can't loan them out. Maybe you could get one from base supply tomorrow on a hand receipt." "Well, I really wanted one before that," was the reply. "I'm in kind of a hurry. My car is on fire."

Jewish Music Will Be Featured June 3 At Community Center

Hanus A. Schimmerling of Woodstock, composer, conductor and teacher, is arranging the Jewish Community Center's Music festival planned for Saturday, June 3.

The program on contemporary Israeli music is set for 9 p. m. at Temple Emanuel. The derivations of present-day Israeli music will be shown through performances by June Pauker, soprano; Peter Bornstein, violinist; and Mr. Schimmerling, pianist, who will also comment on the works and their composers.

A native of Moravia, now Czechoslovakia, Shimmering is a graduate of the Prague Academy of Music and the University of Vienna. His first position was as conductor of the Prague Opera House. He came to this country in 1926 as coach and accompanist for Metropolitan Opera singer Michael Bohnen.

His musical works have been published extensively in the United States and abroad. He has studied national folklore throughout Europe and last year did research in comparative methods of Education there.

Schimmerling is former director of the Hunter College Opera Workshop and head of the department of opera and theory at the Chatham Square Music School. A resident of Woodstock since 1950, he taught in the Onteora and Kingston school districts and was co-founder of the Harmony Hill Concerts.

Tickets for the June 3 festival may be obtained at the Jewish Community Center, 265 Wall Street, or from Mrs. Raphael Klein, Mrs. Stanley Cagle or Mrs. Philip Rosdol. Daniel A. Balsam is executive director of the Jewish Community Center. Harry Simon is chairman of the music festival.

Music for dancing was provided by Johnny Michaels and his band.

Entered in 'Miss Woodstock' Competition

RENATE SIEG LORRAINE ROWE

The Woodstock Junior Chamber of Commerce, which is sponsoring the "Miss Woodstock" contest, has announced two entries. They are Miss Renate Sieg, a freshman at State University College of Education at New Paltz, and Miss Lorraine Rowe, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Howard Rowe of the Stuyvesant-Kingston Hotel.

The contest is scheduled for Saturday, May 27 at the Woodstock Playhouse. The winner will be entered in the New York State preliminaries of the Miss America contest.

Miss Sieg is working her way through college by modeling in New York during the summer months and as a waitress on campus during the school year. Born in Germany, she first came to the United States in 1951. After spending four years in this country, her father's business activities took her to Spain and England where she went to modeling school. Since 1958 she has resided in New York City.

Among Miss Sieg's many interests are riding, sewing and painting. Her ambition is "to learn as much as I can."

Miss Rowe attended Jamaica High School and is now enrolled in the adult education program at Kingston High School. She has also participated in the YWCA program and likes roller skating, modern dancing, painting, modeling and all sports, especially basketball.

Miss Rowe served as secretary of the Teenage Dance Club, won second prize in a poster contest and honorable mention for participation in a school science fair. Her hobbies are keeping a scrapbook, reading, collecting souvenirs from different states. She would like to model professionally, has had considerable success in modeling competitions.

Detailed information about the contest may be obtained from Gordon D. Frye, Woodstock.

United Jewish Fund Drive Is Progressing

Samuel Levine, chairman of the United Jewish Welfare Fund campaign, reported to the Campaign Council on May 16 that one-half of the goal has already been reached in the Advance Gifts solicitation. Attempts will be made this week to secure coverage on the balance of the Advance Gifts cards prior to May 25. On that date the campaign will enter the General Solicitation phase, with a kick-off dinner at the Governor Clinton Hotel. Mr. Levine reported that his co-chairmen of General Solicitation, Geral Gruberg, Joseph Murkoff and Benjamin Suskind, have recruited a substantial group of workers to complete this phase of the campaign quickly.

Reservations for the May 25 dinner can be made by calling the welfare fund office.

Repeat Performances Set for Coach House Play Tonight, Sat.

"Janus," the current production of the Coach House Players which opened last night at the George Washington School is breezy and entertaining in a thoroughly professional style. Directed by Houston Richards, the play teeters between sophisticated comedy and unabashed farce. The lines are crisp and the laughs are frequent.

The basic idea is an attractive one. A respectable wife and mother played with dash and wit by Jo Jolivette, slips away from home and family for two months every year to collaborate with a mild and friendly French teacher on best selling novels. When the lady's husband, who is supposed to be off on a cruise to South America, drops into the quiet hideout and an investigator for the department of Internal Revenue arrives on the scene at the same time the fun begins. For the rest of the evening "Janus" squares the circle in the highest good humor.

Dick Becker as the bewildered and indignant husband and Scott Foster as the meticulous Internal Revenue man prove to be deft indeed with a line and a laugh. Dixon McGrath shows a fine sense of characterization in his portrayal of the French teacher; he manages a nice blend of Casper Milquetoast with flashes of Marlon Brando. The dry witted authors' agent as played by Rose Helen Mellert delivers her rapid-fire dialogue with professional ease and a flair for comedy.

Ralph Harper has designed a perfect Greenwich Village hideaway and the mood of upside-down humor provided an evening of rollicking entertainment that delighted the first-night audience.

Performance will be repeated tonight and Saturday. Curtain at 8:30.

Americans open an average of 60 million cans of food every 24 hours.

Piano Students Will Give Recital Monday

Sally Emmerling "Deep Purple," DeRose.

Faye Mertine "Manhattan Serenade," by Alter.

Peter Goldfarb "Park Avenue Fantasy," Savino.

Frank Galietta "Prelude No. 2," Gershwin.

Christina Gorham, vocalist "Summertime," and "Love Walked In," by Gershwin.

The Mature Parent

BY MRS. MURIEL LAWRENCE

Irritation in Children Can Manifest Trust

MRS. MURIEL LAWRENCE
Newspaper Enterprise Assn.

Dear Mrs. Lawrence:

I was comforted by the column in which you said that adolescents' blowups at parents mean trust of us. Will you say some more about this? Our 16-year-old daughter has broken with a boy she's been dating for eight months, and though her father is patient with her, her outbursts of irritation at me get me down.

Answer: Did you ever take your daughter shopping with you when she was a small girl? If so, you'll recall how she began to get tired as you moved from counter to counter. Her baby leg muscles could no longer sustain the burden of her own weight. So what did she do? She lifted her arms up and said, "Carry me, mommy." She entrusted her bodily exhaustion to your supply of greater strength.

In adolescence, the young do much the same thing.

A daughter loses a boy friend —and her young self-confidence begins to tire. It can't sustain the extra burden put on it by what she feels is a social failure. So she transfers to us the irritability she feels toward herself, she says in effect, "Carry me, mommy." She entrusts her emotional weakness to our greater emotional strength.

Of course we're not made of iron. We too may be having experiences that deplete our supply of emotional strength. We may have shown our husband that we distrust the way he is dealing with an arbitrary employer. We may be disturbed by a financial situation that won't let us visit an ailing parent in a distant state. Whatever the reason, we get to feeling that we're a pretty disappointing person. Under these circumstances, adolscent fault-finding can get under our skin.

But even then, we don't have to hit back. Not if we're brave enough to tell the truth, to say, "I'm feeling a little disappointed in myself today. I'd like it if you'd wait to tell how I've disappointed you until I feel more cheerful."

Discovering that we can tolerate self-doubt without anxiety is encouraging to the adolescent who is using criticism of us to express self-criticism.

We cannot carry his emotional weight forever. Though in emergencies we may do so, he has to learn that everyone fails at something, that nobody is irresistible, that we all have to finally accept ourselves as we are. Adolescents need examples of parents who can do just that.

The new officers will be installed at the annual Jaycee-Jayncee Installation dinner-dance to be held Saturday, May 27 at the Stuyvesant-Kingston Hotel, Mrs. Frederick Moore, present president, thanked her board of director and the general membership for making her year such a successful one.

Mrs. Albert Trowbridge and Mrs. James Nerone also worked on this committee.

For the third consecutive year the Jayncees will display and sell their unusual and distinctive assortment of Christmas candles. However, this year's new selection of candles will be featured and sold only at the Ulster County Fair in Forsyth Park in July.

Going to Wedding Without Invitation

Q: I have been going out quite steadily with a boy for the past six months. A cousin of his, whom I have never met, is going to be married next month. My boy friend and his family have been invited to the wedding, but I have not. He is trying to persuade me to go with him to the church wedding and reception. He assures me that I will be welcome. He thinks I'm quaint because I won't go without an invitation.

A: You are entirely right. It would be wrong for you to go to the wedding on his say-so alone. If he is sure you will be welcome, it is certainly a very simple matter for him to ask his cousin to send you an invitation.

Party in Honor of Engagement

Q: My daughter's engagement was announced two months ago. Due to illness in the family, we were unable to give an engagement party. I would like to know if it would be proper to give a party for the young couple at this time?

A: An engagement party is given to announce an engagement, and to give such a party two months after your daughter's engagement has been announced would not make any sense. You can, however, give a party in honor of the young couple's engagement.

Choosing the Wedding Party

Q: One of the bridesmaids at my own wedding asked me to be a bridesmaid at her wedding, but has said nothing about including my husband in the wedding party. If her fiance didn't know my husband that would be an excuse for leaving him out, but we have all been friends for several years. Do you think it proper to ask me alone and, if not, should I back out?

A: It is entirely proper to ask you alone. The fact that you are an intimate friend of the bride does not in any way mean that your husband is one of the few best friends of the groom whom he chooses to be his best man and ushers.

Rail Workers Return

PARIS (AP)—French railway workers returned to work today after a crippling nationwide strike and immediately set to work manning extra trains for big Pentecost weekend crowds. With hardly a hitch, trains began rolling normally again at noon.

The 36-hour strike for higher pay had stalled almost all rail transport in the country. Coupled with strikes by subway, gas and electric workers, the walkout left French tempers frayed to the breaking point.

POLLY'S QUIZ

By POLLY CRAMER

A Bit of Ingenuity Enlarges Closet Space

Every homemaker dreams of more closet space. No house ever seems to have quite enough storage room. But often this seeming lack is due to poor arrangement of what we have. A little work will turn the average closet into an attractive and really efficient unit.

More of dad's clothes can hang in the same space if there are two rods; one for the coats above the one for shirts. The upper rod should be longer than the one below; thus pants can hang straight at one end. Mother can divide her space the same way, with blouses above skirts and dresses at one side.

Shoe racks fastened to the floor will be an incentive to neatness. Small drawer units are perfect for gloves, belts and sweaters. Use hat stands or clear storage boxes for hats.

Dear Polly: My furniture is gray. I love lavender and would like to have living and dining room walls painted that color. I want to show up the blond wood of the furniture. What about it? What color for draperies? How about purple living room furniture? — Mrs. M. P.

Dear Mrs. M. P.: Do you really like lavender well enough to live with such large areas of it? Purple living room furniture might also prove a bit tiresome after the newness wears off. Since you want to highlight your blond woods, consider other deep coolrs. There's Wedgewood blue or pine green. If you must have purple tones, select a rich amethyst for the walls and use white draperies. Have some furniture in white and others in a bold contemporary print combining amethyst, deep gray, white with a little yellow and green.

Dear Polly: Please help me with color for living room walls and drapes. One wall is birch paneling. Chesterfield and chair are in turquoise. One chair is raspberry and a lamp is coral. —Confused.

Dear Confused: How did that coral lamp get into your living room? Do change it. Creamy white walls and draperies made of printed fabric in an off-white background printed in raspberry and turquoise should help hold things together.

Dear Polly: I have no pictures hanging in my home. I have seen few that I would like to own. My income is not equal to paintings. A picture is something special to me. Are there reproductions of good subject matter available at reasonable prices? If so, where? How can I broaden my knowledge of art? —Mrs. L. N. E.

Dear Mrs. L. N. E.: There are many good reproduction prints on the market. First, get some books from the library. Browse through them and read until you form some definite taste or preference. Prints of famous art often may be purchased at museums. Some even offer rental service. Write the Metropolitan Museum of Art in New York City for information on prints they have for sale.

Dear reader: A heavy volume of mail doesn't permit Mrs. Cramer to answer her letters and post cards individually. But she will comment in her column on decorating problems of general interest. She cannot undertake to return floor plans or fabric swatches which are enclosed with letters.

Mind Needs Refurbishing As Well as Your Home

RUTH MILLETT
Newspaper Enterprise Assn.

"I just don't have time to read," said a housewife, mother of two, with a mixture of apology and complacency.

And the truth is she doesn't have time for reading — and won't — until she decides that her mind is more important than her house.

For she will spend hours at sewing so that the curtains in her bathroom will cause feminine guests to exclaim, and she will wear herself out in an effort to be known as a "perfect housekeeper."

But she has no time left for reading and thinking—so that her mind will be as active as her hands, and her thoughts at least as original as her fancy work.

Her house has personality, but she is content to let her mind remain as drab and colorless as the draperies she threw out years ago.

If she hadn't done anything to rejuvenate her house in five years she would be ashamed. But she hasn't done anything to mentally keep pace with her age and the times in longer than that—and she can excuse it with "But I just haven't the time."

Young Buck Is Freed After Entering Home

UTICA, N.Y. (AP) — A young buck that jumped through the window of the city comptroller's home suffered only a small cut and won his freedom, but the comptroller said the damage to his home was considerable.

Police and humane society employes captured the deer Thursday in the cellar of Thomas Nelson's home after the animal upended furniture on the first floor.

The deer was released in the country.

Hollywood News, Views

HOLLYWOOD (AP)—Bob Hope is in the midst of two big deals—one already has brought him $1 million for some San Fernando Valley acreage that he bought in 1929 for $16,000.

"The other," Rapid Robert told a newsman Thursday, "is with Fred Astaire. I offered him 12 Emmy acceptance jokes, slightly out of style, for one Emmy."

Astaire and his shows have won 11.

Many in Hollywood were disappointed Tuesday night when Hope didn't get the TV Academy's Emmy for humor. It went to Jack Benny, always deserving, but a previous winner.

It was the first time in Hope's famed career that he had ever been nominated for anything on talent alone. He has more honorary awards than he has Bing Crosby jokes.

Hope, in defeat, was his usual bouncing self but he was hurt.

His wife Dolores tried to console him by saying the Emmy didn't mean that much.

"It means a lot to the guy who walks off with one," answered Bob.

He didn't show up at the Emmy party afterwards but it's doubtful if he would had he won. He had gone to the funeral of his old friend Gary Cooper, worked a full day shooting scenes for "Bachelor in Paradise" with Lana Turner and then made the Emmy show. He had an early call the next morning.

Warrants Held For 2, Blocked Auto of Woman

MARCY, N. Y. (AP)—Sheriff's deputies held warrants today for two construction workers who allegedly blocked the automobile of a woman who says she sought to settle a claim with the State Power Authority.

The warrants, charging disturbing the peace and issued last night on the complaint of Mrs. Betty Pawloski, intensified the feud between farmers of this community in the Adirondack foothills and the Power Authority which has obtained easements on their land. A contractor for the authority is erecting an electric transmission line between Niagara Falls and Massena.

The complainant is the wife of Stephen Pawloski, who claimed construction workers rammed a crane through his farm gate and beat him and two other farm residents Wednesday.

Mrs. Pawloski contends the Power Authority owes her husband $150 for alleged damages to cropland last fall.

The warrants issued were for "John Doe" and "Joe Roe." Mrs. Pawloski said she did not know the workers' names.

The feud has smouldered since last fall. The farmers say the authority has acted in a high-handed manner in acquiring land and has been slow to make payments. The authority has denied the charges.

Looks Brighter For Settlement In Builder Strike

ALBANY, N.Y. (AP)—Negotiators in a 19-day-old construction strike moved into another round of negotiations today after a session Thursday produced, in the words of a management spokesman, "the most substantial progress to date."

The bright note concerned union hiring practices, the spokesman for the Eastern New York Contractors Association said.

But, he added, the contractors and Local 106 of the Operating Engineers Union remained wide apart on wages. He said a new union demand for an across-the-board increase of 20 cents an hour was "totally unrealistic."

The strike and a subsequent shutdown by contractors has idled more than 10,000 workers and halted construction on projects valued at $40 million in Eastern New York northward from Greene and Columbia counties.

Saugerties Man Hurt In Bloomington Crash

George Turner, 33, of Simmons Park, Barclay Heights is reported in apparently fair condition at Kingston Hospital today following a mishap in which his car left Route 32 near Bloomington Thursday night and struck a tree, Kingston state police said.

Troopers said Turner, a prominent member of Saugerties Jaycees, suffered lacerations of the forehead. He was traveling north on Route 32 at approximately 9:50 p. m. when he apparently lost control and the vehicle ran off the road and struck a tree. Turner was driving a 1960 sedan owned by New Holland Machine Co., troopers reported.

Sister, 11, Saves Two Tots From Blaze at Home

Terry Buske, 10 months, was asleep, and his sister, Virginia, 3, was watching television Thursday when a space heater caught fire in the living room of their 1½-story frame home after a fuel can toppled.

Their sister, Nancy Buske, a fifth grader in Oswego who was babysitting, ran upstairs and carried Terry and Virginia to safety.

The other six children of the family were in school. Their parents, Mr. and Mrs. Albert Buske, were looking for work for him in Binghamton.

Johnson to View Taj Mahal Today

AGRA, India (AP)—U. S. Vice President Lyndon B. Johnson flew to this city of the Taj Mahal today for a look at the famed Moslem tomb and Indian villages nearby.

He covered much of the ground visited by President Eisenhower in December 1959 to see a typical Indian village and one modernized with the help of American funds.

The touring Texan was up at daybreak and breakfasted with Prime Minister Nehru before leaving New Delhi for this tourist mecca 110 miles south of the capital.

The two leaders conferred for nearly five hours Thursday, mostly about India's third five-year development plan, which needs about a billion dollars a year in foreign support.

Nehru told reporters that the talks "went off very well," but there was no announcement that Johnson made any specific commitments.

Gunboat Relic Is Smithsonian's Now

WILLSBORO, N.Y. (AP)—A 36-foot gunboat that was sunk in a Revolutionary War battle and lay at the bottom of Lake Champlain for 159 years has been given to the Smithsonian Institution.

The boat, the Philadelphia, was one of a small fleet hurriedly built at nearby Whitehall in 1776 under the direction of Benedict Arnold. It was sunk by a British cannon ball in the Battle of Valcour Island that same year.

The desperate American effort succeeded, however, in turning back British forces that came down the lake from Canada.

The Philadelphia was located and raised from the lake in 1935 by L. F. Haggelund, and since then has been in a shed beside his home. He died last fall and, at his request, his widow offered the relic to the Smithsonian.

Frank Taylor, director of the Museum of History and Technology of the Smithsonian, said the institution would move the boat to Washington, D.C., as soon as possible.

Livingston GOP Leader Resigns Over Judgeships

GENESEO, N.Y. (AP)—A battle among Livingston County Republican Committee members over endorsements for new State Supreme Court judgeships has resulted in the resignation of Chairman J. Donald Root.

Root stepped down Thursday night at a committee meeting in view, he said, of the committee's intention of changing its rules to force his resignation.

Assemblyman Kenneth Willard, vice chairman of the committee, was named acting chairman.

Had His Own Choice

Root had been in trouble with the committee since he announced his support for State Sen. Austin Erwin's son for one of three new state supreme court judgeships in the eight-county Seventh Judicial District.

Livingston County Judge George Newton is the committee's official choice for the $26,000-a-year post.

Root refused to resign last month after the committee voted to ask him to give up the job.

State Sen. Austin Erwin touched off the controversy last month when he nominated his son, Austin Jr., 42, for one of the new judgeships. The elder Erwin has great influence in state politics as chairman of the Senate Finance Committee.

Claimed Dictation

Another dispute arose when county leaders claimed Monroe County Chairman Gordon E. Howe was attempting to dictate to them.

Howe said he felt Monroe County, with more delegates than all the other seven counties combined, should at least be given the right to turn down undesirable candidates, leaving the third to Monroe County.

Leaders of five of the eight counties walked out of the meeting. State GOP Chairman L. Judson Morhouse visited Rochester this week in an apparently futile attempt to resolve the issue.

State Court of Claims Judge William G. Easton of Rochester and Steuben County Judge Domenick Gabrielli are favored for the other two judgeships.

Bans Public Meetings

CAPE TOWN, South Africa (AP)—The South African government today banned all public meetings except church services and some other specially permitted gatherings throughout South Africa and South West Africa for six weeks.

The period—May 19 to June 26—covers the last three days of May when South Africa's nonwhites have been called by their leaders to stage work strikes and nationwide demonstrations against the proclamation of a new South African republic on May 31.

Says Gotham Was Overcharged for Lights, Meters

NEW YORK (AP)—An official of the State Investigation Commission says the city has been overcharged about $2 million a year on contracts for maintenance of lighting, air raid sirens and parking meters.

The situation was blamed largely on the city's failure to give proper supervision to its contracts with the Broadway Maintenance Corp., of New York City, and the Welsbach Corp., of Philadelphia.

The overcharge was alleged Thursday by Whitney North Seymour Jr., chairman of a special unit of the commission, as the commission concluded a three-day hearing on the city's contracts with the two companies.

Commission Chairman Goodman A. Sarachan said "the possibility of excessive charges in these city contracts is very real."

"We hope the city will take prompt corrective action," he added.

The two companies have shared all the city's street and traffic light contracts for 17 years. In addition, Broadway Maintenance has serviced the air raid sirens and parking meters. Mayor Robert F. Wagner canceled the parking meter contract last March on the ground of poor performance.

Fellow Driver Is Called Finger Man In Valk Slaying

NEW YORK (AP) —A fellow driver with United Parcel Service is accused of being the finger man in the attempted robbery which resulted in the slaying of Richard Valk.

Valk, 50, was shot Wednesday afternoon by a gunman whom he found trying to loot his truck, parked on an upper East Side street. The driver died a few minutes later in a hospital.

Police, working from the getaway car's license number, noted by witnesses, and parking summonses issued against it, early Thursday picked up Lawrence Catanzaro, 37, and Jerry McChesney, 18, both of Manhattan. The getaway car had been abandoned and set afire, but the blaze was put out before it did much damage.

Questioning of the two men led officers to Warren (Eddie) Hill, 36, of The Bronx. Hill was shot three times in a gun duel with police. Although described as in critical condition in Fordham Hospital, he was expected to recover. He was booked on holding charges.

McChesney and Catanzaro were charged with homicide.

Later Thursday, authorities picked up Joseph J. Lonergan, 20, a United Parcel driver, accused of giving the other men information on Valk's route. Lonergan was booked on charges of homicide and attempted robbery.

Picket Claims Injury

JAMESTOWN, N. Y. (AP)—A picket at the struck Art Metal Co. plant said he received an arm injury Thursday when he was struck by an auto driven by a company executive.

Rudolph Petrosky, 33, of Jamestown, was one of several pickets outside the plant after Lodge 1559 of the International Association of Machinists rejected the office furniture company's contract offer Thursday.

Says Yanks Alive

BAN NAMONE, Laos (AP)—A neutralist reported today that two American fliers and an American television cameraman missing since their helicopter went down in rebel territory are alive and well.

Presumably they are prisoners of the Pathet Lao, but the Pathet Lao said only they had not heard of the incident and would check.

Doubts Rail Walkout Despite Strike Call

CHICAGO (AP) — A strike against the nation's railroads has been called for Monday by the Railroad Yardmasters of America. But a spokesman for the carriers says there will be no walkout for at least two months.

Milton G. Schoch, president of the nonoperating union representing some 5,000 workers who make up the trains, said the work stoppage could tie up the nation's major railroads. Schoch confirmed the strike call Thursday night but declined to disclose issues in the dispute.

60 Days Normal

A spokesman for the railroad, however, said the dispute involved wages and work rules and would go before an emergency board under procedures of the National (railway) Labor Act. Such action normally delays a strike by at least 60 days.

Theodore M. Short, chairman of the Western Carriers Conference, said he expected an emergency board to be named by the President would meet in Washington Tuesday. He said he had received unofficial notice to that effect.

Schoch asked if he though the President would appoint an emergency board, said: "Oh, yes. I'm not worrying." He did not elaborate.

The rail spokesman said initial negotiations between the railroads and the union broke down last year. Then, as specified by law, negotiations resumed under auspices of the National Mediation Board.

Arbitration Declined

The board proferred arbitration March 16, but the yardmasters, one of 16 nonoperating unions, declined. The brotherhood, in addition to a wage hike, is seeking work rules changes. The carriers also are asking changes in work rules and a decrease in pay.

Short said negotiations in 1959 between the railroads and various union set a wage pattern which the yardmasters declined to accept. Other railroad unions accepted new contracts providing wage increases and separating work rules out as a special issue for study by a federal commission.

The Railway Labor Act provides that the President can appoint a fact-finding board to review the dispute and make recommendations. This board has 30 days to make its report and the law provides another 30-day cooling off period before a strike can be called.

Newburgh Council Defends City Manager, Under Fire By State on Welfare Quiz

Rhinecliff Man Is Found Dead in Car

A 50-year-old Rhinecliff man was found dead in his car Thursday morning with a link of rubber hose passed from the exhaust through a window of the vehicle.

Charles Merrihew was found dead in the car parked in front of his home by his son, Kenneth, about 6:10 a. m.

Rhinebeck state police reported that he had apparently been dead since late Wednesday night.

A section of hose from a vacuum cleaner was used to pass exhaust fumes into the interior of the car.

NEWBURGH, N.Y. (AP)—The Newburgh City Council is defending City Manager Joseph Mitchell against criticism by a state official for the police interrogation of welfare fund recipients.

The four-member council sent a telegram to State Welfare Commissioner Raymond W. Houston supporting Mitchell and the questioning procedure.

The telegram was sent Thursday a few hours after release of a letter to Mitchell from Clifford P. Talcott, area director of the State Welfare Department.

Talcott threatened to halt all state and federal welfare payments to the city because relief clients had been required to appear for police questioning last May 1 or lose their payments.

Mitchell had ordered the questioning by police to verify the qualifications of the relief clients. In response to Mitchell's order, 274 persons appeared at police headquarters for questioning. The payment check of one person who did not appear was canceled.

Talcott told Mitchell in the letter:

"You had no right to call a muster which consisted of ordering ambulatory welfare recipients, including the aged, the blind, the disabled, the handicapped, and mothers to go to Newburgh police headquarters."

Mitchell said in a public statement: "I feel personally that I did not violate any federal or state regulation."

Repatriates Due From Cuba Today

MIAMI, Fla. (AP)—A planeload of Americans is due here late today from Cuba, where many had been real or virtual prisoners of the turbulent Fidel Castro regime.

Instead of the rum and night club souvenirs of happier days, these repatriates will bring home memories of armed militiamen confiscating their property or hazing them into jails.

Their exit from Havana is being expedited by the Swiss Embassy, which represents the United States in Cuba since the U.S. break in diplomatic relations with Castro's revolutionary government.

A host of other Americans, eager to quit Cuba, still had frustrating hurdles to clear in the shape of permits to leave. Lack of credentials acceptable to Castro officials was a common complication.

Today's special repatriation flight of Pan American World Airways is expected to take some of the pressure off accommodations in embassies at Havana, which have sheltered numerous Americans since the abortive April 17 invasion of Cuban exiles with U.S. support triggered a crackdown on U.S. citizens throughout Cuba.

Some of the Americans who didn't reach embassy protection were held in jail or in makeshift concentration points. Their homes and business offices were ransacked.

Troopers Probe Highland Brawl

Highland state police are investigating a brawl at a tavern in that village about 2 a. m. today which put a Poughkeepsie man in Vassar Hospital with a broken leg and other injuries.

Michael O'Shea was admitted to the hospital in Poughkeepsie with the injured leg and severely beaten face, troopers reported.

Sgt. E. E. Winkky said O'Shea was in no condition to talk to troopers this morning. Details of the fracas, which occurred at the Cherry Hill Tavern, were still under investigation today by Investigator Michael Lisman, BCI, and Troopers Harry Foster and James Kaljian.

Police Release Negroes

BIRMINGHAM, Ala. (AP)—City police during the night took seven Negro college students held in protective custody to Ardmore, Ala., on the Tennessee line, and released them.

At Ardmore, Police Commissioner Eugene Connor, who was with the group, told them: "There is the Tennessee line. Cross it and save this state and yourself a lot of trouble."

He said one of the Negroes told him, "We'll see you back in Birmingham about noon."

Reveals Gestapo Speed in Action On Tito's Jews

JERUSALEM, Israel (AP) — Adolf Eichmann's commandos were geared to move at such lightning speed that they cracked down on Yugoslavia's Jews only two days after the German armies rolled in, a witness at Eichmann's trial testified today.

Alexander Arnon, 63, former Jewish leader in Croatia, testified that the German tanks smashed into Zagreb April 9, 1941, "at 3 o'clock in the afternoon."

"At five o'clock Croatian independence was declared under martial law," he continued.

"On April 11, the Gestapo came to the Jewish community, seized all the money and placed everyone under arrest."

Anti-Jewish measures ensued with rapidity until most of Yugoslavia's 75,000 Jews were caught in one net or another.

His testimony together with that of another survivor, Dr. Hinko Salz, 55, was presented to depict events in Yugoslavia rather than as direct evidence against the defendant charged with directing the extermination of Europe's Jewry in World War II.

The linkup was provided in documents offered by Dep. Atty. Gen. Ya'akov Bar'or. These Nazi files showed the German Embassy in occupied Yugoslavia prodded Berlin for help in deporting Jews and Eichmann himself was sent there to speed things up.

Claims Dairymen Oppose Omnibus Farm Bill of JFK

WASHINGTON (AP)—The manager of a Northeastern dairy cooperative said today dairymen oppose the Kennedy administration's omnibus farm bill.

He said it fails to provide adequate representation at the grass roots.

Robert C. Forsythe of the Metropolitan Cooperative Milk Producers Bargaining Agency, Syracuse, N. Y., said dairy cooperatives had vast experience in developing milk-marketing programs and therefore should be given a greater voice on the National Farmer Advisory Committee for Milk.

Forsythe made the remarks in prepared testimony before the Senate Agriculture Committee.

He also claimed that proposed dairy grading and inspection requirements constituted a step toward adoption of a national dairy sanitation code, a move Northeastern dairymen oppose on the ground it would lead to flooding their markets with milk from the Midwest.

Forsythe's cooperative claims to represent 22,000 dairymen in New York, New Jersey, Pennsylvania and Vermont.

$8 Million Jobs Due for Oswego

ALBANY, N. Y. (AP) — Gov. Rockefeller announced today that the state would place under contract approximately $8.8 million in construction projects in the Oswego area.

Rockefeller made the announcement after meeting with Assemblyman Edward F. Crawford, R-Oswego, for a discussion of that area's needs.

The public works spending will be part of a state program to accelerate state spending in areas with high unemployment.

Rockefeller said the construction would include $6.7 million for expansion of the State University College of Education at Oswego.

This work will include an education and practice school costing $3 million, a dormitory costing $1.7 million and an addition to the industrial arts building at a cost of $1.5 million.

Five smaller projects will range to $200,000 each.

The new dormitory will house 400 students.

The governor also said the state would make $2 million available to the Oswego Port Authority this year to cover costs of land reclamation, underground utilities, warehouse foundations and other work in connection with the port's operations.

The authority will repay the money from revenues in future years.

Rockefeller said a recent decision of Aluminium Limited to establish a $30-million rolling mill at Oswego "was greatly influenced by the existence of Oswego port facilities and its current expansion program."

Budget Director T. Norman Hurd, Dr. William J. Ronan, Rockefeller's secretary, and other state officials participated in the meeting with Crawford.

Two Senators Celebrate

Jeff Chandler Is Critical After Major Operation

CULVER CITY, Calif. (AP)—Jeff Chandler, who hitchhiked to Hollywood 16 years ago to fulfill a boyhood dream of movie stardom, is in critical condition today after a 7½-hour emergency operation to stop abdominal bleeding.

The graying 42-year-old actor was given multiple blood transfusions Thursday. He will be under close observation at Culver City Hospital at least until Saturday evening, a spokesman said.

The surgery followed an operation for a slipped spinal disc, suffered while filming "The Marauders" in the Philippine Islands a month ago. The 6-foot 4-inch, 200-pound star was given a series of injections to deaden nerves and lessen pressure while he completed the movie.

He was hospitalized after his return to Hollywood.

The actor's father, Philip Grossel, and Chandler's former wife Marjorie waited at the hospital. Several surgeons attended him.

Chandler, a native of Brooklyn, N. Y., served in the Army during World War II. He hitchhiked to Hollywood after his discharge.

He got several radio acting jobs and his movie career was launched after a studio executive heard him in a radio thriller.

He achieved movie stardom in 1950 as the Indian chief Cochise in "Broken Arrow." A series of hit films followed.

The handsome actor was divorced a year ago after several separations. He has two daughters, Jamie, 14, and Dana, 11.

Woodstock Gals, Where Are You?

Only eight days remain before Miss Woodstock Pageant is held at the Woodstock Playhouse (May 27) under the auspices of the Woodstock Jaycees.

The Woodstock Pageant is county wide, Michael Flanagan, director of the pageant, has announced but there is major disappointment in the Woodstock Jaycee camp.

Despite the plethora of beautiful and talented young ladies in Woodstock area, not one has yet come forward to register for this contest which can lead to the New York State title and eventually the biggest prize of all, Miss America.

Jaycees are convinced that there are several Woodstock girls with sufficient beauty and talent to win this important contest. The only thing missing seems to be desire and incentive. The Jaycees are appealing to the young ladies' civic pride to come forward and start the march toward Miss America.

Power Balance Shown by Bid

By OSWALD JACOBY
Written for Newspaper Enterprise Assn.

Playing at four spades South will have an anxious moment if West underleads his ace of clubs, but it will be a brief anxious moment; he will see that he can't do any good by playing low from dummy so he will go up with the king.

Then he will be able to pull trumps; discard his second club on dummy's fourth heart and make five odd instead of a mere four.

There is very little to the bidding. North has a nice double of West's opening heart bid and South should reply to the double by a jump to two spades.

This jump on a mere eight high card points and a good five-card suit may look a trifle drastic but it is the correct bid. Experience has shown that when your partner doubles an adverse opening bid you should use the jump to show the balance of power, not a rock crusher.

Since the opening bid and the double will usually account for at least 26 high card points, 8 to 10 points will account for this balance of power and you jump to show it.

This jump is not a forcing bid, but North can afford to go right to game anyway. West is marked with most of whatever high cards are going to be missing so that finesses are going to work and North does have mighty good support for spades.

Vienna Discussion Seen Feeling Out Process

2 Leaders May Do Lots of Talking But Settling Problems Is Doubtful

By JAMES MARLOW
Associated Press News Analyst

WASHINGTON (AP)—The irony in a Kennedy-Khrushchev meeting is that they can't possibly settle their most unsettling difference.

It's that determination of theirs to root around in each other's front yard.

Soviet Premier Khrushchev can't agree not to since communism is dedicated to gobbling up any place it can. Laos is the most recent example.

And, since President Kennedy is dedicated to stopping any such thing, he can't agree not to stop it.

Room for Discussion

They still have room for discussing a couple of other major problems, such as a ban on nuclear testing and disarmament.

But, unfortunately for the conversations and world peace, that is ironic too.

1. How, for instance, is the Soviet Union going to agree to ban tests so long as France, the American ally, keeps on developing atomic power and is free to test?

The French haven't shown any willingness not to.

2. And how, for instance, can this country agree not to test if Red China, the Soviet Union's ally develops atomic power, as it will, and starts testing?

Red China is not only a menace to the United States now but, when it gets atomic weapons, may be even a worse menace to the Soviet Union.

But as of this moment the United States, which doesn't officially recognize Red China, must pretend in international dealings it doesn't exist.

Settlement Hope Slim

So, while Kennedy and Khrushchev can talk about a lot of things, none will be more important than those mentioned here—and they're not likely to settle any of them.

Already, before the two men get near each other, their meeting is being represented more as a feeling-out process than a meaty discussion.

And if that's the way it is, Khrushchev will hardly try to demolish Kennedy as he did former President Eisenhower a year ago in Paris after the American U-2 flight over the Soviet Union.

But it's going to be Khrushchev and not Kennedy who can afford to be cocky. All the recent setbacks have been on the American side, not on the Soviet Union's.

The Communist overrunning of Laos, for instance. The ridiculous American-backed invasion of Cuba, one of the biggest pieces of nonsense in the 20th Century.

And only this week the South Korean army, much to America's distaste, threw out the American-backed government for being corrupt.

May High-Hat JFK

But Korea can't stand too much of this instability—only a year ago the population tossed out American-backed President Syngman Rhee for tyranny—without encouraging Communist subversion from within if not attack from without.

And the Kennedy administration, even in the Western Hemisphere, is braced for more Castros and more Cubas.

If Kennedy knows that, then Khrushchev probably knows it better. This puts him in a position to high-hat the President a bit.

And if he does, it won't do American prestige already badly dented and punctured this past year, any good.

Courses in Russian Offered to Teachers

ALBANY, N.Y. (AP) — Seven colleges will offer courses in the Russian language to elementary and high school teachers of New York State this summer.

The State Education Department will pay fees and tuition. Teachers in non-public, as well as public schools, are eligible.

The purpose of the program, the department said today, is to give teachers sufficient background to enable them to teach Russian in their schools.

Courses in Russian now are being offered in 55 high schools in the state, compared with 25 a year ago.

The summer courses for teachers will be given at Columbia, Fordham, Syracuse and Rochester universities and Canisius, Hofstra and Vassar colleges.

It Costs 8 to 12 Cents A Mile to Run Your Car

Have you ever figured what it costs to run your car each year?

The answer is particularly important if you are operating on a tight budget or are thinking of buying that second car.

A study by the American Petroleum Institute can help you to figure car operating costs and discover ways of trimming expenses.

Divide your car expenses into fixed and variable costs. Your fixed costs change little regardless how much or how little driving you do. They include insurance, taxes, license and registration fees and depreciation.

Under taxes include only property and use taxes. Federal and state excise taxes and state taxes are paid only when you buy your car and thus should be considered part of the total purchase price.

Generally the largest single cost of owning a new or recent model car is depreciation. Depreciation is the difference between what you paid for the car and what you can get when you sell it. A rule-of-thumb offered for depreciation of a lower-priced card is up to $800 for the first year, $600 for the second and about $100 less for each successive year thereafter.

Variable costs include gasoline, oil, tires, maintenance and repairs. These depend upon the number of miles you drive and how you use your car.

According to the API the cost of oil and gas for some model cars may vary as much as 50 per cent depending upon how a car is driven, whether it travels in city traffic, flat or mountainous country, the loads carried, its condition.

This is how the expert says you can determine car costs:

Fill your gas tank and record mileage. Drive normally until the tank is nearly empty. Have it refilled. Divide the number of miles driven by the gallons required to fill the tank. This gives you an approximate miles per gallon you are getting. To achieve the closest possible figure you should repeat this three or four time and average your findings.

Add to your gas expense the complete cost for an oil change each time one is made. A formula that covers most driving conditions recommends changing oil every 30 days in winter, every 60 days in summer, never exceeding 2,000 miles between changes.

Say you drive 10,000 miles a year getting 14.5 miles to the gallon, you'll be using 689.7 gallons of gas. At an average cost of 35 cents per gallon, tax included, you'd spend $241.40 for gas. Add $21 for the recommended annual seven changes of oil and your gas and oil total $262.40 each year.

Maintenance costs vary widely. A rule of thumb offered for a popular-priced four-door sedan with an 8-cylinder engine is .79 of a cent per mile.

If you are going to exceed 18,000 miles annually, add an extra $14.75 per 1,000 miles to depreciation.

If you are an average motorist doing an average 10,000 miles per year, your cost per mile should vary between 8 and 12 cents.

Says Christians Must Achieve a New Order

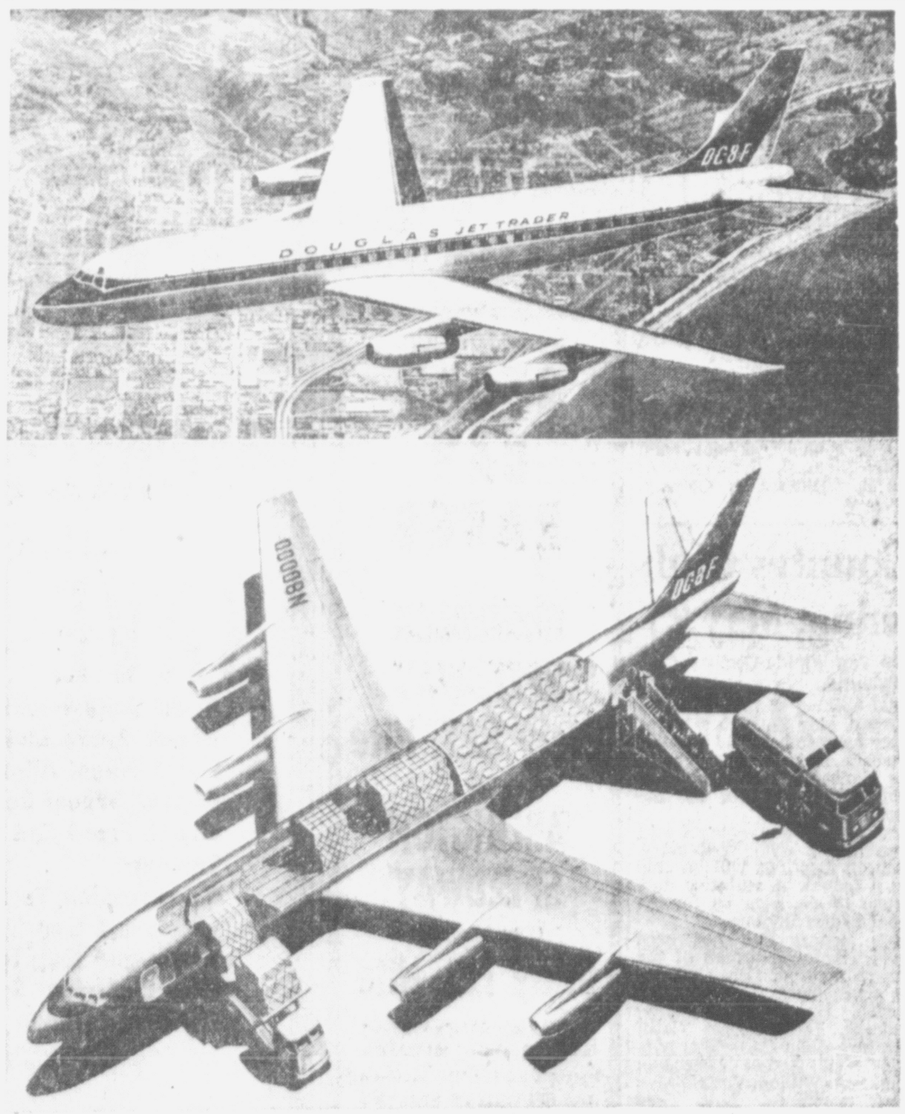

MASSENA, N.Y. (AP) — Christians must lead the world out of its "darkness and despair" and achieve a new order, Bishop Walter C. Gum of Louisville, Ky., says.

The Methodist bishop Thursday told the 750 delegates at the annual meeting of the Northern New York Conference of the Methodist Church:

"I have great hope for the Methodist Church in part and the Christian church as a whole in the present world darkness.

"This is the church's greatest hour. There is greater challenge today than ever before for young people to be Christians."

The four-day meeting ends Sunday.

As the first pure jet available for mass cargo movement, the Jet Trader will fly cargo at half the current rate and cut passenger fares by 20 per cent, say its designers, Douglas Aircraft Corp. The DC-8F will carry—at over 575 m.p.h.—up to 52,000 pounds of cargo and 54 passengers in separate sections. Accommodations will be identical with regular passenger planes. First flight of Jet Trader is scheduled for August, 1962.

Eagles Trounce Wrens, 7 to 2

Bill Holt's second home run of the season triggered a six-run explosion in the fifth inning, as the Wrens trounced the Eagles, 7 to 2, Thursday in the Jaycee Little League.

Steve Guzewich pitched a strong 2-hitter for the Eagles, striking out eight and walking four to win over Billy Ball, who gave up six blows and struck out four.

The two Wrens hits, both singles, came in the first inning when Rue Vel and Jerry Corrado singled and scored on infield outs.

Mike Hawkins singled home Mike Andrews in the third inning for the first Eagles tally. In the sixth Holt slammed his second homer of the season over the left field fence. Dale Van Gassbeck contributed a double to the big rally.

Bob Dunn Holds Bridge City Nine To Three Hits

Big Bob Dunn stopped hard hitting Poughkeepsie High School with three singles yesterday at Dietz Stadium as Kingston High won a well played DUSO League contest, 2-1. A two run rally in the sixth inning decided the tilt in favor of the winners.

Dunn and Dave Boucher of the visitors were hooked up in a scoreless duel going into the last of the sixth. Eric Broberg started the inning with his third straight hit and then Mike Ferraro bombed a triple to the deepest part of right center field.

Richie Sickler hit to the infield and Ferraro was caught off third base, Sickler moving to second on the rundown. Ronie Secreto delivered a single to score Sickler.

A Great Throw

The Pioneers came back in the top of the seventh with a run and had two runners on base before Dunn ended the game. Bob St. Germain started the frame with a walk and John Manning singled. However, Sickler made a great throw to third base nabbing St. Germain. This proved to be the key play of the contest.

After Don Verdi struck out, Boucher singled to drive in a run. Brian Parker reached first on an error before Dunn forced Billy Piazza to pop up for the game's final out.

Broberg had three of the six safeties garnered by the KHS batters. The first sacker rapped out a double and two singles. Ferraro's triple, and singles by Paul Natale and Secreto, were the other safeties off the slants of Boucher.

Dunn walked four and struck out six in his route going performance. Boucher had perfect control and faned three batters.

Pioneers Upset Maroon Despite Costello's 66

Tennis Matches At New Paltz

A tennis exhibition that should be of widespread interest is scheduled Sunday at 2 p. m. at the State University College courts at New Paltz.

The two top players of the university's varsity squad — Roger Ambrose and Gordon Krajna — will play singles and doubles against the No. 1 and No. 2 players at the U. S. Military Academy at West Point. They are brothers Dom and Diedrick Voss.

Buzzy Costello fired a 2-under-par 66 on the par-68 College Hill links at Poughkeepsie yesterday.

Kingston High outstroked the Poughkeepsie High Pioneers, 291 to 290.

Sounds like pretty impressive credentials for Coach Harold Hathaway's Maroon swingers. But, alas and alack, Kingston lost the match, 7½ to 4½ and with the setback went all hopes for the 1961 DUSO League golf championship.

Costello toured the short, but hilly layout in 32-34-66 to defeat Douglas Herring (35-37) in the No. 1 match.

Richie Barthel halved with Howard Rebin, with both shooting identical scores of 39-36-75.

Loses With 73

The backbreaker, insofar as the Kingston hopes were concerned, came in the No. 3 match where Lauren Beaver's excellent 35-38-73 was engulfed by William Conklin's 34-37-71.

Robert Bechtold dropped the No. 4 match with a respectable 39-38-77 to Robert Stauderman's 37-37-74.

And what really hurt is the fact that Poughkeepsie is having one of its poor years on the links. But yesterday was their day.

The Maroons will try to recoup some of their lost prestige in the Section 9 tournament next Wednesday at Grossinger's Country Club links.

White Eagles scored nine runs in the second inning and went on to whip the 35 Club, 14 to 8, in the Recreation softball league Thursday. Glynn's Shoes won over Lincoln Park Inn, 10 to 6.

Tony Turck coasted under a heavy lead to check the 35 Club on nine hits. Herman Sickler slammed a triple and home run for the losers. Frank Turck with two singles and a triple paced the Eagles. Thomas homered and Bob Burns hit three singles.

Rich Hoffman pitched a 6-hitter for Glynn's, who collected 9 safeties off Ron Jansen. Key blows in the Glynn's attack were a home run by Frank Ebelheiser and J. Relyea's triple.

Seeks to Shake Jinx

Don Avery Seeks 1st Victory: Russell Returns to Onteora

Don Avery, the 1960 points winner at Onteora Speedway Park, will be trying desperately to shake that bride groom tag Sunday when the third program of auto racing is presented at the Olive Bridge track.

Avery, a protege of the famous Larry Shurter, has chased two feature winners across the finish line and he figures it's about time he got the checkered flag first.

On opening day, Avery lost by an eyelash to Johnny Flach, a South Westerlo veteran of ten years on the tracks, in one of the most thrilling two-car duels waged at at Onteora.

Last Sunday, Avery picked up steam slowly and had to settle for another second, this time behind Rebel Harris of Poughkeepsie, who led all the way. Avery was coming on fast in the last five laps. He managed to breeze past Flach for the runnerup slot, but couldn't quite overhaul Harris, who is running in a temperature these days.

Expect Crack Field

Racing directors Larry Shurter and Ed Ryan expect to have the Big Three back in action. In addition, the Onteora operators are expecting Stretch Van Steenburgh of Saugerties to bid for his victory of the season.

Van Steenburgh is a seasoned driver who had to bow out of the opening day feature because of motor trouble. His big "No. 1" has since functioned beautifully on nearby tracks.

Larry Shurter envisions a tremendous duel on Sunday among Avery, Flach, Russell and Van Steenburg.

"We also expect several new cars and topnotch drivers and this looks like our biggest day to date," said the veteran driver. "The fans can look forward to a slambang card."

Other favorites slated for action at the beautiful Olive Bridge oval include Pete Keator of Kerhonkson, Bucky Marl, Walt Schubert, the Cold Spring veteran; Art DePuy, Al Ostrander, Bob De Lease and a flock of others.

Antonelli, 125-Game Winner, May Retire From Baseball

CLEVELAND (AP) — Johnny Antonelli, the once-brilliant southpaw who won 125 games in the National League and has only four defeats to show for his first American League campaign, is thinking seriously of retiring from baseball.

But Gabe Paul, the Cleveland Indians' general manager, thinks the 31-year-old pitcher will come around and help the Tribe. Antonelli talked with Paul Thursday night in Cincinnati during the early part of the exhibition game against the Reds. It was the second such discussion held in the past 10 days.

"Johnny is discouraged," said Paul. "He wanted to know if he thought it would be best for all concerned if he hung 'em up. I told him to let me worry about that.

"Nobody but a conscientious man would ask such a question. Another type of guy would just take his money and let it go at that."

Antonelli is earning about $40,000 on the basis of a decade of outstanding pitching in the NL, and twice a 20-game winner. He came to Cleveland from San Francisco along with outfielder Willie Kirkland in a trade for Harvey Kuenn.

"I told John he wasn't the first who got belted for three runs in an inning," Paul related. "I also pointed out that other pitchers have had bad starts and come back.

"All he needs now is a couple of good jobs to make his confidence return. I still think he can help us."

RyneDuren Ties Mark On 4 K,s

By ED WILKS
Associated Press Sports Writer

Ryne Duren tied a major league record with four strikeouts in one innings, but wound up with his third defeat as the Chicago White Sox beat the Los Angeles Angels 6-4 Thursday night. Detroit suffered its first shutout, on the four-hit pitching of Gene Conley, in a 1-0 loss at Boston that shaved the Tigers' American League lead to 4½ games.

Kansas City defeated Minnesota 4-3 with Marv Throneberry driving in all the A's runs, three on a homer off loser Jim Kaat.

The only other game scheduled in the AL, Washington-Baltimore, was postponed because of cold. No games were scheduled in the National League.

Duren, the ex-Yankee fire-baller, took the loss in the seventh inning at Los Angeles when the Sox broke a 4-4 tie and scored a pair of unearned runs. The big right-hander struck out Minnie Minoso leading off the seventh, then fanned Roy Sivers—who reached first when the third strike got past catcher Del Rice for a passed ball. Jim Landis followed with a triple that broke the tie, and after J. C. Martin struck out, Landis came in on a single by Sherm Lollar before Duren whiffed Sammy Esposito.

Four In National

Four National League pitchers had struck out four men in one inning previously, but Duren was only the third to do it in the AL. Walter Johnson, the old Washington Senators' immortal, did it in 1911 and Guy Morton of Cleveland did it in 1916.

Frank Baumann (2-2) won for the Sox in relief.

The Tigers, after walloping 42 hits for 29 runs in three games at Baltimore, managed nothing but singles off Gene Conley (2-3), the ex-Philadelphia Phillie right-hander, who had lost three in a row, walked just two and struck out six in his first complete game in the AL. He retired Rocky Colavito on a pop fly for the final out with the tying run on first.

Boston scored in the fifth off Jim Bunning (2-4) on a single by Pete Runnels and a double by Don Buddin.

Marv Throneberry blasted his fifth home run of the season in the second inning off Kaat (1-3). Then he brought in the clincher in the eighth with a single off right-handed reliever Ed Palmquist, following a walk and single by Andy Carey. Ray Herbert (3-2) won it.

Thunderbirds IBM Winners

Thunderbirds got a 613 pinfall from anchor man, Ray Christiana, to win first place in the three-way rolloff for the 1960-61 championship of the IBM Field Engineering League.

Christiana put together games of 211, 215 and 187 for the big string. Stan Morse rolled 512 for Dodos, who finished third. Hawks took second place.

The Nimrod's Corner

By Old Doc

From the time they are seven until they are 70, human beings are clobbered with the advice to "strike while the iron is hot."

And while it is not intelligent to disagree with such a universal statement of fact, it is nevertheless true that this sage counsel does not apply in the case of fishermen who use minnows for bait.

In their case it might well be changed to say "strike when the iron is stone cold!" Studies have shown that most game fish strike a minnow hard to stun him, then wait until his struggles have ceased, release the tasty tidbit and swallow him head-first. And many fish are lost when a fisherman tries to "set" the hook too early and yanks the minnow out of the fish's mouth. This is where patience comes in, as handy to a fisherman as good looks to a bubble dancer.

It may be 10 seconds, it may be several minutes, but sooner or later the fish will take off again, figuratively patting his stomach after that fine meal of minnow. And that is the time to set the hook.

DRIFTWOOD:

Assemblyman Kenneth Wilson who is the best worm fisherman I know of, Joe Forno, Albert Cashdollar, Bob Holsapple and Harry Ostander are back from their annual trek to Canada. Word has it that the first day they tried to fly in, there was no place to land on the lake because of ice. Ken took a 12 pound trout and there are many in the six to ten pound class. Fly hatches are reported heavy as any since the war, probably due to the absence of floods and no DDT spraying from the air for the past several years. The small and big game season will probably be the same as last year with the exception of the party permit system being extended to all counties bordering Pennsylvania.

Life preservers, boat hooks, fenders, food containers and fishing equipment are often lost by boaters. A definite place for everything normally carried aboard will cut down such losses, because a quick look around in the boat before shoving off will reveal any empty spaces and warn that something has been left behind or misplaced. Locate each piece near the point of anticipated use, both to make it readily accessible when needed and easy to spot when checking. Hooks and racks for fenders, fishing rods, and life jackets keep them in accustomed, convenient places and will help to minimize wear and tear. A row of hooks under the foredeck, for example, will keep life jackets out of the way, safe from damage, while still dry and easily grabbed in emergencies.

Compartmented boxes for thermos bottles and utensils and holders for anchors and fire extinguishers are equally helpful.

It is a good idea to buy children's life jackets in different colors, assigning one to each child. This should help them to keep track of their own gear. Name labels sewn onto the jackets will increase their chances of being returned if lost from the boat.

When buying small items such as jack knives, flashlights and key rings, give preference to those which will float if dropped overboard.

Fink Returns To Rhinebeck SW

Carl Fink of Albany, winner of Rhinebeck Speedway's opening event, defends his laurels against a strong field Saturday night.

Fink, a steady winner at Rhinebeck since last August, will get stiff opposition from Ken Gootermote of Troy, a 10-year veteran who has racked up victories on almost every track of repute in the east and middle west.

Ben Stone, 1960 Mutual champion, is another expected to challenge Fink, along with such regulars as Bill Boo, Bud Glass, Johnny Van Leuvan, Al Ostrander, Harry Brazee, Hoppy Jensen, Carleton Hughes and others.

The program at Rhinebeck will include ten events, with the gates opening at 7:30 and the first race starting at 8:30.

Oregon takes its name from an Indian word meaning "beautiful water."

Nolan's Hit Gives Home Side First Loss in 10 Games

John Nolan singled home two runs in the eighth inning as Saugerties High School ended a nine game winning streak of Arlington, 9-7, in a DCSL match yesterday at the losers' diamond.

The winning hit climaxed a great comeback by the Sawyers who trailed by a 7-2 margin after the fourth inning. It also kept the Sawyers' hope alive of winning the baseball title.

The standings:

	W	L
Wappingers	2	0
Arlington	3	1
Saugerties	3	2
Beacon	1	2
Roosevelt	0	4

Catcher Doug Freese began the eighth inning by drawing a walk and Jim Curley sacrificed him to second base. A hit by Dick Marelli moved Freese to third but he was out at home when attempting to score on an overthrow.

John Comes Through

A walk to Billy Eckhoff then put two runners on the bases and Nolan delivered them with his second safety of the afternoon.

Prior to the winning rally, the visitors were forced to tally three times in the seventh to knot the score. A double by Marelli, Eckhoff's single and a walk to Nolan proceeded a strikeout by Wayne Abbott. Then Lou Spada doubled home the tying tallies and sent the contest into overtime.

Nolan had control trouble early in the game. The home side had seven runs in the first four innings, getting most of them on wild pitches and walks. Arlington had only five hits during the day but Nolan walked nine and uncorked five wild pitches. He struck out 15 batters to pitch himself out of several jams.

Tom Abbott started for Fritz Jordan's club and he lasted until the seventh. Art Crum relieved and was tagged with the loss.

Leading the SHS 13 hit attack was Eckhoff with a pair of doubles and two singles in four times to the dish. He also scored three runs. Marelli doubled and singled twice and crossed the dish four times. Nolan and Spada collected two hits each.

The Sawyers are now 9-3 for the season and will be at Beacon today in a league tussle and against Onteora tomorrow.

Gordie Bell Hurls Ganders to 2-1 Win Over Highland

Freshman righthander Gordie Bell put a huge crimp into the pennant hopes of Highland yesterday at the Marbletown school field in Stone Ridge as Rondout Valley nipped the visitors, 2-1, in a UCAL contest.

Bell hurled a two hitter in beating Highland ace Fred Ellis. He gave up a run without benefit of a base hit in the fifth frame but was invincible in the other innings.

The standings now read like this:

Team	Won.	Lost
New Paltz	5	1
Highland	4	2
Marlboro	3	3
Rondout	3	3
Wallkill	2	4
Onteora	1	5

Two errors by the Gander infield gave the Highlanders a marker in the fifth and with Ellis hurling good ball, it looked big at that stage of the game.

With two outs in the sixth, the home side started a rally. Jim Brush singled and then catcher Keith Johnson drew a walk. A safety by Lynn Johnson netted the tying run and when the throw back on the infield was just lobbed in, Keith Johnson scored all the way from first base, beating the play with a neat slide.

Bell showed perfect control and one of the two base hits he allowed was a blooper. Ellis walked a pair and struck out nine in losing the tough decision.

The Johnson boys had doubles for the winners.

Distrusting all mankind, and banks in particular, Sarah kept her savings in her room.

At last, however, Cupid was too much for her, and she agreed to marry the local butcher.

She asked her mistress: What's the best way to put my money in the bank?

I thought you didn't trust banks! exclaimed her employer.

I still don't, ma'am . . . but it'll be safer in the bank than in the house with a strange man about!

The sixth grade class in reading had followed Ulysses through several years of wandering. Then the teacher asked:

What was Penelope doing all this time?

Louis answered, solemnly: Well, every day she and her maids spun and wove all day; and every night Penelope raveled out all the cloth they had woven during the day. Finally she said to those suitors: I won't marry any of you fellows till I get this sweater done.

Church Giving Rates 2nd Place for Many, Presbyterians Told

By GEORGE W. CORNELL
Associated Press Religion Writer

BUFFALO, N. Y. (AP)—It was an average church, made up of average people, situated on an average street in an average American city.

When time came for the annual every-member canvass to secure financial pledges from members, the church—as many churches do—ran into trouble.

Typical Problems

Today, delegates to the 173rd general assembly of the United Presbyterian Church took a look at some of those typical problems, as portrayed in a biting satire on the way people give to God's work.

"We've got car payments coming up," one family demurred.

"Business is awfully slow right now," another member parried.

"What the hell does the church need with all this money, for Pete's sake!" complained one man.

"The church sends our money into these foreign countries the same . . . as our fool government," another objected. "God helps those who help themselves."

Others took their objections out on the church itself.

"A dance in the church basement of all things! But what can you expect of this new, young minister. It wouldn't have happened in old Dr. Wibberley's time, I can tell you that."

The Rev. Dr. Theodore Gill, president of San Francisco Theological Seminary, arranged the presentation for more than 1,000 church delegates from across the country.

Entitled "Many are called . . . but few get up!", it was staged by the festival theater, of San Anselmo, Calif., under direction of Miss Elizabeth Berryhill, of the San Francisco Seminary. It also showed some highly clumsy canvassing operations.

One pious scripture - quoting church canvasser frightened a new member out of the church. Another sent his 12 - year - old daughter to do his calling—so he could play golf.

Despite the hurdles and excuses, however, the 3¼-million member denomination reported that total giving was up last year by 10 million dollars, to $270,269,839.

The policy-making assembly also took under consideration a plan to shave costs by cutting down the length and other features of annual meetings.

New Paltz Church Addition Will Be Dedicated Sunday

The Rev. Dr. John M. Pearson, superintendent of the Newburgh District of the Methodist Church will be guest preacher at the worship service. Recognition will be given certain members of the congregation and greeting will be given by Mayor Henry DuBois of New Paltz.

The congregation will adjorn to the church lawn where the service of consecration will take place. Refreshments will be served after the ritual.

Regular early morning worship services will be held at 8:30 a. m. and Sunday school will convene at 9:45 a. m.

Adventists Set Sabbath Services

Following the song service which will be led by Mrs. George Landstrom, opening exercises will be conducted by superintendent Mrs. Carl Johnson. Classes will then separate to study and discuss the lesson for the week entitled, "Righteousness Imparted Through Communion With Christ". The children will meet with Mrs. Andrew Seaman and her assistants in their Sabbath School rooms.

Saturday is Spirit of Prophecy Day in all Adventist Churches around the world. Guest speaker in the local church will be Harley Breezee, principal of the Livingston Church school, Livingston.

The Dorcas Society will meet Wednesday from 2 to 4 p. m. Friday, May 26, the Dorcas Society will hold a food sale in the Newberry Store, with Mrs. Magda Myburgh in charge.

The annual camp meeting will be held at Eagle Lake Park June 30 to July 8.
